shells. These magazines are situated in a remote quarter of the enclosure and carefully protected.

Houses and Plants Shelled Although the country immediately surrounding the plant was subjected all night to a terrific bombardment, the damage was not as great as had been feared, owing to the fact that the shells were not equipped with detonating fuses until they reached Russia.

Search For Victims On the chance that employees injured and suffering from exposure might be lying on the Hackensack meadows, across which many fleeing persons made their escape after numerous hardships, policemen in hip boots were detailed to make a search. It was considered possible that a number of the persons reported missing may have drowned in the meadow streams. Meanwhile returning families now homeless were provided with food and coffee in schools and other shelters.

HELD FOR COURT Millersburg, Pa., Jan. 12.—Harry O. Fetter, charged before Squire Miller with furnishing liquor to minors at a nearby Wednesday evening, was sent to jail in default of bail to await court trial.

employees of the plant escaped their safety is due probably to the fact that a short time intervened between the discovery of the fire and the moment when the flames reached the stored ammunition. The loss, estimated at more than $4,000,000, is accounted for almost entirely by the destruction of shells which the company leads at this plant for the Russian government. The rectangular enclosure contained between forty and fifty buildings, but these were of flimsy construction, and it is said that the company intended to abandon them in a short time when it finished its present contract.

The hundreds of families which fled from Kingsland began their return to their homes this morning. They entered a desolate village. Many of the houses were so shell-riddled that they were not tenable. The police authorities lifted the dead line they had thrown around the residence section in an effort to prevent looting and assisted the returning townsmen in putting their households in order. Some of the dwellings appeared ruined beyond repair. Many of those who ran for safety spent the night huddled under the eaves of barns and other buildings.

W. B. Harkness, superintendent of the munition works, said he believed there was no loss of life. He did not know how the fire started, he said, nor could he estimate the damage. The Lackawanna Railroad to-day issued a statement saying that no injury was done the company's tracks through Kingsland, which is on the Hooton branch and that all service, both passenger and freight was resumed shortly after midnight. The company's repair plants across the tracks from the munition works were damaged only slightly, largely in the matter of broken windows, it was said. Henry Steyskal, employed at the Lackawanna Railroad shops, exhibited at his home in Paterson to-day an eleven-pound shell marked "U. S. N. 15" which he said he found on the tracks near the plant.

Sharkskin Used In Eyeglasses The newspapers have devoted much space recently in chronicling the visit of Alaskan representatives to the convention of the National Retail Shoe Dealers with the view of interesting the shoe manufacturers in utilizing sharkskin in the manufacture of shoes. For years the tough skin of sharks has been utilized in the manufacture of various articles of merchandise, among them being a "holdfast" nosepiece for eyeglass mountings. This nosepiece is not necessarily an expensive one but is guaranteed not to slip off the nose and is covered by patent letters. "Sharkskin" is the name of this mounting and will be found in the optical store of J. S. Belsinger, Optometrist, 205 Locust street.

Reports of looting proved apparently unfounded. Twenty-eight men arrested within the police lines and who spent the night in the Kingsland cell were examined this morning and discharged. The authorities decided they were only dazed wanderers or persons who had been curious. Detonations continued throughout the forenoon. Occasionally three-inch shells exploded and frequently smaller ones and the police kept persons from entering the danger zone. Thousands of unexploded shells lay on the ground.

STATE WORKMEN'S FUND INVESTING Thousands of Additional Dollars Put Into Bonds to Insure Payment of Claims

The board in charge of administration of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund today authorized the purchase of $37,000 of bonds and is about to buy $40,000 more as permanent investment of the fund which has grown by leaps and bounds in the first year in which it was in operation.

The investments of the Fund amounted to $492,000 in round numbers prior to the purchase just authorized and in a short time it is expected to pass the $600,000 mark in investments. The board keeps a large amount of money available and has reinsurance against catastrophes which would make a heavy call upon its resources.

The writing of new business is keeping up, it is stated at the office, and the reinsurance business is assuming big proportions. The Parkersburg Realty company, composed of prominent men of that borough, was chartered yesterday with $20,000 capital.

To Meet Here.—It is likely that a further conference will be held between members of the Public Service Commission and officials of the Philadelphia Electric Company regarding the proposed merger. The matter will be taken up next week.

Must Comply.—Insurance Commissioner O'Neil said to-day that as far as he was concerned, the insurance companies in Pittsburgh which plan to re-establish their business following the pension receivership can do so if they comply with the law.

Congressional Leaders Believe Peace Door Closed Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—Leaders in congress of both political parties and representing every shade of opinion on the European struggle were of one accord in interpreting the note as closing the door to any hope of early peace. With few exceptions they expressed the belief that the President's peace move had failed. Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, was of the opinion that the tone of the reply was not discouraging and that the peace door was open for Germany to open negotiations. The senator is a member of the foreign relations committee and author of the resolution approving the action of the President in sending the peace note which the Senate passed after a long debate and after modifying it materially.

DECLARE MOVE A BLUNDER London, Jan. 12.—The German paper Die Zukunft prints a startling article by Maximilian Harden declaring in unmistakable terms that the German peace move was a blunder.
