HOUSEWIVES TALK OF ORGANIZATION

tables in our local markets selling within the range of the most modest income. For instance, turnips and carrots bring only five cents a box; parsnips eight cents and young celery five cents per stalk, ten cents for a bunch of three stalks. Oyster plant is five cents a bunch; onions ten cents per box, cauliflower five, eight and ten cents a head.

"But," so many Mrs. House Keepers tell me, "my husband will not touch those heavy winter vegetables." Then he should be taught! Nothing is so provoking to the housewife as to have to cater to the man of the champagne taste and beer pocket-book. Try cooking the despised dishes in some odd way to attract his attention and so help to do away with his prejudice. Strange to say, most men are fond of a good vegetable soup and it is never complete without some of these very things cut through it.

Flemish Carrots

Use six good sized carrots, five small onions, a sprig of parsley and one pint of gravy or meat stock. Boil the carrots until tender. Cut into dice and stew them with the chopped onions, parsley, pepper, salt and gravy. Serve very hot.

Baked Turnips

Boil and mash through strainer about 10 large turnips. Retain some of the juice. Add one cup of milk, salt, pepper, celery salt, one beaten egg. Put together in baking dish, dot over with cheese and bake until firm.

Parsnip Cakes

Boil and mash six large parsnips. Season with pepper, salt and celery salt. Add flour enough to mould into small cakes. Fry in hot fat and serve with cream gravy or tomato sauce.

Fried Celery

Wash and scrape celery, cut into three-inch pieces, dip in batter, fry in deep fat and drain. Serve with tomato sauce.

Cauliflower Huntington

Steam the head until tender and serve with the following sauce poured over it. Mix—

1 1/2 teaspoons mustard

1 1/2 teaspoons powdered sugar

1 1/4 teaspoons salt

1/4 teaspoon paprika

1 beaten egg

1/4 cup olive oil

1/4 cup vinegar

Cook over hot water until mixture thickens. Remove from range and add—

1/2 tablespoon curry powder

1 1/2 tablespoon melted butter (or shortening and salt)

1 teaspoon chopped parsley.

French Fried Onions

Cut onions into 1/2-inch slices. Dip into milk, drain and then dip into flour and fry in hot fat until golden brown.

Cranberries have not gone up in price. They, at least, were a part of the Thanksgiving dinner we could eat with an easy mind! But with the Christmas feast in prospect why not prepare them now as follows?

Spiced Cranberries

Boil together 1 1/4 pounds brown sugar, 1 cupful vinegar, 1 tablespoon each of allspice, cinnamon and cloves. When boiled to a sirup, add 2 1/2 pounds of cranberries and simmer slowly until soft. Seal in glass jars until used. This is a delicious change from the usual tart sauce.

Lentils are devoted to cold weather use and selling from 20c to 25c per pound at almost any grocery store. Like the dried peas and beans, they require soaking over night before cooking and are bulky.

Lentil Rissoles

Take equal parts of strained well-cooked lentils and cold mashed potatoes. Mix, add 1-3 the amount of fine breadcrumbs, 1 teaspoon each of powdered sage and minced onion and a little salt. Dissolve a teaspoon of nut butter in 2 tablespoons of hot water and add to the mixture. Mix all well together, press into oiled tin, cut into squares and bake in moderate oven 15 minutes. Serve hot.

Lentils and Parmesan

Soak and boil the lentils. Cook them in a small quantity of water so that none of the nourishment will be thrown away. Season with salt, pepper and paprika. Add one tablespoon of finely chopped parsley or mixed herbs, one chopped onion and a little lemon juice. Put mixture into buttered pudding dish. Sprinkle the top with bread crumbs, over that a
