WHAT THEY DO IF THEY GET BALLOT

Just Glance Over Some Legislation Which the Fairer Sex Enact in Law

By ELIA WHEELER KILCOX (Copyright 1916, Star Company) Women are voting in twelve States. What are women doing with the vote is the question asked by antisuffragists and the people on the fence. Colorado has had its women voting for twenty years; California for one year. It is said "Colorado represents the old with its evolutions; California stands for the new with its revolutions." Here are some of the laws mothered by the women of California.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by him.

NUXATED IRON

ered by the women of California. (This compilation is verified by Francis J. Heney and Judge W. P. Lawlor.) Raising the age of consent from sixteen to eighteen; juvenile court amendment separating dependent from delinquent children; requiring fathers to support illegitimate children; requiring certificates of health from men as a precedent to the marriage license; minimum wage law; workmen's compensation law; teachers' pension law; teachers' pension law; granting a pension of $500 a year to teachers who have been in service thirty years; joint guardianship law; requirement of a wife's signature to the assignment of a husband's wages; a prison reform bill; raising the age of child workers from twelve to fifteen; a billboard nuisance act; an amendment to the liquor law, hutting particularly at San Francisco's all night sale; the red light abatement law, placing the responsibility of illegal resorts upon the owners, lessees, rather than on the inmates, and forbidding such places. Working Women Get Justice in Equal States These are only a few of the excellent reforms which the women voters have mothered. In a general suffrage States, in none of trend of the woman vote in all the equal suffrage States. In none of the equal franchise States has woman failed to free herself of notorious political disabilities and ancient injustices or neglected to acquire what she considers her full right. An eight-hour day for the working woman is a boon possessed by equal suffrage States alone. It took Massachusetts forty years to win the partial reform that Utah got in two; that is, the compromise of nine hours in place of ten. In the matter of taking poverty out of the list of crimes the equal suffrage States lead easily. All the equal suffrage States except Arizona have mothers' pension laws that stopped the cruel business of kidnapping children because the mother cannot earn enough to keep the wolf from the door. Only fourteen non-suffrage States adopted this humane measure. Every one of the equal suffrage States has a complete compulsory education law; every one of them makes a great and brilliant fight against illiteracy. The ten most illiterate States in the Union are NOT equal suffrage States. The Anti-Suffragists have made a statement that the "bad women" control the election in the equal suffrage States. By bad women they mean immoral women. One cannot help but wonder how many virtuous men go to the polls. Idaho has a law prohibiting persons of lewd life from voting. In Wyoming, where equal suffrage is forty-five years old, there are two members of the Legislature and a number of women serving as superintendents of schools. In Colorado there were two women in the Legislature in the lower house and one in the Senate in 1914; Utah has three women in the Legislature; Washington two; Oregon and Arizona have each one woman Senator. Instead of being "invertebrate office seekers," as they have been accused of being, Mr. George Creel declares that voting women have refused to show the interest in office holding that is entailed by their percentage of the vote. No Divorce Ever Based On Women's Use of Vote As far as divorce statistics may be trusted the equal suffrage States point to the fact that there is not an instance on record of a divorce arising from anything connected with the vote. This statement is laid down as a challenge. In Colorado there is an equal suffrage aid association composed of the most prominent men in the State organized for the sole purpose of denying falsehood and refuting slanders. (It would be well if every neighborhood contained such a society.) Senator Charles S. Thomas, an ex-Governor, Southern born, and the possessor of a voting wife and voting daughters, expresses the male sentiment of Colorado when he says: "The one offensive feature of equal suffrage has been the flood of blackguardly abuse heaped upon our women by foes of the movement. The supposition that inclusion in the responsibilities of citizenship implies the instant degradation of our wives, mothers, sisters and daughters, can only pro-

puts House on Wheels to Avoid Town Gossip

Berwick, Pa., Nov. 29. — Charles Woll, of Berwick, has decided that he does not want to live in the same neighborhood all the time, so instead of investing his savings in a house and lot he is having a home built on wheels. The house is to be one-story with two rooms. The frame is being built on ten-inch steel tires. Woll finding it necessary to have a blacksmith build the foundation and a carpenter the house proper. Woll, in planning this scheme, says he will solve many difficult problems. If the does not like a community, he can get a team or a tractor engine and pull his home to some desirable spot. No conditions can be forced on him, he says. That is the advantage of the house on wheels. If the neighbors' children annoy him, or if the neighborhood gossip is not pleasant, he can move on. Woll declares that the portable house will fill all his needs. He says that he dislikes living in the same locality all the time and that with many vacant lots to choose from he can move as often as he pleases or as often as he can afford to get a team. Woll expects to eat his Thanksgiving turkey in his new home on wheels. FORGET YOUR ANCESTORS' RECIPES; TRY MODERN ONES Many people cling to old methods of doing things. In the November issue of Farm and Fireside, a writer says: "We have formed the habit, also, of attaching undue importance to certain methods and recipes which have come down from our ancestors. Some of these, it is true, cannot easily be improved upon. But with fine meat becoming more and more a luxury there should be no haphazard methods used in killing and curing. The process is simple, and there is a scientific reason for every step all the way from the fatted animal to the frying pan. "Just because a hog is butchered on a farm makes the meat no better than if the animal were killed anywhere else, and if careless methods of handling are practiced the meat may actually be of inferior quality. "This side of the matter was once put to me by a man whose observations were wide and whose palate was particular. 'If I must constantly eat the quality of meat found on the tables of some of my neighbors,' he said, 'then I prefer to buy meat for home use from the packers.' He went on to describe overalting, strong flavors, and other qualities he had noticed but which the people who had used the meat had become accustomed to, and who apparently consider their products of good quality. 'How can anyone hope to satisfy customers with that class of meat?' he asked in conclusion."

THE BRAND NOT MENTIONED

On October 29 Dr. Stephen Langdon, formerly of Oxford University, and now curator of the Babylonian section of the University of Pennsylvania Museum, opened a letter written 2,200 years B. C., and never delivered. The letter was opened with a mallet, as it was sealed in a clay cylinder. It was written in Sumerian characters, and when deciphered with great difficulty proved to be a Babylonian merchant's order for a shipment of flour. — The Christian Herald.

Washington, Nov. 29. — Construction of three new cutters, equipment of cruising cutters with modern radio apparatus and repair and extension of telephone and telegraph lines used in its work were recommended to Congress to-day in the annual report of Captain E. P. Berthoff, commandant of the coast guard service.
