

SOLDIERS GOT RELIEF FROM SORENESS

Boys on the Border Relieved Their Pains and Aches with Sloan's Liniment.

Once upon a time Norman Jones, serving in the National Guard at El Paso, returned to camp after a strenuous 15-mile hike foot-sore and leg-weary. He had not been long in active service and his shoulders, back and limbs felt the after-effects of marching.

Remembering Sloan's Liniment, Jones applied it to the sore spots and went to bed. He writes: "I arose the next morning feeling fine; in fact, I had entirely forgotten about the hike and went out for a four-hour drill in the sun as spry as ever."

Private Jones passed the experience along, and many a boy on the border relieved the agony of sprains, strains, bruises, insect bites, cramped muscles, rheumatic twinges, etc., by the use of Sloan's Liniment.

Easily applied without rubbing. At all druggists, 25c, 50c and $1.00.

Curly Will Last

Says hair stays curly and wavy for a long time and appears natural too.

Girls! Try this! Before curling or waving your hair with pins, papers or a heated iron, just moisten each strand with atalpa water and you will be delighted how natural the curls and waves appear and how long they last in spite of wind, dampness or perspiration. A few ounces of atalpa water will cost very little at any drug store and there is nothing better to help retain the curls and waves or to soften, gloss or fluff the hair and to make it look thick and abundant.

SHORTAGE OF CHANGE

Washington, Nov. 21.—Public demand for pennies, nickels and dimes is so much greater than the supply that superintendents and officials of the San Francisco, Denver and Philadelphia mints and New York Assay Office conferred here to-day on how to meet the situation. All the mints are running behind, although working night and day.

DAYLIGHT SAVING MEETING

Pittsburgh, Nov. 21.—Robert Garland, chairman of the special committee on daylight saving of the National Chamber of Commerce, has issued a call for the first national convention, to be held in Pittsburgh on December 5.

SAVE YOUR HAIR! 25 CENT BOTTLE STOPS DANDRUFF

Every bit of dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

Try this! Your hair appears glossy, abundant, wavy and beautiful.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its luster, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine to-night—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, luster and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.—Advertisement.

DISCUSS PROBLEMS THAT FACE CHURCH

biggest men's church convention in Pennsylvania. "Education and Civic Righteousness," and "Facing Our Problems" were the themes of the two big meetings this morning and this afternoon and for more than five hours, eleven speakers, brought here from all parts of the United States, told the thousands of Methodist men from all parts of the United States, the church, and the denomination which they represented.

How Will U. S. Spend Money?

"What is America going to do with her tremendous wealth? With her millions upon millions acquired by her big enterprises, ever increasing and moving her to a goal never even dreamed of as a world power? How will she spend it? How is she getting it?" In rapid-fire order but in a determined and even tone, Dr. George R. Grose, president of De Pauw University, Greencastle, Ind., representing the educational board of the Educational Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, asked these questions of the big gathering.

A silence fell over the big audience and then came his explanation and with it one of the most powerful appeals ever made for better educational facilities in the entire country. "Our leaders in business must be men interested in public service; men filled with the spiritual sense of religion. It is the only way to handle this great wealth. The spiritual element must be in control insuring unselfishness. Otherwise this great wealth will be horribly debasing and inevitably degrading.

"What use are we making of our great inventions? Are we sending messages of justice and peace over the world? Or, are we sending a message of greed for gold, selfishness and striving for power? In Kansas alone I was told that there are $7,000,000 invested in automobiles. What are they doing with them?"

Dr. Grose in these few words summed up the theme of his address on "A Denomination Program." For more than fifteen minutes he spoke on the great work planned by the Methodist Church. The big undertakings he outlined follow: Celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the board of education; an increase in the school fund appropriation from one and one-quarter to two million dollars; development of frontier work in the South and West, and creating a pension fund of probably a million dollars.

Need Trained Men

Dr. Grose declared that Christians properly trained must lead in the social movement of to-day and that unless they do, the movement will become a danger and menace to the country. "Such a movement is safe only when in Christian hands. And the people are looking to the church to provide it. How can we do it with good but ranting, ignorant men in the church pulpits to-day. They must be better trained.

Men imbued with spiritual intelligence together with culture and physical training are the only ones to lead in our political, industrial and commercial life to transform our rabid nationalism into internationalism." Dr. J. H. Morgan, president of Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., was the second speaker on the program. He told the laymen that the church has not foreseen and provided for the rapidly changing educational conditions and that better equipped church schools are a necessity. He, too, joined with Dr. Grose in an appeal for more funds to provide proper facilities.

Urges Day of Rest in Seven

Dr. William H. Crawford, president of Allegheny College, Meadville, then introduced Harry E. Ward, professor of Boston University. Professor Ward is an expert on social service work and has studied the situation extensively. His topic was "One Day's Rest in Seven."

"Why do we have millions of workers throughout the country who have not a single day's rest in seven?" was one of the questions he hurled at the big audience of men. Before they could answer he replied: "I'll tell you. The reason leads back to the department heads of the industries, back to the officers of the corporation, back to the income of a great many comfortable, cultured, Christian gentlemen who have too much Christianity to urge their direct employees to work seven days a week, but never care anything about the big industries of which they are stockholders." He told the men in the big hall that the only way to overcome this and insure each man one day's rest in seven, was by placing an iron-clad act on the statute books of the States and by strengthening the Sunday laws. Professor Ward also told the laymen that he could not see the need of Sunday excursions to camp meetings and evangelistic gatherings.

Literature's Value

John H. Race, of the Methodist Book Concern, was the next speaker. The value of literature in spreading Christianity and the big development of the Methodist publishing house were the principal points in his short talk. Dr. R. E. Diefenderfer, church educational secretary of the missionary society, was the last speaker of the morning. He told the men present that it took the jolt of the European war in 1914 to awaken America to the realization of South American possibilities. Lack of proper education for world service was responsible for this, he declared. He urged his audience to avoid false patriotism and adopt the motto, "Our Country Always, But Our Country Right."

A brief reference to the big problem of assimilation of foreign people in America and their educating followed, after which Dr. Ward closed his address with an appeal to the laymen to study the world situation continually. The morning session closed a few minutes later, and the thousands of delegates formed in a long line and marched to the State Capitol where they were given a reception by Governor Brumbaugh.

Afternoon Session

This program this afternoon included addresses as follows:

"Making America Dry," by Clarence True Wilson, secretary church temperance society, "Making Pennsylvania Dry," E. J. Moore, ex-superintendent State Anti-Saloon League, now assistant superintendent of the national league; "The Human Side of Industry," Professor Ward; "Relating the Church to the Problem," the Revs. W. M. Young and Adam Nagay; "A Worthy Cause," Joseph E. Hinge, Chicago, secretary of the conference claimant society.

Dr. Hingeley is leading the campaign of the Methodist church for $15,000,000 for a missionary retirement fund. He made a stirring plea for aid, and pointed out the many laymen who annually participate in condensed form a few exceptions speak of the one result which will come when young men can enter the ministry confident that in his old age he will be provided for.

Women to Meet

A big mass meeting for women will be held to-night in the Grace Methodist church, State street. Several addresses will be made on the value of women's work in church movements. To-night James W. Barker, of Harrisburg, will preside and the speakers will be S. Earl Taylor, New York, secretary of the foreign missionary society, who will speak on "Around the World With a Missionary Camera"; and John R. Mott, New York, secretary of the International Y. M. C. A., and members of President Wilson's Mexican Commission, will talk on

Plea for Methodist Union

Three great leaders of the Methodist Church last night addressed the 3,000 Methodist laymen and clergy in a strong plea for the reunion of the Methodist Episcopal Church, North, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant Church.

The trio of Methodist churchmen representing these three big branches of the church were Bishop Earl Cranston, of Washington, one of the foremost men in the first big branch; Bishop Eugene R. Hendrix, of Kansas City, senior bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South; and Dr. T. H. Lewis, of Westminster, Md., a leader in the Methodist Protestant Church, the smallest division of the three branches.

Methodist Episcopal, South, and the Methodist Protestant, all united." A burst of applause from the audience of 3,000 laymen interrupted the speaker and this was followed by a burst of song, "Blessed Be the Tie That Binds."

Governor Reiterates Option Stand

Last evening proved a banner one for the big convention. Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh started the enthusiasm by reiterating his stand for local option and that he will put the issue squarely up to the Legislature at the coming session. The state executive welcomed the laymen and spoke on the importance of the church in the state.

"The real wealth of Pennsylvania lies in the character of her people. Whatever enriches character is to be encouraged; whatever blights character is to be despised." Governor Brumbaugh declared.

He then outlined laws enacted at the last session of the Legislature and outlined plans for the coming session. One important point which he explained at length was sanitary housing conditions.

This was followed by the Governor's declaration that it is the right of the people of the counties in Pennsylvania to decide for themselves whether or not they want intoxicating liquors sold. Continued applause broke in on the address and prevented him from speaking until Bishop Cranston raised his hand and called order. He closed with an appeal for righteousness and good purposes for all the people of Pennsylvania.

Sees League of Peace

Declaring that the European war will result in the establishment of a league of peace and that this will bring to a united Methodism a vast work in the establishment of the Kingdom of God, Bishop Hendrix spoke of the movements favoring a big unification of the three branches of the church. Bishop Hendrix said, in part: "One body of the Methodist Church. Who can justify sixteen branches of Methodism? God has no independent of mission for these sixteen branches. He is calling to service to-night the allied armies of Christendom. All of the great battles in history have been won by allied armies. Yet let me say that I do not believe this present European war will result in a victory to one side or the other. I believe that it will be a drawn battle and that a universal league of peace will be the outcome. We need Germany; we need France; we need Italy; we need all of them."

Bishop Cranston, who presided, gave the laymen a visible demonstration of unification by calling Bishop Hendrix and Dr. Lewis to the center of the platform and grasping their hands. He, too, spoke of the great work for a united Methodism.

"Two great representatives of our church," Bishop Cranston began, "yet not with us in full unity, are here to-night. You will give them a prayerful and commanding sympathy. Here and there a voice may be raised in question Methodism? God has no independent of posed—a union touching property values, historic differences of the past. Such prejudicial memories should be rather a significance for the new movement forward."

DAYLIGHT LAMP SIGNALS

The Pennsylvania Railroad is trying out a new system of signaling which dispenses with colored lights and semaphores. All indications, both by day and by night, are given by rows of white lights corresponding with the positions of semaphores for arms.—Popular Science Monthly for December.
