

AMUSEMENTS
JOHN DREW IN MAJOR PENDENNIS

Thackeray's Novel Dramatized a Sparkling Comedy of Nineteenth Century

John Drew in a somewhat unaccustomed role last evening played Major Pendennis to a full house at the Orpheum. John Drew was of course the center of attention, but a discriminating audience did not fail to appreciate the splendid acting of the strong cast that surrounded the eminent actor. Patterned after William Makepeace Thackeray's novel, Major Pendennis is a comedy of the early nineteenth century, portraying in young Arthur Pendennis the characteristic gentlemen of the age, with a lively intellect and a high self-concept, but a sense of honor and a capacity for love.

Arthur Pendennis was capably impersonated by Brandon Tynan, who enacted a rather difficult character role to perfection. John Drew, as the Major's valet, filled an important niche in the development of the story, and Helen Menken as Blanche Amory, the much-singing daughter of wealth, would have delighted Thackeray's heart, had he been there last evening to witness his characters in action. Captain Jack Costigan, with ever-redeeming nose and "goon" hair, was acted by Lester Lenagan, while Jane Huston took the part of Emily Fotheringray, his ambitious daughter; the entire personnel of the cast, in short, was such as to maintain the high standard which one expects of John Drew's co-players.

There were no weak points. John Drew was his own self, the aristocratic gentleman, with a commanding presence and an inevitable personality. With little delay between the acts, and with an attractive atmosphere of old English hovering about the stage, the play was carried through to a highly satisfactory conclusion.

—MAX ROBERTSON.

ORPHEUM — Friday and Saturday and Saturday matinee, January 5 and 6—Al. G. Field Greater Minstrels. MAJESTIC—Vaudeville. COLONIAL—"The Wharf Rat." REGENT—"The Wharf Rat." VICTORIA—"Heart of the Hills."

The Al. G. Field Greater Minstrels have always been foremost exponents of dancing styles and this season the program again has a variety and scope all its own. Whenever fitting throughout the performance, an illustrious dancing number is introduced and all resources in the way of settings, lighting and costumes are utilized to their exceptional.

In addition to a large and competent chorus, there is associated with John Dove a brilliant group of principals, among whom are: Joe McCarty, Joe Coffman, Eugene DeBell, Earl Neisner, Frankie Miller, William Wachman, T. F. Hanley, Harry W. Young, Jim Conroy, Carl Nixon, Garnet Newton, John Healy and others.

The Al. G. Field Greater Minstrels are at the Orpheum Friday and Saturday and Saturday night.

"Busy Izzy" a big musical comedy, with George Sidney as the star comedian, is booked for the Orpheum next Wednesday matinee and night.

This show is a standard attraction, and the 1917 edition is down to the very second as to jokes, songs, dances, costumes, scenery and all the elements. George Sidney, one of the funniest comedians on the American stage, has a whole repertoire of new jokes and songs.

This is the last opportunity patrons of the Majestic Theatre will have of witnessing the splendid bill of vaudeville appearing there. The Slyester family, consisting of father, mother and four very clever children, is one of the most popular numbers on the bill, and their little offering entitled, "A Happy Evening at Home," is very entertaining. Four other good Keith acts round out the vaudeville list. For the last half of the week "The Hoosier Girl," a scenic musical comedy "girl" with nine people, will be the big feature. Grouped around this attraction are: Golek, Harris and Morey, a clever trio of men who scored such a tremendous hit here at the opening of the season; Jack Marley, singing and talking comedian; Duffy and Daisy, in a lively cycle and acrobatic act, and the Koban Japs, novel equilibrist.

The story deals with the adventures of Hester Madgwick, daughter of an English nobleman, who is kidnapped as "Hills" at Victoria a child and consigned to a service of a heathen god. Years later she is sent to London to recover a sacred ruby. Strangely enough, the search leads her to her own father's house.

How blood proves thicker than water, and how, aided by a handsome young Englishman, Hester escapes the traps and pitfalls prepared by an intriguing half-sister and agents of the Hills clan, finally marrying the man she loves, makes an exciting story of infinite charm.

For to-morrow, "The Phantom Buccaneer," featuring Richard C. Travers and Gertrude Glover.

To-day and to-morrow Blanche Sweet, with The Phantom Buccaneer, presented in "Unprotected," at the Regent. At Regent, "The Phantom Buccaneer" Sweet portrays the most striking and unusual character of her entire career—that of the convict young artist, leased with other convict laborers and sentenced to work in a turpentine camp.

As an orphan girl, she goes to live with her uncle, who refuses to permit her to indulge in her artistic inclinations. An accident befalls the old man, in which he is killed, and she is sentenced to ten years in prison, and is sent out to a private firm to work with the riff-raff of the State in one of the huge turpentine camps. How, as a young artist, she meets the son of the Governor—how he falls in love with her, and although she is in a convict's dress, she is able to find her way to the Governor's office, where she is recognized as the daughter of a nobleman.

Disguised as a boy, she makes an attractive picture in her efforts to save her grandfather from the consequences of a crime he committed, but in doing so, she nearly loses her sweetheart. The aided attraction of the program will be a new two-reel Keystone comedy, called "His Only Friend." Thirty minutes of fun and thrills Friday and Saturday. Thos. H. Ince will present William Desmond and Dorothy Dalton in "A Gamble in Souls," a full story presented in a clever manner.

"The Wharf Rat," the new Triangle play, featuring Mae Marsh, booked for the Colonial Theatre and to-morrow, the Colonial was written by Anita Loos, the author of the popular stories in which Douglas Fairbanks usually appears. It is a comedy drama with scenes and actions on the wharves of San Francisco, and tells of a little girl, who is mistreated by her step-parents and runs away from home. Disguised as a boy, she makes an attractive picture in her efforts to save her grandfather from the consequences of a crime he committed, but in doing so, she nearly loses her sweetheart. The aided attraction of the program will be a new two-reel Keystone comedy, called "His Only Friend." Thirty minutes of fun and thrills Friday and Saturday. Thos. H. Ince will present William Desmond and Dorothy Dalton in "A Gamble in Souls," a full story presented in a clever manner.
