ASSOCIATED AIDS NEED MONEY

Secretary Yates Tells of Many and Varied Services Rendered Poor and Needy

Funds are urgently needed to continue the splendid work that has been conducted by the Associated Aid Societies and just how necessary is the appeal for financial aid is explained to-day in an interview in the Telegraph by John Yates, the general secretary.

In discussing these needs Secretary Yates goes into detail with facts and figures of the wide scope of work that has been undertaken and of why more money is needed to keep the ball rolling.

"It is no easy task," said Secretary Yates, "to place a money value on the many and varied services which the workers of the Associated Aid Societies render to families in distress."

The report of the secretary to the board of managers, which met Friday, shows that a variety of problems must be solved. More than 100 families will be under the care of the workers during November.

The most unsatisfactory work that has to be done from the Associated Aid Societies' viewpoint is the treatment of homeless individuals. They have no friends, and, broken in spirit and health, have lost all incentive to independence.

He Felt So Tired and Depressed

Nerves Were All Out of Tune and His Whole System Was In Bad Shape

TANLAC TUNED HIM UP

"I suffered with kidney trouble for years," says George M. Lyter, who lives at 123 Paxton street, Harrisburg, "and my whole system was so run down that I felt tired and depressed all the time. Not sick exactly but just downright miserable."

"I feel better in every way now. I sleep fine, I have a good appetite and I feel energetic and ready for work."

Tanlac, the famous master medicine is now being specially introduced here by Gorgas' Drug Store, where the Tanlac man is always ready to explain the uses of and the benefits to be derived from this master medicine.

REVIEW OF MAJESTIC BILL

Varied Bill Clean in Spots With Some Truly Good Acts

The Majestic bill for the early part of the week started off to three capacity houses. The show is opened by Minnie and Werts, two eccentric comedians, who do some clever tumbling, and for a time they have the audience guessing with their "strong-man" stunts before they finally let the house in on the overhead wire. The act goes well. Kennedy and Burt, in a little sketch, "Engaged, Married and Divorced," put across some good singing and a bunch of jokes that goes well. Barrett and Opp then present a Mexican travesty, "Across the Border," that hands the audience several surprises and a lot of laughs. Leo Beers, billed as Vaudeville's Distinctive Entertainer, holds the boards much longer than an act of his character is entitled to. He plays the piano well, but his songs, almost without exception, are not the sort that should be thrust down the throats of the theater's patrons.

"The Straight Way," starring Valeska Suratt, was shown at the Colonial Theater yesterday and will be seen for the last time in Harrisburg. "The Straight Way" tells the story of a woman's quest for happiness. Miss Suratt has the part of a wife who has been misunderstood and deserted by her husband. Later she seeks revenge on him, but finds that her efforts work as a boomerang, and wound herself as much as him.

The main interest in this great story is its somewhat unusual and grotesque plot, which furnishes Miss Suratt with an excellent opportunity to display her wonderful dramatic powers. The play concerns the death of a beautiful young girl who has been restored to life by a secret method. When she again lives it is with completely changed habits and morals. See this great picture and then decide what you would do were she your daughter. James Young, husband of Clara Kimball Young, also plays an important part in support of his famous wife. To-day the Victoria also presents "The Romance of Harrisburg," played by an all-Harrisburg cast. To-morrow Florence LaBodie will delight Victoria patrons in a powerful play, "The Pilgrim."

ORPHEUM--Wednesday, matinee and night, Nov. 15--"Mutt and Jeff's Wedding." Friday evening, at 8:30, Margaret Woodrow Wilson. CHESTNUT STREET AUDITORIUM--Alma Gluck, November 15. MAJESTIC--"The Straight Way." REGENT--"The Fall of a Nation." VICTORIA--"Without a Soul."

Gus Hill will present for the first time the fifth edition of Bud Fisher's "Mutt and Jeff's Wedding" at the Orpheum Theater, Friday, November 17, has been described as possessing a clear lyric so-plendidly that it strengthened my nerves so that I brightened up all over.

Margaret Woodrow Wilson, who will be heard in a concert at the Orpheum Theater, Friday, November 17, has been described as possessing a clear lyric so-plendidly that it strengthened my nerves so that I brightened up all over.

PUSH CAR ORDERS

Railroads are placing rush orders for new and additional equipment. They are doing so under necessity, and in face of abnormally high prices. An average freight car now costs full $1,500, or quite 50 per cent more than it could be bought for a year ago. The Close to twenty-five tons of steel are required for a car.

The Philadelphia and Reading Railway has just ordered 2,000 additional steel cars. The Norfolk and Western is in the market for 4,700 cars, the Wash-Pittsburgh Terminal Railroad for all records west of the river for this time being toward the west. Local observers reported that something morose to V. Wh we mok temp.

This is N. J. Ford

Engineer of the Twentieth Century Limited. Responsible for the safety of the hundreds who travel on the world's swiftest train, he must at all times be in perfect physical condition. The driver of the Twentieth Century Limited faces the bitter, raw blasts of the Great Lakes and he meets the gusts of snow, wind, sleet, rain and hail. Engineers are exposed to extremes of temperature—the heat of the locomotive and the elements. These sudden changes usually cause rheumatic pains, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, chest pains, stiff neck, muscle colds and congestion. Engineer Ford, like thousands of other users, has this to say of Sloan's Liniment—

"For sprains, strains or bruises, or to relieve the aches of neuralgia and rheumatism, I recommend Sloan's Liniment. It should be in every medicine chest and emergency kit." Sloan's Liniment quickly penetrates and soothes without rubbing, cleaner than mussy plasters or ointments, does not stain the skin. At all druggists, 25c. 50c. $1.00.
