FOUNDED 1871

A Word of the History of Philippine Embroidery

The Philippine Islands were originally inhabited by Spaniards whose work as real makers of beautiful laces and hand embroidery has been famous and unequalled for centuries.

Under the Spanish reign these islands had but little progress and the natives were without exception probably the laziest collection of heathens in the world. The War of 1898 and the culmination thereof in which these islands were ceded to the United States started a new era since which the progress made is almost unbelievable.

It was in the early part of the 20th century that the embroidery art there was capitalized and continuous and rapid promotion and advancement have made what is to-day undoubtedly the most perfect equipped section in the world for the sole purpose of an individual art, while the Philippines have always had a great competition from France the present conflict which took many women in the latter country away from their habitual occupations and transferred them to munition factories, post offices, street car and divers occupations formerly filled by men, brought our Island possessions into the foreground by requiring them to produce a volume of work heretofore produced by other countries such as Northern Belgium, France and Alsace-Lorraine.

At the outbreak of the War an immense number of Belgian Sisters emigrated from Belgium and took up the lifelong task of missionary work among the natives of the Philippines and the inhabitants of the Islands have co-operated with these nuns, their respect for them being akin to actual worship.

It is these Belgian Sisters who are the supervisors of the workers and there are thousands of workers in Manila, Batangas and the other provinces.

Even should the war end to-morrow, it is doubtful as to whether or not Europe can overcome these Islands, the biggest factor being to overcome a sixty per cent. duty from abroad whereas the Philippines belonging to the United States do not require any duty.

WHEAT GAINS SLIGHTLY

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 12.—So far as the wheat market showed at the opening to-day, the answer of the entente al-had been largely discounted in advance. No unusual excitement was manifested and initial prices, although higher, did not make any sensational jump. The maximum advance in first transactions was 2½ cents on May delivery, which touched 190 a bushel, as against 187½ to 187½ at yesterday's finish.

Philadelphia, Jan. 12. — John McCormack, tenor, accompanied by his wife, visited the naturalization department of the United States District Court here yesterday and renounced his allegiance to King George of Great Britain and declared his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States. A glance at his declaration disclosed these facts:
John McCormack, vocalist; born in Athlone, Ireland, June 14, 1884; age, 32 years; residence, Ritz-Carlton Hotel; arrived in this country at the port of New York April 23, 1904; height, 5 feet 10 inches; weight, 220 pounds; complexion, dark.
"PENNSY" ROOPS LEAVE
Southerners Play "Dixie" as the Train Pulls Out For Home
Camp Stewart, El Paso, Texas, Jan. 12.—When the Pennsylvania field hospital and ambulance, with the field bakery, pulled away from the siding here yesterday for home the Asheville Band of the First North Carolina Infantry played the farewell.
They played a northern air under the windows of the hospital troops' car, then to the men of the ambulance and finally to the bakery. They were wildly cheered. Then they played "Dixie" and were cheered more wildly. And as the train pulled out it was the southern buglers who sounded "taps" on the border service of their northern comrades.
MARTINS LOSE THEIR NESTS
Martins who come to Harrisburg from the South at the opening of spring, will find no nesting accommodations this year at 1908 North Third street. For twenty-one years the martins have built their nests under the awning in front of what is known as the Hess building. The awning has been removed. Martins also nest under the awning at the Bates and Company store, 110 Market street. This awning still stands, but can only accommodate a limited number of birds.
