Peggy Alerts Christmas Chat

The cleverest of little wooden mannikins are this season's contribution to Christmas novelties, and are offered at the Woman's Exchange, Third street at Herr. There is Handy Harp, a smilingly ready to receive harp, most very at a being unscrewed at the waist and filled with that pins or crochet hooks, and Darby and Joan, the cunning pair—made to hold needles, and boxed together with a cute little tin stand. A likeable old witch, whose voluminous skirt conceals a spool of thread, and who holds in her interior a wooden family, while the little dancing doll mannikins, which are really spinning tops, are offered for just 25c, for children.

OLD ROSE AND SILVER

Old rose and silver will make a beautiful Christmas dinner table for you if you make use of the decorative suggestions offered by the Student Grocery Store (now owned by Mr. George Barne) Second street at the crossing of State. Use a graceful Bellefonte basket tinted in rose colorings as the centerpiece, filled with fruit and nuts and garlanded with Christmas greens. With this, four of the tall rose-colored candles shown at this same store would be most effective, or the tiny individual candles in the same shade at each plate. Christmas candles are a specialty at this store and are shown in delightful assortment.

SILVER THOUGHTS

One cannot speak of silver without thinking of the Cluster Jewelry Shop, 202 Market street, where such beautiful gifts in silver are shown. I find their prices on flat silver are the most reasonable in the city, and they offer a splendid assortment in the best patterns, while the beautiful Community Plate which a special representative from the factory has just featured at this store is displayed in a wonderful holiday exchange of silver, exquisite sets of rambles, after-dinner coffee and sugar, ordinal cups, candy and nut dishes, mammoth bowls, bouillon cups and in silver, boxed in handsome gift cases are just the thing for Christmas giving.

SILVER FOR EVENING WEAR

Still another silvery thought is brought to us by the wonderful evening slippers of silver cloth shown at the Walk-Over Boot Shop, 226 Market street, and not only the beauty of the dainty glistening cloth of silver, but the grace and simple elegance of the design of these slippers makes them especially desirable for smart evening wear. Indeed correctness of line and excellence of finish are characteristic of the footwear shown at this shop and the satin evening slippers, also offered in a full line of sizes are the kind that make large feet look small, and small feet look smaller.

THE THOUGHTFUL CHRISTMAS GIFT

The really thoughtful gift is one which will be of service all through the year and just such gifts are offered at the Electric Supply Co., 24 Second street in every kind of electrical device for the home. There are Christmas gifts in the form of electric Christmas gifts, which make breakfast on frosty mornings a so-called delight, electric coffee per-good that you will wonder how you ever existed without one before and

THE HOME-COMING

The wonderful thrill of the homecoming at Christmas time is a combination of many sensations, — the sight of eager faces at the station, the joy of being with friends and parents, and the delight in seeing old familiar landmarks of your hometown, and they have just realized how much it means, boys and young men to come back home to do their shopping, for the Douthett Store for Men, 384 Market street, has been crowded these last few days with young men and boys who are purchasing their winter overcoats and suits, their sport coats, and sweaters, and all their needed accessories, which they say can be bought so much more reasonably at this store than in any of the places they find on their journeys.

FURS FOR THE LITTLE TOTS

Whether or not you have thought of buying furs for your little daughter for Christmas, as soon as you see the dear little sets offered in holiday assortment at Astrich's, Fourth and Market streets, you will feel that nothing else will do, for they are just as cunning and pretty as they can be — and so reasonably priced. I love the little sets of white which are always so becoming to children, while some of the natural animal effects in brown, tan and grey are so attractively attractive. The muffs and scarves are just the right size for children, large enough to be warm and small enough to be in good proportion for the little tots, and some of the cute little round muffs made exactly like a miniature of the grown-up's sets, will especially delight the kiddies.

GIFTS THAT ARE DIFFERENT

Gifts that are "different" give especial attraction to the holiday display. Cotterell Book Store, 9 N. Market Square, has some of the original suggestions in gifts for women, and many most helpful offerings to please those difficult members of the sterner sex are shown. Many men would have much use for a flat rookey brief case and Cotterell's show these in beautiful black leathers and a fine heavy cowhide with nickel fastenings, which would make a most attractive gift. Folding hangers for coats and suits in leather cases, sturdy clothes brushes with good stiff bristles and the new flexible leather backs, and new designs in convenient wallets and coin purses for men are a few of many gift ideas offered at this store at attractive prices.

"BIG" FACTS

The longer I live the more I believe there is a definite reason for everything that happens. I just stop to "figure it out," and when I thought about it it did not take me long to decide why the J. H. Troup Music House, 15 S. Market Square, is the biggest store of its kind in Harrisburg. It is big in its policy, big in service to its customers, big in its liberal system of credit, and after discovering all this, it follows very naturally that this store should be big in size and big in popularity, and it is no wonder that they are doing now the biggest Christmas business in their history, for there are offerings in pianos, phonographs, Victrolas, Columbia and Edison records, and their enormous record libraries offer the customer the widest and most complete selection.
