ATT WHITE MEAT TURKEY! WHAT HO!

Harrisburg, near Nineteenth and Market. His boys are running the farm back along the William Penn Highway.

"Oh, yes," said the old man this morning to a Telegraph reporter, "I have invented an all-white-meat turkey."

"Henry Ford will have nothing on your bank account when you get going properly," suggested the reporter. "I should say not!" ejaculated Newton.

"I was in the Broad street market early Saturday morning and I saw common white-and-dark-mixed-meat turkeys selling for as high as 70 and 80 cents a pound. Pretty soon the supply was all gone and folks were offering $1 a pound for any kind of turkey. It certainly pained me to know that there are only three pairs of all-white-meat turkeys in the world; and they are up at my farm in Cambria county, along the William Penn Highway. I expect to use intensified farming methods on these three pairs of turkeys next year. I will get not less than fifty turkeys from the six. The following year I expect to begin making money."

"This chatter is all very well," said the now-impatient reporter, "but tell me this: how do you grow these all-white-meat turkeys? Tell me the process." The old man calmly raised the lid over his right eye.

"Do you see any unnatural discoloration there?" he asked. "Any color such as green? Young man, it is only necessary for me to tell you that I have these all-white-meat turkeys. I can prove it by showing them to you. I served one Thanksgiving Day to 'Uncle Bill' McClarren, 'Jim' Berkeley and Enoch Miller, all well-known citizens of the town of Ebensburg. That should be sufficient. If you want to announce to a waiting world that I have invented all-white-meat turkeys—if you want to tell that nature has been successfully defied—if you want to tell that precedent has been overthrown and order turned into chaos, so far as turkeys are concerned, you can do so. If you don't want to, you know what you can do, too."

The reporter still demanded proof.

"There, dad-blame you!" ejaculated the old farmer. "There's a photograph reporter had to leave. That Newton is on the level is vouched for, however, by Robert F. Gorman, who lives near Nineteenth and Park, and by other residents of that section of Harburg.

NAVAL FIGHT

Rome, via Paris, Dec. 26.—A naval engagement between French, Italian and Austrian warships in the Strait of Otranto is announced in an official statement issued by the admiralty. The statement says:

"Several enemy ships attacked our patrol vessels in the Otranto channel on the night of December 23. French and Italian warships came to the rescue and the enemy fled under cover of darkness after a sharp engagement. What damage he suffered is unknown. Two French destroyers and one patrol boat were hit and slightly damaged."

ACQUIT STATE POLICEMAN

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Dec. 26.—Walter Miller, a member of the State police stationed at Pottsville, was acquitted here on a charge of assaulting Charles Kolara during the trolley strike disturbances. It was alleged by the prosecution that Miller struck Kolara on the head with a riot club and beat him badly. The defense was that Miller was stopping a fight, and it was necessary to use force to save property and break up a riot.

SAND RUINED XMAS DINNERS

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 26.—A wind storm marred the Christmas celebration in the army camps in this district yesterday, blew sand over the Christmas dinners at noon in the mess-houses and prevented many of the band concerts and outdoor celebrations from being held.

LIGHTNER LOSES NO TIME FOR JOBS

Takes Prompt Steps to Find Out What the Employers of State Require

Announcement of the proposed return to Pennsylvania of about one-third of the 8,900 national guardsmen from this state now on the border has caused a number of inquiries to be made of Director Jacob Lightner of the State Employment Bureau, for information as to the occupations of many of the men in the militia. The bureau, at the suggestion of Captain George C. Jack, of the Governor's Troop, called attention of employers to the fact that a number of trained men would be home again and the result has been a notable increase in inquiries.

Director Lightner will make efforts to find out what places are open to men who are returning, the particular needs of railroads, mills and factories and others which have been seeking men and the occupations of the men who are coming home with no positions in sight. "We have already received a number of letters asking when the soldiers will be home and at what points they may be found," said Mr. Lightner. "We intend to get all the information possible from both sides and by the time the boys get home the bureau will be able to help them and also to assist the employers seeking men with special qualifications."

Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart has given Director Lightner assurance of all the aid possible. From what General Stewart has received, the men will be home during January and Mr. Lightner plans to get into prompt touch with the commanders so that things will be ready when home stations are reached.

Capitol Resumes.—The State Capitol resumed business this morning after a holiday since yesterday. Desks vacant as people did not leave for Harrisburg until this morning.

Greetings.—Governor Brumbaugh late Saturday night wired Christmas greetings to the Pennsylvania soldiers on the border and General Clement replied last night with an expression of appreciation and also of joy that the service was near an end.

McClain as Santa.—Lieutenant Governor McClain was Santa Claus at the Lancaster charitable institutions yesterday. He was gross in the part and his friends complimented him.

Claims on Farmers.—Claims against farmers in the sixth compensation district have been filed with Referee Jacob Snyder at Altoona. Charles Shaffer, of Boiling Springs, was picking apples for J. Emery Shires, a farmer, last fall and fractured his left hip. He placed a ladder against a tree and, when he mounted it, the branch broke.

Russell Morgart's right arm was caught between a wheel and the tank of an engine at the farm of Jacob and Samuel Nicodemus, in Woodbury township, and the bone fractured. The defendants claim Morgart was not employed by them, but was a volunteer assistant at the moving of the engine.

I. H. Doutrich Celebrates 45th Birthday Anniversary

I. H. Doutrich, one of Harrisburg's well-known merchants, has just celebrated his forty-fifth birthday anniversary. Mr. Doutrich is a native son of Dauphin county, having been born in Lower Swatara township, Dec. 13, 1871. Mr. Doutrich's business career has been an active one. After graduating from Pottsville Business College, he took a position as a clerk with Hartzler Brothers, Elizabethtown. At the end of six years he went into the men's clothing business in Elizabethtown, in partnership with Jacob Oldwiler. Later he sold out his interest in his partner and opened a store in Orwigsburg.

I. H. DOUTRICH

Six years later he opened an additional store in Schuylkill Haven, followed by still others in Bangor, Pen Argyle, Phoenixville and Middletown, Pa. In 1905 he came to Harrisburg and opened a large men's clothing and furnishing store at 304 Market street, and is at present operating this store, one in Middletown and one in Pottsville.

It is probably needless to say that Mr. Doutrich is a man of progressive ideas and tireless energy. These qualities, linked with the efficient corps of co-workers with which he has surrounded himself are responsible for his rapid strides made in his business enterprises here and elsewhere. He is interested in Harrisburg's growth, is well known in civic and commercial circles, and has been the recipient of many congratulations.

XMAS DINNER FOR HORSES

Washington, Dec. 26.—Work horses of Washington to-day were treated to the second annual dinner arranged by philanthropic equine lovers of the city. Oats, fodder, carrots, apples and other delicacies not usually served to laboring classes of animals, were on the menu. During the dinner hours many teamsters and cart drivers took plans to be taken to the horse show grounds where the manger-feast was spread, with plenty of food for one thousand. A few high-blooded horses, ridden or driven by wealthy owners, were among the

Just a Country Store Merchant

Years ago a country merchant was talking to his partner about the possibilities of opening a store in "The City" he had heard so much about what other men had accomplished — and being ambitious, thought he too, might become a city merchant.

After completing arrangements to sell his share in the little country store, he finally came to Harrisburg to look around — and purchased what HE thought a fair size store — in a reasonably good location — but learned afterwards that he was SUPPOSED to have been handed a "gold brick."

Handicapped by being unfamiliar with the necessary requirements to cater to "The City Folks" — this country merchant was somewhat puzzled to know just what to do — at last he came to this conclusion—

I believe I'll just try the old way as if I were back in my old "country store," give the people fair treatment, good values and square-dealing, then if I can't win that way I'll go elsewhere.

But somehow, (strange to say) that's just the very kind of a store the people of Harrisburg were looking for—and received this "country merchant" with open arms, how they have shown there appreciation can only be told by the immense volume of business this "country merchant" is now enjoying.

To-day he is the recognized leader—the most talked of merchant in Harrisburg — and proprietor of the largest clothing store in Central Pennsylvania — Thanks to the thousands of loyal friends who have done so much to make this the representative "Men's Store" of Harrisburg — we hope to grow still larger by sharing your continued patronage and good-will.
