GOVERNOR FAVORS ANTIDRUG LAWS

Makes Strong Statement in regard to Conservation of Human Life

"The first function of the Commonwealth is the conservation of the life of its people. I most heartily approve of any legislation which will be effective toward that end."

Governor Brumbaugh in these words gave his endorsement to the Evening Ledger's campaign for the passage of an anti-drug law that will put the teeth back into the Harrison act...

"I believe that an inebriate or a person addicted to the use of habit-forming drugs is sick, and that he should be treated for that sickness until he is cured. It follows, therefore, that I am in favor of a properly equipped institution to which these victims can be properly treated."

During the last session of the Legislature he gave considerable attention to the matter, but at that time the Harrison act was in full force and he gave more thought to the cure of addicts than to measures, which did not then appear necessary.

This Sadler commission is still in existence, never having been discharged by the State so far as anybody on Capitol Hill appears to know, but it has no power to act. However, it may be counted upon to render valuable service in the future.

Special committees will begin work within the next few days to make arrangements for the New Year celebration which will be held January 1, 1917, by the Harrisburg Mummies' association.

LOGAN PREDICTS GUARD TRAINING

Commander of Second Brigade Gives an Interesting Talk on the Future

General A. J. Logan, of the Second Brigade, National Guard of Pennsylvania, home from the Mexican border on a 30 days' furlough, addressed more than 200 members and guests of the Chamber of Commerce at Pittsburgh...

General Logan, while relating his experiences with the militia on the border, condemned the country's lack of national preparedness. He cited the conditions that existed at Mount Gretna when the National Guard was mobilized and the failure of the quartermaster's department of the Federal government to supply the necessary equipment to the men even when they had arrived at El Paso in support of his statement that the country is not adequately prepared for war.

"Sooner or later this country will require of its citizens compulsory training and compulsory service. This is manifestly needed in view of the inability of the National Guard to recruit to the proper strength when the call was issued for men to do service on the border, but the men who did answer the call have reaped a world of good from their training and experience."

General Logan stated that he had no knowledge as to when the members of the National Guard on the border would be recalled. "Although the men are anxious to return to their homes," he said, "there is not one of them that would shirk active service if called upon for that duty, but unless they are needed for that service they do not care to remain there during the winter."

Speaking of the sanitary conditions in the camp near El Paso, General Logan said: "If we have not learned anything else, we have at least learned how to establish a sanitary camp. This fact is proven by the few deaths and the little sickness that has occurred on the border. Out of the 14,000 men quartered there only five deaths have occurred, four of which were due to accidents."

FIND FRAUD IN WORKMEN'S CLAIM

Accident Alleged Did Not Happen; Referee's Finding Accords With Law

The State Compensation Board has upheld the decision of Referee Thomas J. Dunn, of Pittsburgh, in refusing compensation to John Nataro, an employe of the American Steel and Wire Company, at Pittsburgh, who claimed to have lost the sight of an eye while cleaning a pig casting machine.

The steel which caused the injury was extracted from the man's eye and turned out to be the end of a punch from a machine some distance away. The board in its review finds that on the day the man was hurt, which was a Sunday, some one had tampered with the punch and a piece corresponding to the bit found in the man's eye had been broken off. The opinion by Commissioner Leech says that the accident alleged by the man did not happen and that the referee's findings was in accord with the law and the facts.

In an opinion by Commissioner Scott on a dispute in compensation for loss of a hand this ruling is made: "The loss of use of a hand has been repeatedly held by this board to be a question of fact to be determined in each particular case presented."

In deciding that there are not enough facts to base a decision on in a Philadelphia case the board makes this ruling: "All of the facts and circumstances relating in any way to the custom or method by which employes of this defendant were conveyed to and from their work and what, if anything, was said at the time of contract of hiring was entered into, should appear."

WILLIAMS BOOM STARTED IN TIOGA

Representative's Friends Issue a Statement and Urge Harmony

Tioga county friends of Representative George W. Williams, of Wellsboro, who was chairman of the law and order committee of the last House, object to the circulation of a report that "the local option forces" have centered upon him for the speakership.

A statement just issued in the interest of Representative Williams says: "It can be said with authority that neither the local option forces nor the leaders of any faction or special interest have approached Mr. Williams upon the subject of his becoming a candidate for this office, either directly or indirectly."

"Members of the next House individually recognizing his fitness, by reason of his ability, integrity and experience, have offered their support. They have done so because they know that if elected he will be absolutely fair to all factions, parties and interests. Mr. Williams would never accept the office of Speaker unless he could be entirely free to conduct the affairs of that honorable body with justice and impartiality to every member."
