Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. No cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed membrane. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for particulars, free. P. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. National Bank Resources Are Up to $4,028,000

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—The resources of the national banks of the United States within the last two years, as shown by the returns from the last bank call issued November 17 and just compiled in the office of the controller of the currency, have developed three times as fast in any other two-year period in the history of our banking system. The strength, growth and progress shown by these figures surpass all precedents. The increase in resources since the Federal Reserve system went into operation has been an unparalleled amount of $4,028,000,000, or more than 35 per cent. in the precise period of two years. This increase between the call of September 12, 1916, and November 17, 1915, is the largest that has ever occurred between calls.

Dauphin Deposit Shows Depositors How Machine Protects Their Interests

So much interest was displayed in the demonstration given yesterday by the Dauphin Deposit Trust Company of the new Elliott-Fisher bank bookkeeping machine that it will be repeated to-morrow between the hours of 10 and 12 o'clock. Depositors and visitors who witnessed this demonstration were shown how this machine insures accuracy and gives them the best possible accounting service. The demonstration was in charge of C. C. Fitch, manager of the bank department of Elliott-Fisher Company. Mr. Fitch showed how the machine made the depositor's statement, posted the ledger and furnished a complete journal of checks and deposit all at one operation. He pointed out how each day's bookkeeping was proved from every angle so that it is almost impossible to make a mistake which could not be detected immediately. The great importance of the journal of checks and deposits made the Elliott-Fisher way was explained to many. Each day this can go to the cashier, or any other official of the bank so that he can see the condition of every account and the changes that are made from day to day. This journal is virtually a duplicate set of records in addition to the ledgers. If for any reason one or more of the ledgers should be destroyed, as in the case of fire, they can be completely reconstructed from the Elliott-Fisher journal of checks and deposits. Many depositors received an explanation of the depositor's statement and how it was made at the same operation with posting the ledger. The importance of this statement was seen at a glance. With Elliott-Fisher bank book for the depositor to return his bank book for the cashier. Many of those who witnessed this demonstration never realized before that Harrisburg makes such a wonderful machine for bank bookkeeping. Elliott-Fisher Company, in its beautiful daylight factory in South Cameron street, has spent years in developing and perfecting this machine.

City Ash Collection Problems Grow Graver

Samuel Gardner, president of the Pennsylvania Reduction Company, which has the contract for the collection of ashes and garbage in the city announced to-day that the company had thirteen ash carts and 6 garbage wagons collecting to-day, and that he expected the situation would improve considerably within the coming week. He blames the holiday season for the refusal of the men to work. Yesterday only 9 carts and wagons were working. More went out but the drivers refused to work in the rain. Secretary Hamilton of the Reduction Company said that the collections are now three weeks behind schedule. CHESTER WILL "FIRE" ITS ASH COLLECTOR. Chester also has its ash and garbage troubles. At a special meeting of the city council of that city yesterday the City Solicitor was authorized to prepare papers for the forfeiture of contracts and bonds existing between George D. Armstrong, ash contractor and council, and advise as to the steps to be taken. The motion was offered by Superintendent of Streets Messick and seconded by Councilman Mirkl and passed unanimously on the roll call. The above action was taken following a fiery discussion between the councilmen over the conditions existing. Councilman Mould declared each night he received 10 to 20 complaints over the telephone at his residence about the noncollection of ashes. "Councilman Mirkl then said: "I think Mr. Messick has given Contractor Armstrong every chance and he has violated provisions of the contract and the winter ash schedule each minute of the day." Councilman Messick then offered the motion for Solicitor Cochran to give council the action to be taken. Contractor Armstrong's five-year contract expires April 1, 1917. The Highway Department will undoubtedly take charge of the ash collection until that time.

Reed. Bogner, of Speeceville, will be preceded by a vocal solo by Mrs. Charles E. Lebo. Professor M. C. Hummer and Miss Long will play a piano duet. Scrap Iron Feed For Poultry Many Ways

Lewistown, Pa., Dec. 28.—Dory Hummel, of Beaver Springs, owns the heaviest pig in proportion to size in the world. The pig, of no remarkable dimensions in height or beam, was slain and when placed on the scales was found to register 595 pounds. "Something wrong," said Hummel, and his farmhand and neighbors as-sented. "The scales be OK," continued Hummel, challengingly, and though all inwardly doubted, none was rash enough to take up the issue. Then the pig was turned over to the farmhand to be cleaned. It proved to be a walking hardware store. In the stomach were sixty-nine ten-penny nails, a quantity of loose bolts, nuts and screws and six pieces of iron hoop from four to six inches long. Mr. Hummel avers that this method of feeding has the poultry dealers of New York who stuff their birds with sand and shot to increase their weight, beaten to the wire by ten rods. Over in Sinking Valley is another remarkable pig. This is a female of the species and she lives up to the deadlier-than-the-male thesis of R. Kipling. Henry Smith owns this pig, which devoured yesterday seven hound puppies, five kittens and two Pekin ducks. Mr. Smith came out to remonstrate and his farmyard pet chased him into the house. "Pigs," says Mr. Smith, "may be pigs, but some are hungrier than others." Boy! Page Ellis Parker Butler!
