HURT IN FIGHT

Employer Liab For Injuries
Received in Row Over
Work

Compensation for injury in an altercation arising between a foreman and an employe over the way work was being done should be compensated according to a decision given last evening by Compensation Commissioner James W. Leech in an unusual case arising from Mifflin county.

Jesse W. Deering, Lewistown, sprained an ankle in a dispute with a line foreman of the Penn Central Light and Power Company and was awarded compensation. Mr. Leech says: "The conclusion by the referee that at the time of the accident the employe was in the course of his employment is, however, involved in his award, and there may be some doubt as to whether this conclusion of fact, or law and fact is fully justified by the circumstances of the case. It is reasonably clear that the accident and resultant injury occurred before the claimant was discharged and had left the employment in which he had been engaged for the defendant company, since immediately before he fell off the wagon it appears he was handling tools and materials belonging to the defendant company, which we think is sufficient to sustain the finding that at that time he was in the course of his employment. True, not every injury which results from a quarrel between employes can be said to have occurred in the course of their employment, as frequently by the personal nature of the quarrel, the parties take themselves out of the course of employment, but in this case the dispute seems to have been about the method in which the work was done by the claimant. The other question raised by the defendant is that the injury was caused by an act of a third person intended to injure the claimant because of reasons personal to him and not directed against him as an employe or because of his employment.

"The conclusion of the referee assumes that the action of the foreman which seems to have resulted in the injury, grew out of the employment itself and was prompted by his relation and connection with the work and that of the claimant with the work, and not on account of an independent and purely personal motive or reason entertained by the foreman against the claimant. Doubtless there was a personal element in the anger which he exhibited at the time of the accident, but it can hardly be contended that the claimant would have suffered the injury had he not had the particular disagreement arisen about the work in the course of the employment."

Woman Routs Burglar
With Coffee Percolator

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 15.—Mrs. Tony Schuler, wife of the Republican committeeman of the Sixth ward, yesterday routed a burglar she surprised in her home at 305 A South Fourteenth street.

Mrs. Schuler was in the cellar talking to the washwoman when she heard a noise. She ran upstairs and picked up a coffee percolator. She saw a man running out of the house and pursued him on the street, but he escaped. Fifteen dollars was missing.

Manxmen Killing Rats
at Four Cents a Head

London, Dec. 15.—Many residents of the Isle of Man are making a good living these days by killing rats. It's a new business started since the Legislative Council of Manx passed a bill from the House of Keys, providing for the payment of two pence for every dead rat.

The bill was passed in an effort to exterminate rodents from the Isle of Man.

Vineland Pussy Rides
For Hours in Flywheel

Vineland, N. J., Dec. 15.—The cat came back at the borough power house but it was hardly recognizable. Kitty went to sleep in the flywheel, and soon found herself revolving at the rate of 150 times a minute.

She kept up the battle for life all day and evening, and when released had done over 500 miles. She was soaked with oil inside and out, and was a wreck, but will recover.

EGGLESS COOKING

St. Louis Housewives Aid Boycott and Save Money

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 15.—In these history-making days of the egg boycott, the woman who compiles eggless cooking recipes is second in importance only to the housewife who refuses to encourage the high cost of living by buying eggs.

Miss Efaie Brown, head of the domestic science department at the Young Women's Christian Association says the cook who says she can't cook and bake without the use of eggs knows little of the science of cookery. "There are eggless dishes for practically every course on the menu. Today my class of fashionable women learned to make several appetizing salad dressings," she declared.

"It is very simple. You just cook together two teaspoonfuls of butter and three tablespoonfuls of flour. Add a cup of sweet cream and let the mixture boil five minutes, stirring all the time. Remove from fire and stir in one-half cup of sour cream. The juice of a lemon, a little salt and sugar to taste. Allow the dressing to get cold.

is a splendid substitute for egg and oil mayonnaise and is particularly good with fruit salad.

"For the holidays, nothing is more appropriate in these days when every housewife is endeavoring to reduce the high cost of living than this eggless, milkless, butterless cake with eggless, white mountain icing:

"A—For the cake, take one cup of brown sugar, one cup of water, two cups of seeded raisins, one-third cup of lard, one teaspoonful of ground cinnamon, one teaspoonful of ground cloves, a little nutmeg and a pinch of salt.

"B—Two cups of flour, one-half tablespoonful of baking powder and one teaspoonful of baking soda. Sift flour twice before measuring.

"Boil the ingredients under 'A' in a saucepan for three minutes and let cool. Then stir in the ingredients under 'B'. Bake in a loaf in a moderately slow oven until it begins to draw from the sides of pan."

PLANNING MUMMER PARADE

Halifax, Pa., Dec. 15.—People who are interested in having a mummers' parade in Halifax on New Year's day are requested to attend a meeting in the Gazette office this evening at 7 o'clock for the purpose of hearing public opinion in regard to the matter. If it is decided to hold a parade, a committee will be appointed to solicit funds for prizes and make arrangements.

Old Santa
Says:

They'll All Be Looking For Me

Tomorrow---I'm going to start buying in earnest I've been to all the stores in town--and I'm going right back to the store from where I started. You know Old Santa plays fair and I'll tell you why I'm going to "DOUTRICHS."

In the first place you can clothe a man or boy from head to toe -- and as the time is getting short I want all the conveniences that will give me an advantage in making my purchases.

I was in Doutrichs yesterday and really they were so busy I had to wait my turn -- I believe the people came out to see if what I told them about this store was true.

You'll find it's only too true they keep agoing all day, say that store must have a good, willing lot of salesmen, for they never stopped a minute all the while I was there, and I saw a great many people who seemed to be waiting on their favorite salesman -- it just looked to me as if it were a family gathering where everybody is glad to meet everybody-- I'm going to this real Christmas store to-morrow.
