JITNEY CASES BEING SETTLED

Rulings in a Number of Those on the Dockets Are Being Made Nowadays

Orders are being issued by the Public Service Commission disposing of jitney cases which are governed by the decisions made at the last week in the Allegheny Valley and Wilkes-Barre "Railway" complaints. In both series of complaints there were numerous instances wherein the conditions were the same and formal orders to the owners to cease operating and secure State certificates have been prepared. It is estimated that there are about 115 in the Wilkes-Barre district controlled by the Parsons case, in which a certificate was ordered procured as a requisite to operation notwithstanding requirement of a city license, will control. In the western cases probably a score will be affected. The decisions rendered by the commission in jitney cases are being applied to complaints now on the dockets and where new angles arise hearings will be held. With exception of some administrative rulings it is probable that no additional opinions will be rendered on the cases in hand.

Women as Teamsters.—Women have been employed as teamsters in Warren county this year and have been earning $2 a day, says the bulletin of the State Department of Agriculture. The information came in a report on general conditions in that county which sets forth that the women did satisfactory work and were kind and considerate of the animals. The employment of the women was due to scarcity of men on farms and in general work.

Mr. Wynn Spoke.—W. A. Wynn, of the State Highway Department, spoke at the meeting of the Berks County Supervisors on what the State Highway Department plans for the year.

Attended Dinner.—Lieutenant Governor Frank B. McClain and Ex-Lieutenant Governor John M. Reynolds, Auditor General-elect C. A. Snyder, Resident Clerk Leib, Representative Richard J. Baldwin and others prominent in State affairs attended the dinner of the Pennsylvania Society in New York.

To Attend Meeting.—The meeting of the State Grange in Philadelphia this week will be attended by Deputy Secretary of Agriculture C. E. Carothers, Dairy and Food Commissioner

James Foust, George G. Hutchison and others connected with the Department of Agriculture.

Forest Fires Again.—Forest fires have damaged considerable timber land in Carbon county and strenuous efforts had to be made to combat them on the outskirts of Weatherly. State Foresters took a hand in the work.

May Ask State Police.—Owing to the bad conditions on pay nights in Gettysville there is a probability that the Governor will be asked to detail State policemen to help preserve order.

Old Age Pensions.—Representative James H. Maurer of Reading, is planning to revise his old age pension bill and similar measures which he presented in the last Legislature.

Fund Managers Commended.—The announcement of the State Insurance Fund that it would distribute dividends to its policyholders as the result of its first year's operations has attracted much attention and the managers of the fund have been commended for their action. The move will likely result in much more business for the fund this coming year.

O'Neil Returns.—Insurance Commissioner O'Neil came back to the city to-day to take up the business of preparation for the insurance suits.

Board Meetings.—The State Compensation Board will sit here Thursday for hearings and in Reading on Friday. It will sit in Pittsburgh December 29 and in Philadelphia after Christmas.

State Gets Road.—The State has been awarded the old Haws turnpike in Cambria county by the courts because the owners did not maintain it.

Big Hearings On.—The Public Service Commission began a series of hearings to-day, including the South Pittsburgh Tunnel and the Philadelphia electric merger.

No Information as Yet.—Adjutant General Stewart said that he had no date of departure of the 15th infantry from El Paso.

More Arrests.—More arrests for violation of the egg laws have been reported from Philadelphia where food agents have been very active.

Asks Rehearing.—Application for a rehearing of the appeal for commutation of the death sentence of Ernest Haines, one of the Jefferson county youths convicted of murder of his father, was filed with the State Board of Pardons to-day. It is accompanied by some letters urging clemency. The case will be argued along with that of Henry Ward Mottern, Haines' accomplice, on December 20.

Confers on Supplies.—Officials of the State hospitals met this afternoon in the office of the State Board of Public Charities to discuss ways and means to secure a uniform system of purchase of supplies and provisions for short institutions. The meeting was held in accordance with a suggestion by Counsel McDevitt, of the Economy and Efficiency Commission.

Inspecting Sheep.—Dr. R. M. Staley, of the State Livestock Sanitary Board, was to-day detailed to inspect sheep bought in New Jersey for placing on Pennsylvania farms as part of the cooperative plan of State bankers, wool growers and textile men to extend the sheep raising industry. Some excellent sheep have been bought in adjoining States and if the Jersey sheep pass muster they will be acquired through the Department of Agriculture.

In Mr. Keller's Hands.—Attorney General Brown has placed the matter of bringing suit against the city of Harrisburg for violation of an order of the Commissioner of Health for disinfection of sewage in the hands of First Deputy Attorney General Keller. Mr. Keller is making a study of the matter.

Institutes Laid Off.—Farmers' institutes are being held in only one county of the State this week, the other districts having the customary mid-December intermission. The institutes last week in Lancaster, Huntingdon, Bradford and Schuylkill counties were very largely attended.

BREAKING MUSTANGS PART OF TROOP LIFE

he prefers them in the raw state. And take it from the state, but satisfied cavalryman who is now riding about camp on his newly-broken steed, Uncle Sam gets 'em RAW!

Troop C's horses are in charge of a crew composed of Sergeant W. N. Wyble, Saddler N. W. Moyer, Horse-shoers F. E. Weber and W. G. Cunningham, and Orderlies W. H. Peters and C. M. Peters.

W. H. Peters, by the way, is one of the two sons of Assistant City Engineer Joseph Peters, doing duty on the border. In a recent letter home he sent a lot of photographs showing how the nearly wild horses of the plains are converted into mounts for the troopers.

To turn a kicking, bucking, squealing, vengeful bronco fresh from the corral, into a more or less meek and gentle horse for a trooper, is a job that Uncle Sam puts up to trained cowboys.

After a mustang has learned that a plentiful display of teeth, shrieks of rage, a jack rabbit motion with every muscle in action at once, are useless so far as efforts to unseat a man is concerned—then he tames down quite decently.

Thus a new "hoss" is available for the cavalryman.

Infantrymen Busy.—An interesting account of camp life in the Eighth Regiment, Pennsylvania Infantry from Camp Stewart, El Paso, Texas, appeared in the Public Ledger yesterday morning, including short accounts of what the boys and their officers, in Companies D and I, are doing.

The account follows in part: "With all else that it is—sturdy fighting machine and so on—the Eighth Regiment is human. Still human. The melting pot of the army has not overdone the job. They say it's the cam-shaft of the division—the Eighth. Which means that it's a very vital part of the machine.

"Blessed is the Eighth in its colonel. They'll canonize that man some day—if they're canonizing men who chew the ends of their cigars and say 'damn' when damn's the word. For here is Colonel Maurice E. Finney's strength:

"I've got one thousand and seven men. Every man has two cotton service uniforms. Each man has three olive drab shirts of wool. Each three pairs of shoes, three suits of underwear, a woolen olive drab blouse, two pairs of woolen olive drab breeches, half a dozen pairs of socks, three good meals every day, the new pyramidal tents. And every tent is floored and every tent has an airtight, wood-burning stove.

"And there, in very practical images, one has the story of contentment of the character of this man who, if he is not saintly, is at least paternal.

"And he came from Harrisburg, at that," said Lieutenant Colonel Kemper, his chief aid. Kemper's a United States Army officer and was on duty with the guardsmen, as inspector instructor, two years before they were called out of the State. "The regiment spent something like $300 on stoves to keep the men cozy," he went on. "That came out of the regiment fund."

is from Harrisburg. They are living in the past—in memories of that Thanksgiving dinner, when the boys had Mrs. Captain John T. Bretz and Mrs. Sergeant Frank Harder to dinner. Bunk is the favorite fatigue of the outfit. Swinger told me, laughing, he's going into the regulars soon.

"More Harrisburg men are in company, of which First Sergeant Charles McCurdy is the human totem pole. Sergeant Charles R. Green is a candidate for the vacant second lieutenantcy caused by the resignation of W. E. Wynn, of Dauphin."

Harrisburg boys in the Governor's Troop, known officially as Troop C, and stationed at Camp Stewart, El Paso, Texas, are well, enjoying camp life, but longing to come home, according to Captain George C. Jack, in charge of that command, who is home on a 30-day furlough.

"The men are tiring of the monotony of camp life and as they have had no active work except drilling hikes and maneuvers it is getting irksome. Lately there have been no hikes and no maneuvers and with not but the usual drills, the boys have reached their limit in efficiency. Ever since July 11 when we arrived we have not changed our camp site, and after cleaning out the cactus, rattlers, tarantulas, scorpions and prairie dogs and getting settled, little happened.

Sand storms almost daily furnish additional work and the boys always have to clean out their tents after the storm passes.

"Our camp ground is ideal and the Pennsylvania troops are stretched out for two miles. Large tents have been issued and stoves were set up in preparation for an indefinite stay."

Captain Jack in speaking of the recent "I want to go home" demonstrations said that he had heard that they started in at Belgena and the batteries of Scobba," says an Austrian Admiralty statement to-day. "Direct hits were scored upon three hangars. All the machines returned undamaged."

Paris.—Four German airplanes were brought down yesterday, two of them on the Verdun front and two in the Champagne, the War Office announces. Intermittent cannonading occurred south of the Somme last night.

New York.—William H. Taft, president of the League to Enforce Peace and other prominent members of the organization will deliver addresses this week at St. Louis, Kansas City, and Topeka. The league will make its first appeal at a dinner next Thursday at St. Louis.

Norfolk, Va.—The Southern Commercial Congress began its eighth annual convention here to-day with men from not only the sixteen Southern States of which the congress embraces, but from many others. This was attributed to the importance which generally is attached to the subject selected for discussion—international reconstructions.

Berlin.—An Austro-Hungarian naval air squadron on December 5, in spite of unfavorable weather, bombarded very successfully the aviation station at Belgena and the batteries of Scobba," says an Austrian Admiralty statement to-day. "Direct hits were scored upon three hangars. All the machines returned undamaged."

Paris.—Four German airplanes were brought down yesterday, two of them on the Verdun front and two in the Champagne, the War Office announces. Intermittent cannonading occurred south of the Somme last night.
