AMUSEMENTS

ORPHEUM—This evening—"When a Woman Sings." (Yiddish). Saturday only, November 25.—James T. Powers in "Somebody's Luggage." Monday evening, November 26.—Berton Holmes—"The Canadian Rockies." Tuesday, matinee and night, November 28—"A Girl Without a Chance." MAJESTIC—Vaudeville. COLONIAL—"Somewhere in France." REGENT—"And the Law Says." VICTORIA—"Captivating Mary Carstairs."

The Orpheum will have as its attraction to-night the National Stock Company of Yiddish players, headed by the author-actor, Stock Company Jacob Shickowitz. Miss Anne Karp and B. Rosenthal, in a comedy drama with music, "When a Woman Sings." Many expressions of pleasure have been heard since the announcement was made of the coming of this organization and the prospects look like a capacity house. A treat is in store for those who have arranged to see this Jewish troupe, as the press and public in cities have endorsed this play as one of the best seen in several years.

The first act of "Somebody's Luggage" moves rapidly and the second is full of rapid-fire situations. James T. Powers which are sustained through the third act to the final curtain, furnishing the star comedian ample opportunity for the exploitation of his unique ability as a broad comedian. Mr. Powers has lost none of his acute sensibility to comedy and satire nor spontaneity in "putting it over." There is no comedian in the contemporary stage who has finer mannerisms so harmonized in ludicrous characterization, and the role of Alfred Sopper in "Somebody's Luggage" affords Mr. Powers the fullest opportunity for the sort of broad humor that has made him for many years the general favorite with the theatergoing public.

The return of the wonder woman—Sarah Bernhardt, to Harrisburg is an event of sufficient importance to cause nothing less than a lull among local theatergoers. She is easily the most renowned woman of the times; the most distinguished living actress; in the opinion of many the greatest living woman. Her spirit is epic, idealistic and courageous to a degree; age does not deter her from being a vital living factor in a warkaday world. Sarah is still Sarah and that is the greatest tribute to her. The plays she offers on that night of her repertoire are: "The Fake Acedia," "Du Theater au Champ d'Honneur" ("From the Theater to the Field of Honor"). In addition to these plays will be given "Cleopatra," a playlet by Maurice Bernhardt, Mme. Bernhardt's son, and Henri Cain and a new play called, "English As It is Spoken."

Burton Holmes will continue his series of finely illustrated travelogues "The Canadian Rockies," this time "Holmes' Next Subject," the hunting and fishing grounds and the sights, scenes and activities of life in the great "Switzerland of America," being the principal theme.

Mr. Holmes will give "In the Canadian Rockies" at the Orpheum Theater on Monday evening, at 8:15 o'clock. Do you enjoy a picture that holds you in suspense until the very end—a tale so full of mystery that you cannot guess in "France" at the outcome—a story the Colonel never notice the passing moments? Such a story is "Somewhere in France," the new Triangles Kay-bee feature booked for the Colonial Theater to-day and to-morrow. The picture stars Louise Glaum and Howard Hickman, and is from the pen of the late Richard Harding Davis, author of "Soldiers of Fortune" and many other popular stories. "Somewhere in France" is a thrilling war story of mystery and service intrigue that is sure to fascinate you. The plot deals with the daring efforts of a woman spy to acquire possession of military secrets. Her final downfall is accomplished by a smashing climax. Then, too, there's a tale of key stone fun and frolic in the new two-reel Keystone comedy that is the added attraction of the program, Monday and Tuesday, June Caprice in "The Ragged Princess."

To-day the Victoria features Norma Talmadge in a picture play of real heart interest, the kind of picture every lover of the movies delights to see. For to-morrow's attraction Gail Kane, the well known star, in a Russian drama, "The Scarlet Oath." It is a story that carries you from one continent with a thrill every foot of the way. Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, two of the greatest stars now appearing before the camera, will be shown here on Monday and Tuesday only. In their greatest effort, "The Diplomatic Service. Watch and wait for Thos. H. Ince's wonderful force preaching against the terrors and horrors of war. "Civilization" will be shown shortly.

"And the Law Says," with Richard Bennett in the stellar role, shown at the Regent only, is a powerful "Law" story. The theme is based on circumstantial evidence and capital punishment. The story concerns Lawrence Kirby, who enters an intercollegiate tennis tournament under an assumed name, this being done as a lark, but without evil design. He meets, while in his assumed character, the daughter of a professor in a rival college, with whom he falls desperately in love. Mary Miles Minter, the dimpled and smiling little beauty whose extraordinary versatility in pictured drama is the talk of press and public will be presented to-morrow only in her newest play "Faith." The title of the piece was chosen to illustrate the trustful confidence of the little girl who is left supposedly an orphan and reared as a foundling in the ultimate discovery of her mother, whom she has never known; but whom she believes will one day come to claim her.

the progressive spirit of this city and spent much of his time here, having important corporation clients. For years it was his custom to go fishing in Canada and until his injury to his hip, which occurred in an accident at an encampment at Mt. Gretna he was an adept at all kinds of outdoor sports.

General Fleitz was educated at the public and private schools of his native town, and prepared for college at the State Normal School at Mansfield. His early youth was devoted to teaching school, he then spent four years in the Rocky Mountains, Alaska, the Pacific Slope and in Mexico, prospecting, hunting, civil engineering, ranching and stage driving. On his return to the East in 1889, and at the age of 21, he was admitted to the bar and at once commenced the practice of law at Wellsboro. In 1891 he moved to Scranton, where he has since resided. He became associated with Judge Carpenter in 1894, and the firm of Carpenter & Fleitz was soon recognized as one of the strongest legal firms in Northeastern Pennsylvania.

General Fleitz took an early and active interest in politics as a Republican, was Clerk of the Pennsylvania Legislature, 1887-1897; was president of the Republican State League, 1899 and 1900. He was chairman of the Republican State Convention, 1903, and one of the Republican leaders in Lackawanna county for years. As a campaign speaker he was widely known and much in demand. He often spoke here.

Some years ago he became president of the Anthracite Trust Co., of Scranton and a director of the Dime Deposit Bank, one of the leading banks of Scranton; a director of the Taylor Hospital, also of the Scranton Life Insurance Company, and various charitable and benevolent institutions.

When appointed Deputy Attorney-General for the State of Pennsylvania by Governor W. A. Stone in 1899, he was the youngest man who ever held that important position. He was re-appointed by Governor Pennypacker in 1903, and again reappointed by Governor Stuart in 1907 and resigned in 1909.

Soon after resigning as Deputy Attorney-General Mr. Fleitz opened an office here and was named as a member of the State Water Supply Commission, being its vice-chairman. He resigned on March 1, 1913 because of demands upon his time here and at Scranton. His resignation closed 23 years of service for the State in various capacities.

General Fleitz formed a partnership with N. E. Hause, of Wayne county, for years chief clerk to the Auditor General, and one of the authorities of the State on State corporation taxes, and they soon became noted. Ralph J. Baker entered their office in 1913.

One of General Fleitz's biggest cases was the Philadelphia Electric valuation proceeding before the Public Service Commission which set precedents and attracted national attention.

General Fleitz was a member of the Scranton Club, the Scranton Press Club, the Scranton Country Club, the Kahweam Club, the Muscullonge Club of America, the Harrisburg Club and several prominent fish and game clubs. Among the secret organizations he was a prominent Mason, an Odd Fellow, Heptasoph and Woodmen of America.

Mr. Fleitz was married in 1891 to Miss Clara A. Mitchell, daughter of John I. Mitchell, former United States Senator and later Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.
