Practical Economy

Baking powders made from alum or phosphate may be bought for a trifle less than Royal Baking Powder, which is made from cream of tartar, derived from grapes.

Alum powders are not only cheap, but they differ greatly in leavening power.

If a cheap baking powder is used for a fine cake and the cake turns out a failure there is a waste of costly materials worth more than a whole can of the cheap baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder produces the finest food, and its use therefore, results in an actual saving.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 29.—The high cost of living is driving the dogs out of St. Louis. Meat scraps, the appe-tizing tidbits for dogs, went out when soaring prices came in. There are 1100 fewer dogs in St. Louis now than a year ago, because it is more expensive to feed them. License Collector Alt last year sold licenses for 20,049 dogs. This year he has sold 18,948 dogs licenses. High prices have meant less dogs.
