THREE MEMBERS OF COUNTERFEITING LAWSON RESULIES GANG NABBED DY SECRET SERVICE SENSATIONAL ATTACK

loseph D. Ferry, Proprietor South Cameron Street Garage, Alvin M. Hornberger, Mohnton, and Calvin Balmer, Reading, Accused of Making and Putting Bogus Federal Reserve Notes Into Circulation

HARRISBURGER RAN "MINT" IS CHARGE

Ferry Secured Quarters and Had Plates in His Posses sion, Officers Say; Others Shoved "Queer"; Money Made in Old Building in South Cameron Street

Joseph D. Ferry, proprietor of a arage and auto repair shop at 125 South Cameron street, and Alvin M. Hornberger, of Mohnton, a suburb of Reading, were held under $10,000 bail each this morning by U. S. Commissioner LeRoy J. Wolfe charged with making and passing counterfeit Federal Reserve Bank notes. Accorderal Reserve Bank notes. According to the secret service agents, who made the arrests, about $15,000 in bogus notes were printed, but only about $1,200 or that amount got into circulation.

Ferry is accused of financing the proposition, securing quarters in which to "make" the money and having the plates in his possession. Hornberger, according to the federal agents, printed the money and helped to get it in circulation.

Has "Money" on Him
Calvin Balmer, of Reading, another of those implicated, was arrested at Ridley Park, Pa., this morning and at the time of the arrest he had $1,-200 worth of the bogus bills in his possession. He will likely be brought here and committed for a hearing with Ferry and Hornberger. The Commissioiner will hold the hearing Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Hornberger was arrested at Wernersville last night by the Federal agents. He had a ticket to carry him from Reading to this city and the Federal agents, who had been trailing him took him off the train at Wernersville and later brought him here. Ferry was arrested about 11 o'clock.

Ferry will likely secure bail before he will ask his father to go on his bail bond.

Money Made Here

All of the money which the three men are accused of making and passing was produced in Harrisburg. Ferry, so the Federal agents say, rented an old building at Cameron and Paxton streets near the Ferry garage, and had the second floor of the place fitted up as a "studio." Big windows, which served the purpose of skylights, were installed so that sufficient light for printing could be secured. Hornberger was employed by Ferry, so the agents say, to do the printing and for a period of four months he worked in the place at a salary of $25 per week. While here he roomed in an apartment house near Second and Chestnut streets and traveled under the name of George Campbell. Hornberger is said to have printed about $15,000 worth of the money and he and Balmer are said to have passed $1,200 worth of it in Reading, Philadelphia, New York and this city.

Welcome!

HURRAH! They're marching home again, the boys we sent away With teardim eyes and trembling hearts that solemn summer

They're coming back to waiting arms, to tender homely joys; To be just simple Tom and Dick and Harry. Welcome, Boys!

They're coming back, the lucky ones, some still must stay to serve But, oh, the stories these can tell of pluck, of grit and nerve! All thru the weary waiting time we watched official word With bated breath but now we know a city's prayers were heard.

They're coming back! The flag we love waves proudly o'er each head. The ranks are full. It might have been the other way instead! Thank God the war cloud lifted and the brighter days have come For the ones who stayed behind and for our boys, so-Welcome Home!

Room For You Bob, and All Other Lads, Too, in Happy Hunting Grounds

Denver, Jan. 16.—The editor of the Denver Times received the following letter this morning:

Mr. Buffalo Bill, benver, Col.

Dear Sir: My grandpa told me this morning you were ready to start for the Happy Hunting Grounds. He said a long time ago they had perhaps given you the end of a golden string and told you to wind it into a ball, and you had it most all winded up and it had led you to the Happy Hunting Grounds, and after you got there they would lock the gate and throw the key away, as you were the last one they would lock the gate and throw the key away, as you were the last one the happy Hunting Grounds too. It looks to me like a nicer place than just heaven, where they have only gold streets and harps and angels and things.

Mr. Buffalo Bill, will you please take
