QUARTERS FOR ENOLA SCHOOLS

Temporary Accommodations Provided in Churches For Junior Grades

Enola, Pa., Dec. 6.—Schools of Enola will open in temporary quarters on Monday, December 11. This action was taken last night when a committee of the school board and representatives of the various churches and the Y. M. C. A. met in the high school building. On account of the scarcity of materials the new building will not be completed for at least six weeks and in order to make up some of the time lost, the board decided to take this action. The schools will be opened on half session in order to meet the needs of the various churches and the Y. M. C. A. agreed to let their buildings be used for school purposes, provided the board would pay for all damages done by the children, if any, and also pay for fuel used. It was decided to use the basement of the Reformed church for the first and second grades; the whole Methodist church, basement and auditorium, for the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades, and the Y. M. C. A. for the seventh and eighth, which session will start at 12:30 and close at 4:30. The hours of the other schools will be decided upon later. As all records have been destroyed, the children will report on Monday to the teacher whom they were under last year, and will be then graded to their proper classes.

GEORGE C. BOLDT, HOTEL KING, DIES

Owner of Bellevue-Stratford and Waldorf-Astoria Amassed Millions in Business

New York, Dec. 6.—Two blocks from the spot where he started life as a waiter, George C. Boldt, the most widely-known hotel proprietor in the country, died yesterday a multi-millionaire.

Boldt's life romance may be told in three characteristics: Initiative, optimism, courage. It was in the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, New York City one of the greatest monuments to his memory, that death came. It ended a career which many predicted was destined for even greater things.

Mr. Boldt virtually died in harness. He had been in poor health for several weeks, due largely to the great rush of business. There was no end of vast undertakings ahead.

The fact that most of his plans were crowned with success made work a pleasure to Mr. Boldt. It has been said that most of his employees has ever seen him sitting down idly.

Mr. Boldt was in Philadelphia about six weeks ago. He appeared to be in the best of health and mapped out a number of little improvements to be installed at the Bellevue-Stratford, of which he was also the owner.

As far back as thirteen years ago Mr. Boldt announced his intention of conducting the Waldorf-Astoria was $500,000.

Mr. Boldt had recently accepted an invitation to address the incorporators of the proposed million-dollar Penn-Harris Hotel here. He had many friends in this city.

Ministerial Body Is Opposed to Noises

In a statement made public yesterday, the executive committee of the Harrisburg Ministerial Association protested against interference with services in city churches on Sunday.

According to members of the association, the proposed addition to the Pennsylvania Milk Products Company plant in Atlas street near two churches is partly responsible for the protest.

Other annoyances near churches in various sections of the city have been reported also, the ministers claim, and efforts will be made to stop any interference with services. The letter follows:

To the People of Harrisburg:—The undersigned, consulting the executive committee of the Ministerial Association of Harrisburg and vicinity acting for and by the authority of the Association, issue this statement of conviction to those who address the worship of God in the various churches of the city is a source of blessing to the entire community. Any interference with it is, therefore, a matter of public concern.

PENROSE REVIVES "FORCE" BILL

Washington, Dec. 6.—Senator Penrose yesterday introduced his bill for the Federal supervision of national elections, in effect reviving the old "force" bill. Democratic Senators do not fear that the legislation will reach the proportions of an old-time agitation, but they are disturbed, not knowing what purpose Penrose has in injecting this subject into the present situation.

The Pennsylvania Senator proposed that his bill should be an amendment to the Owen corrupt practice act, offering one bill as a direct act; the other, a separate bill, merely reenacts the provisions of the Lodge "force" bill. The former provides the machinery for Federal supervision and the latter gives the Federal Government power to exert its full authority by bringing about an honest election and the enforcement of the Fourteenth Amendment.
