"GRUMPY" BEST
PLAY OF SEASON

Cyril Maude and Splendid
Supporting Company Delight
Orpheum Audience

That well-known part, portraying the hard-shelled old man with a heart of gold and as big as a house, has been refined by the distinguished English actor, Cyril Maude, to the point where his presentation of "Grumpy," at the Orpheum Theater last evening, incited an audience to enthusiasm such as is seldom experienced in the local play-house.

Mr. Maude, is, in the minds of many discriminating critics, the best character actor in the country to-day. His finished portrayal of "Grumpy" showed every detail to perfection. His complete submergence of self was discernible to those who know him, and "Grumpy" as "Grumpy," and not as Cyril Maude, was the personality that impressed itself on the appreciative audience. The interesting mannerisms of the extremely English found expressions in his splendid acting of Eric Blind, as "Mr. Jarvis," the shrewd "gentleman burglar," about whose actions the more thrilling portions of the play revolved.

Although other members of the cast, who unshadowed by the great actor would undoubtedly shine forth as stars of greater magnitude, carried off their parts to the extreme satisfaction of their hearers, the acting of the famous veteran of the stage (who isn't really as old as he looks in the part) was the event of the evening. The combination of melodrama with reflections and wholesome humor, and the wonderfully smooth action of the plot effected the most pleasing result of the theatrical season.

CARRIE GLENN WITH "WHEN DREAMS COME TRUE" AT ORPHEUM CHRISTMAS

"When Dreams Come True," the first musical comedy written by Philip Bartholomae, author of "Little Miss Brown," "Over Night," and "Very Good Eddie," will be produced at the Orpheum Monday, as the Christmas attraction. The song hits are many, and include among others, "When Dreams Come True," "Who's the Little Girl?" "Come Along to the Movies," "You, Dear, You," and "Dear World."

not as crude as of the old days, will be delighted with "Broadway After Dark," which will come to the Orpheum Tuesday, matinee and night. This play has a punch in every act, and there is not a dull moment from curtain to curtain. It is a strong and stirring play that abounds in unusual situations and shows certain phases of modern life in vivid aspects. The story is founded on the new idea that women can "come back," and shows the trials and struggles of a "Broadway Camille" to regain her footing on the right road.

angle-Fine Arts star, has been seen in many features since "Children of the Feud," at life a little over one the Colonial Year ago, but it is doubtful if this popular star has ever been cast in a part to which she is so well suited, as the role she portrays in "The Children of the Feud," booked for the Colonial Theater to-day and tomorrow. This play was founded on the notorious affair at Hillsville, Va., when a gang of mountaineers shot up a court that had sentenced one of their number. It gives Dorothy Gish a part that will at once gain your sympathy and is sure to win her many new admirers. As the daughter of a moonshining mountaineer Miss Gish falls in love with the son of a judge, killed by her mountain fiancé. The action growing from this situation has not a moment free from suspense and rapid-fire happenings. The latest New picture and a new comedy will be on the same program. Friday and Saturday, Chas. Ray in "The Honorable Algy."

Of to-day's attraction the New York Morning Telegram says: "Florence LaRade's ability to create a living, breathing and thinking character, combined with Agnes Johnston's faculty for writing an unexaggerated and human story of everyday life, makes this feature well worth seeing." "Divorce and the Daughter" is one of the most powerful dramas we have been able to present for some time and is one side of the great argument—"is marriage a failure?"

It Works! Try It
Tells how to loosen a sore, tender corn so it lifts out without pain.

Good news spreads rapidly and druggists here are kept busy dispensing freezons, the ether discovery of a Cincinnati man, which is said to loosen any corn so it lifts out with the fingers. Ask at any pharmacy for a quarter ounce of freezone, which will cost very little, but is said to be sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus. You apply just a few drops on the tender, aching corn and instantly the soreness is relieved, and soon the corn is so shriveled that it lifts out without pain. It is a sticky substance which dries when applied and never inflames or even irritates the adjoining tissue. This discovery will prevent thousands of deaths annually from lock-jaw and infection heretofore resulting from the suicidal habit of cutting corns.

To-night is the last opportunity patrons of the Majestic Theater will have of witnessing the bill of vaudeville appearing at Santa Claus on Majestic there. Sandy McIntosh and his three Scotch lasses are delighting audiences with their excellent instrumental and vocal musical act, while the four other Keith acts are pleasing. The headline attraction of the last three days of this week is a musical comedy "girl act" entitled "Harvest Days." Grouped around this attraction are: R. C. Faulkner, as "Woodrow" in "My Administration," David S. Hall and Company in a new comedy sketch entitled "Speed" and Van, in an excellent instrumental and vocal musical act, in which they introduce the harp and violin, and Vivian Cahill, trapeze artist. A Christmas toy for every kiddie who attends the Majestic Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be given by Santa Claus. Old Santa is as jolly as ever and seems to have more presents than ever before.

Duncannon, Pa., Dec. 20.—An enthusiastic municipal meeting was held last evening that had the yuletide spirit throughout. Committees were appointed to take charge of the arrangements for a Duncannon holiday celebration which will open Christmas afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at which time Duncannon's municipal Christmas tree will be lighted and Santa Claus will give candy and popcorn to all children present. A short address will be made by Dr. George H. Johnston, the Duncannon band will enliven the occasion with plenty of music. The tree will be erected in Market Square and Borough Council will furnish the electricity from the municipal electric light plant. A big parade is being planned for the first day of the New Year at 2 o'clock in the afternoon which promises to be even greater than the old-time mummies' turnout of years ago.

EVANGELISTIC CAMPAIGN
An evangelistic campaign will open in the Penbrook United Evangelical Church New Year's Eve. The Rev. Mae E. Frey, of Towanda, Pa., will have charge of the services. SHOT TWO FOXES Summersdale, Pa., Dec. 20.—Husto L. Meacham, a well-known hunter of this section shot two large gray foxes this week, one on Monday and the other on Tuesday, in the mountain back of Summersdale.

Elizabethtown Musicians Give Concert at Masonic Home

Elizabethtown, Pa., Dec. 20.—Masonic Lodge No. 622, of Elizabethtown, though yet in the early days of its existence, has time and again proved its important usefulness to the Masonic homes, it being the nearest lodge. Not only have they cheerfully and promptly discharged their Masonic duties to the homes, but also joined their sister lodges in providing religious services and contributing to the pleasure of the guests by arranging entertainments.

The latest offering of this fraternal courtesy took place Friday evening, last, when they brought to the homes some of Elizabethtown's choicest talent and gave an enjoyable entertainment. Richard H. Lawry, Worshipful Master of Lodge No. 622, opened the entertainment with a pleasing address, and a delightful program was rendered as follows:

Vocal quartet, Misses Dorothy Buch and Catharine Lawry, Charlie Anet and Harry Lawry; piano solo, Miss Susan Buch; recitation, "Jimmy Butler and the Owl," Miss Bertina Heller; piano duet, Mrs. C. R. Gingrich and Mrs. H. M. Gruber; vocal solo, "The Holy City," Miss Erna Gross; selection, violin quartet; vocal solo, "Lovely Spring," Mrs. C. R. Gingrich; recitation, "A Part of Anne of Green Gables," Miss Dorothy Ricker; piano solo, "Charge of the Uhlans," Misses Grace and Lucy Lawry.

The Rev. Dallas M. De Huze, a guest and chaplain of the homes, on Saturday evening, delighted the guests with his illustrated lecture on "Yellowstone National Park."

The religious services of Sunday last, including the administering of the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, were conducted by the chaplain.

One of the most useful and acceptable donations to the homes is a large fireproof safe, weighing 1,200 pounds, for the keeping of the guest's records and other important and valuable papers. It was the gift of Augustus Stiffel, of Little, Pa.

The coming of Christmas is already foreshadowed in activities of preparation at the homes, not less than 686 yards of greens having already been tied for the extensive decoration of all the principal buildings.

To accommodate the homes' friends coming from the western part of the State, the annual New Year's reception and masquerade ball will be held on Saturday evening, December 30.

Deaths and Funerals
MRS. MARY HOLLER
Mrs. Mary Holler, 73 years old, died last night at the home of her son, William Holler. Death was due to a complication of diseases resulting from old age. She is survived by three sons, William and D. W. Holler, of Camp Hill, and A. Lincoln Holler, this city; also one daughter, Mrs. William Garverich. The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at her late residence. The Rev. H. W. Hartsack, pastor of the Camp Hill Methodist Church, will officiate. Burial will be made in the Marsh Run Cemetery.

MRS. MARY CONNOLLY
Mrs. Mary Connolly, a former resident of Canton, Pa., died last night at the home of her niece, Mrs. J. T. Carpenter, 214 North Third street. Funeral services will be held on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock from the St. Mary's
