ENOLA DIRECTORS TO OPEN SCHOOLS

Temporary Quarters Provided For Pupils in Other Buildings Until School Is Completed

Enola, Pa., Nov. 29.—At a mass meeting of citizens of Enola and the school board last night in the P. R. R. Y. M. C. A. to discuss plans for opening temporary quarters for school purposes it was decided by the school board to start school in the Y. M. C. A. and in the basements of the Methodist, Reformed and United Brethren Churches. The temporary schools will open about Monday, December 11. Owing to the scarcity of labor and materials, the new building, scheduled to be completed on December 1, cannot be finished before the middle of January or by February 1. The contract expires December 1 and after that date the contractor will be forced to pay $10 a day until the building is completed. The board has instructed its attorney to bring suit against the contractor after the expiration of the contract. The board has been greatly hampered by the strictness of the school code as to the opening of temporary quarters earlier in the fall.

Union Casualty Denies Insolvency and Declares Receiver Isn't Needed

In answer to State Insurance Commissioner J. Denny O'Neil's request of the Dauphin county court for a receiver for the Union Casualty Insurance Company, Philadelphia, R. C. Bowers, president, denied that it is insolvent and declared that there is no necessity for a receiver. Attorney Henry J. Scott, Philadelphia, filed the answer. The court has fixed December 19 for the hearing.
The Philadelphia Company and the Pension Mutual Insurance Company, Pittsburgh were made the subjects of the insurance commissioner's investigation. He contended that the two corporations were part of a gigantic insurance combine that is being promoted by Lyndon D. Wood. The court fixed December 18 for hearing the Pension case.
The Philadelphia concern accords to President Bowers' answer had been authorized to transact a "casualty" insurance business and has transacted such business in Pennsylvania up to and including May 1, 1916, since which time it has written no new insurance in this State or elsewhere. Not only does he deny that the company is not insolvent but adds that further transaction of business will not be hazardous to policy holders, creditors or the public.

Willing to Have Actuary
With the remark that he is perfectly contented that Lyndon D. Wood shall place an actuary at work on the books of the Pension Mutual Insurance Company, whose report shall be made a part of the testimony for the company at the hearing of the receivership proceedings, Judge O'Neil in the Dauphin county courts, State Insurance Commissioner J. Denny O'Neil to-day dumped upon the desk of Attorney General Brown another bundle of documents and reports from the files of his department relating to irregularities of Wood and his various insurance schemes. The Insurance Department officials believe that the report of an actuary of itself would be sufficient to cause the court to appoint a receiver for the company even without the bulk of evidence which it is the purpose of the State to present.
Insurance Commissioner O'Neil says it would be folly for him to begin criminal proceedings at this time. He must first see the outcome of the receivership proceedings to take any formal action, but it is known that already the Attorney General's Department has begun to move in that direction.

O'Neil says there is no ground for the assertion of Wood that the Department officials took no exceptions to his methods until the exposure which brought on the present court proceedings. Deputy Commissioner Samuel McCulloch and Chief Inspector W. J. Roney repeatedly brought the affairs of the Pension Mutual to the attention of the head of the Department and Commissioner Charles Johnson on several occasions reported conditions to the Attorney General.
Neither was Pennsylvania the only State to question the operations of Wood. Commissioner O'Neil has turned over to Attorney General Brown letters and reports from St. Clair Allison, actuary of the Insurance Department of Rhode Island, and from the Insurance Department of Indiana, where the Pension Mutual, because of the irregularities of its management, was rescinded as early as 1915.

The Bell Desk Stand

Here the felt-covered bottom plate has been taken off for a glimpse inside the telephone.

See how the "cords" come in through a hole at the side and lead on into the stand itself.

Think how the tiny copper wires of the "cords"—finer they are than hair, and woven together for flexibility—must "chafe" at these points if the instrument is jerked and twisted at the full length of the cord. Besides, this makes the transmission "raspy" and noisy.

You can help to safeguard the high quality of your Bell Service if you avoid the sharp "pulls."
