of seeing a band of 300 armed Mexican soldiers. John Vernon, brother of Thomas R. Vernon, Jr., proprietor of the Steelton American, has been more fortunate. He relates a very interesting story in a recent letter to his brother.

He states that he has been on patrod duty on the Mexican border, along the Rio Grande, about 50 miles from any railroad, town or post office for several months. He is one of a party of ten cavalrymen.

Recently when he and another member of the party were patroling the banks of the river they were halled by two Mexicans on the other side. The Mexicans asked the Yankees to trade horses. The Americans consented and the Mexicans proceeded to another the Mexicans proceeded to another with the spot where they were standing.

The trade was made and the visitors made their way to their own country. After the two Mexicans had disappeared the band of countrymen left the cliff and disappeared.

Both of the legislators from Frank- a while because of his zeal for local reparation for the past and adequate Britain will make no official comment the days when Daniel asked resignations of John P. Elkin, his deputy attorney general, and other officials. The big building fairly buzzed and numerous discussions had not been asked to resign and the office of the attorney general was an interesting place. Meanwhile the Governor was on his way to Washington.

Mr. Pomeroy was appointed superintendent March 24, 1903, succeeding the late Thomas G. Sample. He is a Chambersburg publisher and past president of State and national editorial associations, prominent in many torial associations, prominent in many things in the Cumberland valley and long active as a Republican. He served as a clerk to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, member of the House in 1895 and 1901 and as county chairman and member of the State committee.

The demand for the resignation on what are generally considered to be political grounds created a big impression among legislators here to see the Governor. There were rumors that the Governor in case that legislators of Washington leanings did not support Cox might discard Detrich and take Howard E. Butz, of Mt. Union.

Mr. Pomeroy left for home late this afternoon refusing to discuss the matter further. Whether he will take the bit in his teeth remains to be seen. He would not say anything.

Cox Here and Confident
Representative Edwin R. Cox, of Philadelphia, the administration candidate for speaker of the House, came to town to-day with Congressman John R. K. Scott, who is traveling about the State with him and after conferences with the Governor and Attorney General declared that they were entirely confident that Richard J. Baldwin would not be elected the speaker of the next House.

Both the Philadelphians were greatly interested in the demand for the resignation of Superintendent Pomeroy and in the reports circulated about the Capitol that he might "buck" and refuse to resign and that other officials might be removed. They declined to discuss these matters.

"I am well satisfied with the outlook and very confident," said Mr. Cox after leaving the Governor.

Governor Brumbaugh said as Mr. Cox left his office: "The reports I have received indicate that it is far better than I expected. I am confident that Mr. Cox will be the next speaker. The people who are for compensation, proper regulation of child labor and for preservation of pure food laws, the regulation of the loan sharks and for the humanitarian legislation are going to get behind him. I am for him. I have taken off my coat for him and know he is going to win." During the morning the Governor had "conversations" with these legislators: Wallace, Lawrence, who wants to be chairman of judiciary general; Campbell, Butler; Morgan, Mercer, Brumbaugh, Blair; Phillips, Clearfield: Colds mith, Westmoreland; Bedilespacher, Lycoming, and Showalter, Union. The New Life and Disability Contract

Many Life Insurance Companys have put disability clauses in their policies, providing waiver of premium and in some instances, allowing optional settlements. The Penn Mutual however, has made one more progressive step, by adding a clause which, first waives the premium; second, pays 10 per cent. of the face of the policy as an annuity, in monthly instal-ments; third, pays the full face of the policy to the beneficiary at death of insured, regardless of the length of time the insured
