

The Reproducing Piano that has stood the test

THE AMPICO

Recently, at the Hotel Biltmore, New York, a scientific comparison took place between the pianoforte playing of Leopold Godowsky and the Ampico-Reproducing Piano.

Mr. Godowsky played three numbers — Chopin's Ballade in A Flat, Liszt's Etude de Concert, and Chopin's Scherzo, C Sharp Minor, Op. 39.

Immediately after each performance by Mr. Godowsky, the Ampico repeated his performance from a previous recording by Godowsky.

The comparisons were conclusive. The Ampico reproduced in every detail the actual Godowsky rendition.

No other instrument has ever been proven in such a test—No Other Instrument Could Survive Such a Test!

The Musical Superiority of the combined with the scientific perfection of the Ampico has given the world an instrument of marvelous beauty

GODOWSKY, Hofmann, Bühlung, Carreno, Ornstein, and many other eminent pianists have recorded their interpretations for the Ampico to the end that the Chickering-Ampico may play for you, in your own home, the exact reproduction of their renditions.

Hear the Ampico in comparison with Clarence Adler at Tech High Auditorium Tuesday evening, Nov. 21. Secure complimentary tickets now.

STATE BOARD SITS IN PITTSBURGH

Immense Value in New Buildings Reported by Dr. Becht

All members of the State Board of Education, including those recently named to the directing body of Pennsylvania's educational system, attended the meeting of the board in Pittsburgh to-day and the reports showed that the cost of constructing and reconstructing school buildings during the year July 1, 1915, to July 1, 1916, amounts to $5,500,000, and this amount covers the cost outside of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia only.

The permanent state school fund showed $240,000 invested in high-class securities. This fund comes from escheated estates and net receipts from forest reservations. The income only may be expended for the purpose of promoting practical education and for equalizing educational advantages throughout the commonwealth.

The board discussed at some length the problem of dealing with the matter of consolidation and making adequate provision for the many small schools that are scattered throughout the state. According to recent report, there are over 800 schools where the attendance is under 10; a number are reported where the attendance runs from 3 to 7; in one district there are 9 schools with the largest attendance at 16 and the smallest 4.

Special attention was given to the question of continuation of the policy of the State Board of Education in this special form of school activity is to have the emphasis put upon the preparation of the pupil for immediate service. The board's policy was expressed in a resolution "That the continuation schools are to be considered as industrial agencies and that their activities should be so administered as to promote immediately the increased efficiency of the pupils."

The board also took action on the preparation and publication of a summary of the school laws in several foreign languages—Italian, Polish and Hungarian.

The board passed upon the agreement to purchase the Millersville State Normal School. The contract calls for the payment of $4,725. This property is valued at $700,161 and the indebtedness to be assumed by the Commonwealth amounts to $34,000. Millersville is the ninth school to be purchased. Negotiations are pending with Kutztown for the transfer of that property. The value of the ten normal school properties purchased and under consideration is over $5,000,000.

The members present were William Lauder, James M. Coughlin, E. S. Templeton, John P. Garber, Robert C. Shaw, Marcus Aaron, Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer, president, Dr. J. George Becht, executive secretary.

Christmas Is Coming!

Reading Matter For a Whole Year For the Whole Family Is the Christmas Gift Extraordinary Which Is Herewith Offered

Every family should have at least three periodicals—the best newspaper in its community, the best monthly magazine from the standpoint of broadening education and absorbing reading, and the best magazine devoted to women and the home interests.

The Telegraph has made arrangements with two magazines—the American Magazine and the Woman's Home Companion—so that you will not only be well provided with the right sort of literature for the year to come but will save money by obtaining your favorites through this combination offer.

The Telegraph wants to carry its message of constructiveness, good cheer and service into every home in and within fifty miles of Harrisburg and is pleased to associate with it two of the best magazines in the field of periodicals to-day.

The American Magazine

To read The American Magazine regularly is like talking to a wise, experienced man. Because The American Magazine is made up of what other men have done—how they solved their difficulties, how they achieved success, how they secured good health.

It is written by statesmen, doctors, lawyers, business men and by a staff of experienced writers who interview other men, until it is the most valuable publication that any man can read.

It is not a mere business magazine, however. It has many bright, entertaining stories.

It is a magazine for the whole family, but with the special idea of offering helpful suggestions on important questions.

Woman's Home Companion

If the Woman's Home Companion were a woman about your own age, and came to see you once a month, she would be the most welcome guest and the most remarkable guest that ever set foot in your home.

You never knew a woman who could tell such fascinating stories—you would sit up till all hours of the night listening to her tales.

You never knew a woman more inspiring.

You never met a woman who knew so much about so many different interesting things.

You never saw such a hand in the kitchen—so many new ideas, as well as sensible notions about the every-day planning of the housework.

You never met a woman, even if she had just come from Paris, who knew so well the proper thing in gowns.

You never met a woman who could tell you so well what other women were thinking, and doing, and eating, and wearing, and how they were bringing up children.

If the Companion were a woman, instead of a magazine, you would be all a-flutter of expectancy when the time came for her arrival. That is just what the Companion is like. When you know it, you want the Companion as a guest in your home every month.

A Convincing Offer!

If you bought either one of these magazines by the month you would pay fifteen cents for it. One magazine purchased this way for the year would cost you $1.80. Both magazines $3.60. Our plan will give you the magazines each month by mail at your home, promptly on publication date, for but a few cents more than this paper alone would cost. It is a big saving in convenience and money.

This Is All It Costs

The Telegraph by mail or carrier to the home $3.00; with The American Magazine and Woman's Home Companion for one year, $4.00.

Meanest Man Kept Pigs in His Home

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 20.—After testifying that her husband kept pigs and chickens in their home, and that he would not let her even sweep the house because she would wear out the broom, Mrs. Mary Rollison, of Licking county, was granted a divorce from Alva A. Rollison.

Mrs. Rollison testified that after her marriage on November 20 last, she went to her husband's home and found the five rooms arranged in this manner: One room housing pigs, one housing chickens, one for an automobile, one a kitchen and another a bedroom.

Mrs. Rollison testified her husband would not permit her to use soap, "because it cost money." She told the judge her husband would not take her to church Sunday in the automobile because the gasoline for the automobile would cost too much money.

OLD-TIME GOLD CURE-DRINK TEA

Get a small package of Hamburg Great Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

KEEP YOUR DATE WITH HER, FELLOW

Beatrice Fairfax Has a Real Grouch Against the Guy That Breaks 'Em

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX "I have been going about with a young man for the past four months. We have quarreled several times and once we went so far as to see nothing of each other for weeks because my friend failed to keep appointments," writes "Worried." "He begged me always to give him another chance, and faithfully promised to keep every appointment in the future. "I gave him another trial and for awhile he kept his promise, but now he seems to have forgotten that he ever made a pledge to me. He professes to love me and claims that if I were to know why he does not put in an appearance I would excuse him, but when he does make explanations the excuses he offers are not satisfactory. I am fond of him, but I doubt him."

"The sanctity of engagements is a thing too many people fail to realize. It does not seem to come home to them that when they say they are to be at a given place at a certain time they have pledged their word and that not being there is actually dishonorable. Probably your friend would not lie about anything he regarded as vital, and it does not occur to him that when he tells you he is going to come to see you or to meet you at a certain hour and then fails, that he is lying to you. No matter whether his excuses be good or ill, the point is they should be made in advance, not afterwards. Many men regard social engagements lightly and those concerned with business seriously. Quite right as far as it goes. But any obligation one assumes is still an obligation and a pledge of one's word, whether it be to meet a friend at the movies or to be present at a meeting of bank directors, the point is that one's word is at stake. When a man invites a girl to the theater and finds that his sick mother wants him to stay home or that his employer needs him, it is right and sane that he should choose family ties or business advancement in preference to pleasure. No reasonable girl ought to allow her inclination for pleasure to make her interfere with filial duty or the best interest of a man she likes. No woman, be she reasonable or otherwise, likes to have her own personality valued so lightly that a man lets her sit around waiting for him and in lordly wise neglects to explain. The man or woman who makes an engagement and fails to keep it, failing also to make explanation, stamps him or herself as one who does not believe either in the sacredness of a promise or the rights of another individual. We should all form the habit of listening patiently to reasonable explanations. We should never get into the lordly and selfish habit of falling to keep appointments and calmly expecting the other person to sit and wait.
