interest at the University of Pittsburgh is turning toward the winter sports of basketball, swimming, hockey sports of basketball, swimming, hockey and wrestling. Along with Pitt's rise in the intercollegiate football world, there has been an almost parallel ad-vance in all other branches of sports. So we find that the Panther's fame in collegiate athletics rests almost as much upon their showing on the bas-ketball floor as on the gridiron. Initial practice for the Varsity was held this week and Student-Manager J. L. Scott has announced an extensive schedule for the coming season.

entire season is measured for each of them. Since 1884 the football hopes and aspirations of both these neighboring institutions have been fixed upon de-feating the other. To-morrow will mark the 51st meeting of the two upon the gridiron. Through this long period of rivalry, Lafayette has been more successful. Twenty-eight times has she left the chalk streaked field, the victor. On twenty occasions Le-high has enjoyed the fruits of victory, I and twice the contests have ended in even scores. even scores.

Because the poultry operations on the average farm are conducted by the housewife women students in the win-ter sessions often drift naturally into the poultry course. The poultry courses offer lectures and recitations on poultry husbandry as a farm en-terprise, equipment for the farm flock including a study of poultryhouses, feeding equipment, incubators and brooders, poultry feeding, the produc-tion, preparation and marketing of eggs and poultry, sanitation and hy-giene, insect pests and common poul-try diseases. Valuable practice work is given in killing and dressing poul-try, grading, candling and packing incubation and caponizing. Eighteen women students were en-rolled in these courses last winter.
