

HOT TEA BREAKS
A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Tee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

FIND MORE LOOT
HIDDEN IN HOME

diamond ring, one pearl ring, three ladies' gold watches, two men's gold watches, one double string genuine pearl, one combination pearl necklace and one silver mesh bag.
Yesterday the detectives got in on the "ground floor" when they discovered a bag of valuable loot hidden safely away in the coal pile in the cellar at the home of Lou Faust, 1913 H. Forster street.
Superintendent Windsor, Detectives Shuler and Patrolman Gardner left the police station yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock going directly to the Faust home to make a further investigation. Concealed in the coal pile, Detective Shuler found a bag so heavily laden with loot that one man could not lift it. The bag was filled with $100 cameras, prism binoculars, valuable gold watches collected from all parts of the State according to records, spectacles, razors, knives and pocketbooks.
While Shuler and Gardner were examining their find, Windsor had not been idle and in unsuspected nooks he discovered more purses, mesh bags, cameras, and most important of all a note book in which some of Faust's operations had been recorded. It gave instances of work done in Philadelphia that had netted Faust large sums of money.
The discovery of this loot may help to explain the presence of William H. Hirsney in Harrisburg. He was allowed to go free at the time of the arrest of Faust and his mother, Mrs. Mae Hirsney and was later sent to a relative in Baltimore. Wednesday afternoon he was found in the Forster street home and arrested. It is believed by detectives that he knew of the loot which the police had not found and returned to recover it.

High Cost of Living to Be Discussed at Conference of Governors of Nation

Madison, Wis., Dec. 8.—Governors of the various commonwealths of the United States will meet in conference at Washington, D. C., next week, beginning Thursday and ending Saturday. It was announced to-day by Miles S. Eiley, secretary of the conference. High cost of living will be one of the principal topics of discussion. Governors Miller of Delaware and Brumbaugh of Pennsylvania, have signified their intention to attend the conference.

NO MURDER CASES
UNTIL NEXT WEEK

cases could be reached any more this week and that the prospects were very, very bright for at least another full week of criminal sessions.
One more day of this week remains in which to take up the murder hearings and this fact alone, it is argued by many attorneys, might prevent the start of any of the hearings because the selection of the jury might require a full day. This would mean that the twelve would have to be "locked up" over Sunday before the case would be opened. Some State tax cases are listed for a hearing December 12 but these cases will be postponed.
In Additional Law Judge McCarrill's court the calendar had been pretty well cleared by early afternoon but in No. 1 room the trial of Damjan Rakas, charged with arson, still dragged through the day. This prevented the release of the entire panel from which to select a murder jury.
O. G. Wickersham, of counsel for Rakas, said that the case will likely be ready for the jury before evening. Rakas is charged with having conspired to burn down his own residence to obtain the insurance.
In No. 2 courtroom the trial of A. J. Valhovic, charged with shooting his wife and carrying concealed deadly weapons, was continued. Valhovic presented to the jury in Valhovic's absence as he mysteriously failed to put in an appearance when the case was resumed with the opening of court this morning.
Attorney W. J. Carter, counsel for Valhovic, saw his client about 9 o'clock and he advised him to be on hand at 9:30. That was the last seen of him. A captain and court officers are now looking him up.
Other cases disposed of were George Lampas, acquitted of a charge growing out of his alleged marital infidelity; Leah M. Foltz was acquitted of assault and battery upon Paul Chubb, the small son of a neighbor. Young Chubb and the Foltz heir got into a boyish mixup and the latter's mother interfered, it was shown.

FARMERS MAKE UP NEW BUREAU

turalists and its membership will be made up of farmers. Financial assistance will be given by the Chamber and its business organization will be available for the formation of the bureau. A county farm agent with headquarters in Harrisburg will operate throughout the county. An agent will be assigned to this district under the State College extension plan and the facilities of the agricultural school will be given the farmers of Dauphin through this arrangement.
E. K. Hirschman, who is in charge of the extension work at State College and who has charge of the installation and operation of farm bureaus in the State, spoke to the agricultural committee of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon. His assistant R. F. Weaver, a former resident of Millersburg, very much interested in the formation of the Dauphin farm bureau, was present and spoke.
D. M. MacMillan, acting secretary of the Carlisle Chamber of Commerce, which is working to secure a farm agent for Cumberland county, was present at the meeting.

MEN WELL UP IN YEARS IN TEST

45 and 65 are fit only for the scrap heap."
In response to advertisement in the newspaper several hundred applicants for work from men who had reached middle age or beyond, have been received by the committee and a large force of clerks, loaned by business houses, today began to sift and classify them.
"Twenty middle-aged men whom we have enlisted will be employed by one of the largest houses in Chicago," said Mr. Rosenthal. The head of this house, to make an efficiency test, will put them in the correspondence department. Alongside of them will be twenty young men, and each individual will be given the same work to do. They will open, sort and file correspondence and do auditing work.
"If these twenty middle-age men do half as much work as the younger men they will be paid half as much. If their efficiency is equal to the younger men they will receive the same salary."

GLOWING CROSS
CRUSADE SIGNAL

Establishing a new record of half a million sales.
During the last few days the distribution of the Christmas seals has been under way, although most of them have been distributed among the schools. The committee set aside this week as booster week for the school children particularly. How well the youngsters are coming to the front again is a story in itself.
For the last several years the opening of the campaign has been brilliantly opened with the switching on of the big electrically lighted red cross. As a rule this was sung out over Market street, but the Harrisburg Light and Power Company, which donates the cross and the current, yesterday set the cross up under the cornice of the Commonwealth Hotel overlooking the Square. The place was agreed upon following a conference on the subject by Chief of Police J. Edward Witzel, Dr. C. R. Phillips, chairman of the general Red Cross committee, and C. M. Kaltwasser, general manager of the electric company.
While the school children are planning to sell thousands of stamps, their country cousins in the county schools, particularly in the smaller towns "round about, will give the city folks a run for their money.
To date just double the number of seals have been placed with some of the little communities beyond the number disposed of by them last year. In Millersburg, Lykens, Elizabethville and Middletown this is especially true.

System Costs $200,000

The automatic system has been installed by the Cumberland Valley Telephone Company at a cost of approximately $200,000. The company's engineers and plant force have been working night and day for months to establish the new service. The entire plant has been greatly enlarged and it is prepared for an ultimate capacity to meet the maximum growth of Greater Harrisburg. The entire plant takes but one-third of the floor space necessary for a like capacity on the manual system.
All numbers of the company's telephones have been changed and the first automatic telephone directory will be out to-morrow.
The Steelton and Harrisburg exchanges are merged into one system and subscribers will be able to reach anyone in either the city or the big mill town without the double operation necessary under the manual system. Subscribers in Harrisburg and Steelton will dial straight through to Hummelstown, Mechanicsburg and Marysville and operators in those towns will receive and complete the call. This service will be extended to others of the suburbs from time to time.
Herbert Engineers Task
Granville S. Herbert, chief engineer, is the man on whom the responsibilities of one of the greatest electrical engineering problems in the history of the city have fallen. Mr. Herbert is a local man, the son of Alderman George D. Herbert, who for many years was prominent in the newspaper circles of this and other cities.

As soon as can be arranged the company will invite the general public to inspect the electro-mechanical beehive to watch the selectors and connectors and other devices in the operation of completing telephone connections without a human agency.
