DEER KILLED IN SEVEN MOUNTAINS

Hunters Get Seventeen in First Two Days of Season; Two Bears Shot

Lewistown, Pa., Dec. 4.—The big game hunting season opened up in the Seven Mountains section, with hundreds of hunters out, and up to Saturday night seventeen deer and two bears have been reported shot.

A party of hunters made up of Lewistown and Yeagerstown sportsmen, camping in Treaster valley, shot four deer the first two days. The Buck Horn camp, in Treaster valley, killed a black bear that weighed 200 pounds.

John Johnson, of near Reedsville, shot a five-pronged buck. A man whose name could not be learned, killed a big buck on the Seven Mountains near Potter's banks; a man by the name of Stout, living near Reedsville, shot a buck of large size, and Harry Stuter, of the Big Valley, shot a big buck not far from Bellefonte.

A camp of Amishmen in the Seven Mountains, report slaying a big black bear. Another party of Amishmen killed a buck deer and the Wilbur camp of Big Valley hunters at Broad mountain killed two deer. A party of hunters from Port Royal and Bellefonte in the Seven Mountains shot a deer. The Kenewell brothers, James Gilbert, Robert Maben's camp and the Mutersbaugh camp all succeeded in landing a deer, that is four deer, one to each camp.

MRS. SOPHIA MECK DIES
Carlisle, Pa., Dec. 4.—Mrs. Sophia Meck, aged 72 years, widow of Charles E. Meck, for many years a well-known businesswoman of Carlisle, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John A. West, 237 A street, on Friday. Mrs. Meck was a daughter of Andrew and Abigail Comp and was born near Warm Springs, Perry county, in 1844. She was a member of the First Lutheran Church here for fifty years, having joined while the Rev. Dr. Jacob Fry was pastor. Besides her daughter she is survived by a twin sister, Mrs. Sarah Armstrong, of Carlisle. Funeral services were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock, with burial in the Old Graveyard.

Williamstown Teacher Will Demonstrate School Work

Williamstown, Dec. 4.—On Tuesday, December 12, the first present teachers' meeting for the present school term will be held in the high school building. During the last term it was demonstrated that these meetings were valuable in that they brought the parents and teachers together with a common interest in a common work. A part of the program will consist of a demonstration of the regular school room by Miss Mary Budd teacher of the second grade school.

58 Good Hens Lay 615 Eggs During November

Mechanicsburg, Pa., Dec. 4.—In these days of scarcity of eggs and prices soaring around the fifty-cent mark, it is refreshing to learn that some hens are on the job and doing their duty toward reducing the price. They are the white wyandotte flock belonging to Dr. J. B. Spangler, East Main street, who is unusually successful as a chicken fancier. During the month of November his flock of 58 hens laid 615 eggs.

WILL PROBE PAPER TRUST

Congressman Dewalt Declines Present Congressional Investigation
Allentown, Pa., Dec. 4.—After inquiring into business conditions among his constituents who are in the printing and publishing business, Congressman Arthur G. Dewalt left yesterday for Washington, determined to take a hand in the investigation of the paper trust. Newspapermen who are constituents of Congressman Dewalt prior to June 1 of this year bought print paper for $2.25 per 100 pounds, and their business was organized on that basis. They are now charged $4 per 100 pounds, and Congressman Dewalt says that price is extortionate.

Student Lives 3 Years on 23.1 Cents Per Day

Pittsburgh, Dec. 4.—Roy R. Mumma, a student of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, after keeping accurate account of his living expenses for three years, announced to-day that he had lived on 23.1 cents per day during the period. "The food wizard," as he has been termed by his fellow-students, has made out a scientific diet for himself. It consists of breakfast foods, fruit, eggs, little meat, milk, coffee, cocoa, oleomargarine, potatoes, rice, sugar, macaroni, spaghetti, noodles, pancakes, peanut butter, wheat biscuits, soups and "snacks" at night. Mumma has been doing his own cooking on an electric stove, goes to market and keeps in touch with provision prices.

FAMILY BIBLE IN COURT CAN'T SAVE SON FROM PRISON

Gray-Headed Father of Eugene Carter Brings Well-Thumbed Good Book

The well-thumbed, more or less dog-eared, old family Bible that had a place all its own on the little table in the parlor of Simon Carter's home for so many years was brought carefully into the Dauphin county criminal court to-day—to save Eugene Carter, hope of the house of Carter, from a prolonged stay within the gray walls of the Eastern Penitentiary.

Carter's white-headed father brought the Bible to court. During September sessions Eugene was convicted of criminally attacking a small girl and when he was arraigned for sentence President Judge Kukkel pondered a good deal as to whether the prisoner should be sent to the Eastern Penitentiary or to the Huntingdon Reformatory. The age problem kept court and district attorney guessing. Twenty-five years is the age limit for the reformatory.

Carter contended that he was not yet twenty-five; examination of his application for a marriage license several years ago proved him to be twenty-six; Carter's old mother told the court that the date of her son's birth was set forth in the Carter Bible.

What the Good Book Produced
But the Good Book's pages didn't produce very satisfactory evidence of the youth's age. True, his name appeared, but if the chronological order had been accepted, Carter would have been only about seventeen. So President Judge Kukkel decided.

"Well, the defendant appears to be between twenty-two and twenty-three," said he; "certainly he's more than twenty-one. So we'll assume that he is between twenty-two and twenty-three, and impose the sentence of the law accordingly." And he sent Carter to Huntingdon Reformatory. Following the Carter case, Harry Hale and Elijah Hoover were placed on trial in No. 1 room on charges of breaking into the refrigerator of T. H. Johnson at Riverside and stealing a lot of bananas and milk.

TEMPERANCE MAN AT CAMP CURTIN

Clarence True Wilson Speaks Tonight; Dedication Attracts 2,500 People

Camp Curtin Memorial Church dedicatory services yesterday were attended by more than 2,500 people, including Methodists from all parts of the city, many from other denominations and veterans of the Civil War interested in the church which has been built as a monument to the tented city of fifty years and more ago.

More than $15,000 was raised to-day toward the church debt during the day. The dedicatory services will be continued throughout the present week except Saturday and next Sunday.

Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Temperance Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will be the principal speaker at to-night's service which will be known as "Sunday School Night." J. H. Morgan, president of Dickinson College, Carlisle, will preside. The Rev. W. W. Hartman of Ridge Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church will offer prayer. Music by the choir will be another feature of the evening.

To-morrow evening will be "Community Fellowship Night." "Patriotic Night" will be observed Wednesday; "Methodist Night" on Thursday; "Missionary Night," Friday; address by Bishop William Burt of Buffalo, N. Y., Sunday morning, December 10.

Big crowds attended all of the services yesterday. The Rev. Dr. John Krantz of New York City conducted the financial program. The cost of erection was $60,000 and on the day of completion $22,000 was paid and a mortgage of the same amount placed, leaving a total of $16,000 to be accounted for. The sum of $15,229 was raised yesterday.

Dr. Krantz, the Rev. Dr. A. S. Fasiok of Carlisle, the superintendent, and Bishop William F. McDowell of Washington, D. C., were the speakers of the day yesterday. Music by Miss Clara B. Lackey, organist, was one of the features of the services.

FLAG FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL

Fulfilling a final wish of his wife, made on her death bed, Samuel H. Kautz presented a silk flag to the Sunday school of the Pine Street Presbyterian Church yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Kautz who died in 1913, was a teacher in the school.

I am now located in elegantly furnished offices in the Schleisner building, 26 North Third street. The new location is central and much more convenient than my former location, for patrons in all parts of the city and surrounding towns. My new offices are equipped with the newest approved instruments for correctly examining the eyes and color testing (for railroad men, and are thoroughly up-to-date in every particular. I trust this move of mine will prove a convenience to you and that I shall continue to be favored with your patronage. If I have fitted you with glasses, I have an exact record and can duplicate any part of them on short notice.

JONES sometimes wakes up feeling cross and in consequence the family know it without his telling them in so many words. Mrs. Jones attributes it to biliousness and if it doesn't wear off during the day she gives him a dose of liver medicine at night. The next morning he feels better and she gives him coffee for breakfast,—and the next morning,—and the next morning. And in a few days Jones has another spell. Dear Mrs. Jones means all right, but she doesn't seem to realize that if she didn't give Jones his morning coffee she wouldn't have to give him the liver medicine and Jones would feel all right without both. Housewives everywhere have found out that Instant Postum takes the place of breakfast coffee perfectly. And that is only one of the reasons why Instant Postum has wholly supplanted the use of coffee on thousands of tables of American breakfast tables.
