

CHILD GETS SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

Look at tongue! Then give fruit laxative for stomach, liver, bowels.

'California Syrup of Figs' can't harm children and they love it.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals 'California Syrup of Figs' for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 5-cent bottle of 'California Syrup of Figs,' then see that it is made by the 'California Fig Syrup Company.'

OLD ENGLISH RECIPE FOR CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOSES

If you know someone who is troubled with head noises, or Catarrhal Deafness, cut out this recipe, and have it to them, and you will have the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. Recent experiments have proved conclusively that Catarrhal Deafness, head noises, etc., were the direct cause of constitutional disease, and that salves, sprays, inhalers, etc., merely temporize with the complaint and seldom, if ever, effect a permanent cure.

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Paracetamol (Double Strength), about 75c worth. Take this home and add to it 1/2 pint of hot water, and 1/2 oz. of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

The first should begin to relieve the distressing head noises, headache, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., which the head specialist in this system is invigorated by the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of small amount of mucus from the throat, throat, are other symptoms that show the presence of catarrhal poison, and which are often entirely gone after this efficacious treatment. Nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are directly caused by catarrh; therefore there must be many people whose hearing can be restored by this simple home treatment.

Every person, who is troubled with head noises, catarrhal deafness, or catarrh in any form, should give this prescription a trial.—Advertisement.

Most every woman wants a nice, clear complexion, and can have it at a trifling cost. Constipation in women is increasing to an alarming extent, and this causes poor circulation which accounts for yellow, muddy, pimply complexions which so many women are trying to overcome.

GOVERNMENT'S RELATION TO ALL PUBLIC UTILITIES TO BE BROUGHT OUT AT HEARINGS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20. — In opening the first session of the joint congressional committee to investigate railroad problems to-day Senator Francis G. Newlands of Nevada, the chairman, explained that the inquiry would cover a wide field. He said: "It will relate to every phase of the transportation question, the rail carriers, the river carriers and the ocean carriers, and the perfection of a harmonious system of transportation embracing rail, river and ocean carriers that will meet the demands of interstate as well as foreign commerce, and it will also be applied to telegraph and telephone lines, express companies and other public utilities."

It will embrace not only the subject of government control and regulation of these utilities, but also the wisdom and the feasibility of government ownership and the comparative efficiency of government regulation and control as compared with government ownership and operation.

"It will not be possible for us to come to a speedy conclusion regarding all questions, but that conclusion will be more quickly arrived at if we have the sympathetic aid of practical men for years have been content with the practical side of the transportation question, of the economists and publicists, of railway executives and workers of commercial bodies, farmers and manufacturers and shippers generally."

Referring to government ownership Senator Newlands said: "It is a question that must be faced. Other nations far advanced in civilization have adopted the system. Recently, under the stress of war, all most all European governments have taken over the railways. Whether that will be a permanent taking over or only a temporary one, it demonstrates that in conditions of great crises when autocratic powers must be given to the government, all intelligent governments drifted toward absolute and complete operation of the railways as the only solution of the question."

"If we pursue the exercise and the study of government regulations widely, persistently and energetically we may create such a system of regulations as will meet every requirement, both in time of peace and of war, and in exigency or crises. But it seems to be a wise thing for the government of the United States to ascertain now the history of the countries that have adopted government ownership and operation of railways and to watch the experiences of the European countries in this great war in this regard.

"In this connection will come the question of the method of taking over the railroads. Shall it be accomplished by an actual valuation of the railroads and a condemnation of them, or shall they be taken over by the easier method of taking over the stocks and the bonds at their market value, thus at one step having the national government take the position of stockholder and security holder in these great corporations."

Condemns Strike. Strikes as a means of settling labor disputes, Senator Newlands characterized as "the most barbaric and brutal of processes."

"The question is," he added, "whether a nation pretending to some degree of civilization, which has eliminated the doctrine of force from application to controversies between man and man, and which furnishes judicial tribunals for the settlement of those controversies, and which is now and has been for years endeavoring internationally to secure a system under which the nations of the earth will create similar tribunals for the adjustment of international disputes without resort to force—whether a civilized nation can be content to perpetuate the existing condition of things."

Hours and wages of employees must be considered carefully, Senator Newlands declared, "because the burdens which constitute the operating expenses of these corporations are in time transferred to the shippers. He added: "They cannot long rest upon the investors, for if they rest upon them too heavily there will be a decline in the securities and a consequent difficulty in securing the money for improvements and extensions, and thus the public demands themselves will not be met."

Senator Newlands outlined the proposals to reorganize the Interstate Commerce Commission and to create federal agencies which might supplant State authorities in exercising control over railroad financing.

State Rights Come Up. "Another question of importance that will come up will be the question of the control of railway and other public utility securities. As it is most of the State public utility commissions are regulating the issue of securities upon the railroads within the boundaries of the State over which each has jurisdiction."

"It is suggested that the United States Government by reason of its power over interstate commerce should create a tribunal for that purpose or give such control to the Interstate Commerce Commission. So the question of State rights will be involved in this most interesting subject."

RAILWAY LABOR UNITES IN FIGHT

amalgamated with the brotherhoods there are 500,000 men. The brotherhoods have a membership of 400,000, and the union brings the American Federation of Labor into the plans of the brotherhoods. Heretofore the brotherhoods had no connection with the federal union, but as the railroad organizations amalgamated with the brotherhoods are members of the American Federation of Labor, the influence of the latter organization will be felt in any labor move by the railroad men in the future.

This will mean that 3,000,000 organized laboring men will be working for the same thing, and, conversely, that the railroad men may go on a strike out of sympathy for other laboring men.

Railroad managers and legislators profess to see in the combined fight of organized labor the most gigantic move this country may witness to force Congress to bend to the will of the workers.

United to Oppose Arbitration. The combination, it was announced, will carry out the policy of the American Federation of Labor and oppose the effort of President Wilson and Congress to pass a law compelling the settlement of strikes by arbitration.

While the amalgamation proposes on its surface to work for an eight-hour day for all railroad employees, shopmen and yardmen, and all those represented in the labor organizations connected with railroad management, legislators foresee a combination to combat pending bills.

That the combination should be effected in Washington, in advance of the session of the joint congressional committee, and when the country is agitated over the legislation that Congress will consider to end strikes, appears to many to have been conceived not so much for a fight for an eight-hour day for all employees as a club against congressional action on bills that are intended to end strikes.

Railroad managers and representatives of the brotherhoods, who forced the enactment of the Adamson law, are to attend to-day the sessions of the joint committee to consider railway regulation and other features of President Wilson's delayed program announced last September in connection with the wage law.

While there has been a rumor that the brotherhoods would seek an interview with the President this week and inform him that they proposed to strike if the courts declared unconstitutional the Adamson act, it was announced at the White House that no such conference had been requested. It was declared in official circles that President Wilson would not grant the brotherhoods a representative to the district. Three institutes will be held in Franklin.

STATE FUND GOES OVER 15,000 MARK

Coal Mine Business Will Be Written at Rates to Be Adjusted Later

The number of policies written by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund has passed the 15,000 mark and it is believed that it will run close to 15,500 by the end of the year. Considerable new business is reported by the office every week and the fund has been fortunate in the calls made upon it.

The fund has invested practically half a million dollars of its receipts, which have amounted to over $300,000. The investments are in bonds and in addition to this protection the fund has reinsured its catastrophe hazards.

The writing of coal mine insurance is to be placed on rates subject to adjustment. They are now being considered by the experts.

Big Problem Up. — Problems attending high tension electric companies and their relation to telephone wires will come before the Public Service Commission for discussion this winter because of complaints made by Western telephone concerns. The most important complaint has been made by a Somerset company which is said to raise an issue which will lead to some interesting hearings.

Increases Filed. — Big increases of stock and debt authorized by papers filed at the Capitol lately include Hammermill Co., Erie stock $10,000 to $2,000,000; Janney and Egan, Inc., Philadelphia, stock, $10,000 to $1,500,000 and debt $450,000 and United Electric Co., Chambersburg, stock, $185,500 to $1,000,000.

We certainly made no mistake in introducing to Harrisburg an "Overcoat-Fair." It's been the greatest success this "Live Store" has ever enjoyed. There never has been so great, so gratifying a response to any merchandising event in the history of the clothing business in Central Pennsylvania, as there has been to this occasion of overcoat selling at last season's prices. Never has such a response been more deserved.

But we thank you for the confidence you have in "Doutrichs" TRUTHFUL statements — that's something we're proud of — furthermore, you'll always find our advertising bearing the highest degree of accuracy. We regret however that our large selling force of courteous salesmen were unable to wait on all the customers who came to buy here Saturday and we will ask you to come in again.

Here are all the new "Overcoats" of the year, heavy weights and light weights. Dressy coats, ulsters, fine belted-back models, long coats, short coats in Kerseys — Vicunas—Meltons and Chinchillas.

I Prefer a Direct Understanding Some optometrists advertise to examine eyes "Free." Many people regard the word "Free" with suspicion as they cannot understand how any one can afford to give good service without some direct or indirect way of getting paid for it. I prefer a direct understanding to begin with as it leaves no room for doubt or imposition. I charge a fee of $1 for examining the eyes and I have a fixed price for glasses. I make a thorough and scientific examination—and when glasses are found necessary my charge for both the examination and glasses is usually less than you would pay for the glasses alone, where no direct charge was made for testing the eyes. I do not profess to give "something for nothing" but I do guarantee to give you as much for your money as any capable optometrist can afford to give and you have the benefit of my professional experience of over 20 years.
