Seventy per cent. of the fines were collected in Pittsburgh for violations of the act in Western Pennsylvania.

To Discuss Buying. — Superintendents of all State institutions will be here on Monday for a general conference in the offices of the State Board of Public Charities on uniformity in regard to purchase of supplies. The result of investigations made of purchases of all kinds of supplies by State institutions during the summer by Harry S. McDevitt, counsel of the State Economy and Efficiency Commission, will be laid before the superintendents and Governor Brumbaugh will probably communicate his views. The purchases aggregate many thousands of dollars in value annually.

Buckwheat Shy. — Experts of the State Department of Agriculture declare that the weather is responsible for Pennsylvania producing only four-fifths of fis average buckwheat crop. This state is among the leading growers of buckwheat in the country and this year produced only 4,480,000 bushels, the decline in bushels to the acre running in some cases as high as 20 per cent. Only the counties west of the Alleghenies, Bedford and Center, came near average yields, while only five east of the mountains had fair crops. They included Berks, Northampton, Dauphin, Montgomery and Lehigh.

TO ENTERTAIN LEAGUE MEMBERS

Civic Club Will Be Host to Municipal Body at Social in Frey's Hall

The initial step in promoting co-operation for civic betterment of the borough between the various munici-pal bodies has been taken by the Civic Club. This body has issued invita-tions to members of the Municipal tions to members of the Municipal League, and their wives, to attend a reception in Frey's hall, December 18. The affair is the first of its kind in the borough and the outcome may be that these two bodies will work hand-in-hand along the lines which are for the upbuilding of the community. By the co-operation of the two, much could be accomplished in some lines of work, it is believed.

J. Linley Hosford, of the State Health Department will be the speaker of the evening. He will speak on "The Relation of the State Department to Civic Organizations." Arrangements for the social are in the hands of four committees. The Sara Lemer Trio of Harrisburg, will furnish music during he evening.

Schwab to Take Over Lebanon Plant Tuesday

Lebanon, Pa., Dec. 9. — It is expected that final action to be taken next Tuesday on the option held by Charles M. Schwab, the Bethlehem Steel magnate, will result in a merger with the American Iron and Steel. The sentiment for consolidation among the shareholders of the American Iron and Steel indicates that the large majority are in favor of the merger with the Bethlehem interests. Until to-day 104,000 of the 110,000 shares are in favor of the merger.

A meeting of the officials of the American company will be held this afternoon and the meeting that is to take place next Tuesday will doubtless be the last meeting between the principals.

guns, and "incalculable" booty.

The Rumanian losses in dead and wounded were proportionate to the number of prisoners, the German statement declares, and it points to the figures as indicating the extent of the Rumanian army's demoralization.

The latest captures include several thousand men who tried to escape from the passes on the frontier of the Transylvania Alps, but were headed off by the swiftly advancing Ninth army in the region east of Sinaia. Both this army, in the North and the Danube army, from the south, are advancing , the Rumanians being still in retreat along the whole front.

How far the advance of Field Marshal Von Mackensen may take him before the entente forces are able to reconstitute themselves sufficiently to make an effort to hold him is by no means clear. It is considered probable, however, that not much, if any, of Wallachia will be left in Rumanian hands by the time a suitable defensive line is reached. The line of the Buzeu river, which military commentators have picked as a likely one on which a stand may be made, is virtually the boundary between Wallachia and Moldavia, Rumania's northern province.

ly the line along the western Molda-vian frontier, to safeguard that pro-vince, is indicated by to-day's report from Petrograd of a Russian offensive in the Putna Valley region on the frontier east of Kedzi Vasarhely. The announcement declares that the Austro-German forces were dislodged from two heights, losing 500 men in prisoners, one gun and six machine

Church Doing Big Things Un- An Event Which Stands Out Pre-eminently in City's Musical History

By JOHN W. PHILLIPS

A prompinent musician said recently that it was superfluous to speak of technique in writing up a concert, because an artist was supposed to have the necessary technique before appearing on the concert platform, therefore the critic should take it for granted that the technical equipment has been properly attended to and can be turned loose on the public with perfect safety. This argument would put all pianists in the same category as far as technique goes. The argument could be extended to include tone, because all real musicians produce good tone. Phrasing, proportion and temperament should also be present in every artist laying claim to public attention and approval; and so the argument could go on ad infinitum, until, with this basis of reasoning, a set form of criticism could be used, leaving a little space for filling in something about personal appearance.

Let us make an experiment. Start two young folks in at pianoforte study at the formative age, when hands need shaping and molding and strengthening, when stiff wrists and unruly fingers need attention; when the ear and brain can be most easily impressed, and when constant guidance will develop vision, technique and emotional expression. At the end of a certain period will the two pupils have the same ability? Most assuredly not. The technical ability will differ as well as the musical ability. If there is any musical artist that needs good technique it is the pianist. It means slavery to acquire a technique that will satisfy and endure. It requires unlimited patience and will power, and—kindly disposed neighbors.

There are certain events in our lives that impress and remain with us throughout life, certain concerts stand out pre-eminently and never fade from the memory. Such a concert was given it as the pianist. It means slavery to acquire a technique that will satisfy and endure. It requires unlimited patience and will power, and—kindly disposed neighbors.

There are certain events in our lives that impress and remain with us t

Suffer me to add my prayer that in the providence of the Great Head of the Church it be granted that this step forward shall mark a period of great progres and blessing to pastor, people and community, and that all redound to the giory of God and the saving of many souls.

With regard, I remain
