MACKAY DENIES INSURANCE YARN

Says State Is Not Trying to Put Casualty Companies Out of Business

Reports that the Workmen's Compensation Board was actively campaigning in the interest of a State insurance fund which eventually would drive the regular casualty insurance companies, out of the State brought the following reply yesterday from Harry A. Mackay, chairman of the board:

"In order to correct a rumor that, if not contradicted, might bring about a great misunderstanding, I desire to say that the Workmen's Compensation Board, as far as the question of insurance is concerned, is entirely neutral and officially has no preference nor have we a right to make any favorable suggestion in favor of one company or system of insurance over another.

"There ought to be plenty of competition. The law has created probably $30,000,000 worth of new insurance business in our State. No one should desire that the State fund monopolize this business any more than any other company. There should be a fair field with no favors."

The Schuylkill county court yesterday decided that the findings of fact by State referees and the State Compensation Board are final and are not subject to review by law courts. Courts will only take up appeals from the referees when points of law are in dispute.

The case in dispute was brought by the widow of Frank Poloczev against the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company. Her husband was alleged to have been killed at the Silver Creek colliery, but the company claimed that the real cause of death was a disease for which his employment was not responsible.
