

Salkin's Golden Rule

Next Friday we plan to open this big new Department Store to the people of Harrisburg and vicinity in a befitting way. Three floors and basement comprise our floor space with each department conveniently located. You will find every department well-stocked with the season's latest and most desirable merchandise. Our salesforce has been selected with a critical eye. Courteous and thoroughly competent saleswomen you'll find presiding over every department. Enormous value-giving will be the watchword of our opening day, which will be more fully announced in Thursday night's paper. Watch for it!

A new department store will make its formal bow to Harrisburg next Friday morning when Salkin's Golden Rule Department Store opens its doors to the public. The new store will occupy all three floors as well as the basement of the new Tausig Building, at 430 Market street. The building itself is modern and thoroughly fire-proof and is equipped with all conveniences for the shopper. The erection of this new structure demonstrates the steady and substantial growth of the downtown business section, and the new building is one of which Harrisburg may well be proud.
