ORPHEUM—To-day and Saturday, January 19 and 20—Lyman H. Howe Travel Festival. All next week, beginning Monday night, with daily matinees thereafter—“A Daughter of the Gods,” with Annette Kellermann. MAJESTIC—Vaudeville. COLONIAL—“Three of Many.” REGENT—“Tess of the Storm Country.” VICTORIA—“The Cossack’s Whip.”

In 1842 Edgar Allan Poe published his remarkable narrative of “A Gordon Pym.” It was a fanciful tale of a vast continent in the unknown known as Antarctica. It was a remarkable story told in Poe’s best style. To-day that amazing imaginative flight is transformed from fiction into fact by the films which Lyman H. Howe will present at the Orpheum to-day and to-morrow, with a matinee Saturday, of Sir Douglas Mawson’s Expedition and discovery of the Antarctic continent. Still another bit of history conjured up by this reproduction is the fact that in the same year that Poe wrote his fanciful tale, Captain Charles Wilkes, U. S. N., began a voyage of exploration to these polar regions. He returned four years later—in 1842—with a chronicle of his expedition that was published in nineteen volumes, eight of them written by Wilkes himself. In them he told of a vast mysterious Southern continent surrounded by impenetrable ice barriers. He could not estimate its extent, but declared it to be enormous. However, for no reason in particular, the world at large refused to believe it and it has taken just seventy-eight years to vindicate Captain Wilkes by the most convincing proof imaginable—the moving pictures just referred to.

When William Fox read the story of “A Daughter of the Gods,” and determined to create it, he shook his head dubiously over one passage in the script. “Your story reads ‘big,’” he said to the author, “all the way through, and, of course, I have the utmost faith in Miss Kellermann’s transcendental ability. She is without a doubt the cleverest water sprite in the world—but this thing of sending her over a waterfall, hand-cut and ankle-locked! She’s only a slip of a girl after all, and her work is so diversified anyway—no, I don’t believe I want that on my conscience. So the waterfall episode, considered by many the high-water mark of a high-water play, was originally blue-penciled. Shortly afterward, Miss Kellermann was going over the script, about which, needless to say, she was highly enthusiastic. “See here,” she cried out, “who blue-penciled my weary way over the waterfall?” Mr. Fox admitted his guilt. “It sounds entirely too dangerous to me, and beside, the map of the island down there doesn’t show a waterfall.” At this Miss Kellermann’s face and spirits plainly fell together. “That’s the way,” she replied slowly, “somebody’s always taking the joy out of life.” William Fox looked at her, flabbergasted. “You don’t mean to tell me you wanted to do that?” he demanded, and to his astonishment she replied: “Did I want to?” he counted on it. You see, I’ve never gone over a waterfall and I had my heart set on doing it.” Mr. Fox pressed a button and a stenographer entered the room. “How high would you like your Niagara, Miss Kellermann?” he asked humbly. lermann danced a few steps, thinking rapidly. “Oh, about fifty feet,” she announced, her eyes shining. “All right,” Mr. Fox answered, then to his stenographer, “Cablegram to Engineers, Jamaica, Provide beautiful fifty-foot waterfall, and presto, the deed was done.” “A Daughter of the Gods” will be the attraction at the Orpheum Monday night and continue all week with daily matinees.

A new vaudeville show opened at the Majestic Theater yesterday with Dan Burke and Company as the attractive headliner. Mr. Burke, assisted by a company of talented players, presents “The Old Master,” one of the most artistic sketches seen at the Majestic this season. The dancing, in the act, is a high order, while the stage setting, which is an interior scene in the study of a dancing master within a stone's throw of Old Drury Lane Theater, London, is very beautiful. Surrounding this attraction are E. E. Cline and Company, in a laughable comedy sketch entitled, “One Good Turn”; Skelly and Sauvain, in a five-part song; Fred Weber and Company, in an excellent ventriloquist act, and the Zylo Maids, clever xylophone players.

It is not often that a motion picture can utterly surprise an audience, but it is said that “Three of Many,” the new Triangle play written by Gardner Sullivan, which is showing at the Colonial Theater, will prove a series of surprises and thrilling situations. Clara Williams, star of this clever drama, is first seen as a trained nurse in a New York hospital, and when the war breaks out she leaves for the Italian front. In New York she has two admirers. Both of them she meets again at the battle front. How the rejected suitor proves, when the test comes, that friendship is more powerful than racial hatred, is one of the many exciting moments of this powerful love story, which uses the same program. Monday and Tuesday the picture is shown in a society drama, “The House Built Upon Sands.”

Mary Pickford will be presented to-day and to-morrow at the Regent Theater in “Tess of the Storm Country,” an elemental type of clinging with modern conditions and delicate tortures of civilization. Miss Pickford, as “Tess,” renders a portrayal of a girl who lives with her father in a rude hut on the shore of Cayuga Lake. While the poor and ignorant fisher-folk thereabout are generally known as “squatters,” “Tess” is one of these

Cocoon Fine for Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.
Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulisid cocoon oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.
Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.
You can get mulisid cocoon oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

people, and adores her uncouth father, who lives by poaching and the illegal netting of fish. One day he is found near the body of a murdered game-keeper, with a rifle close by containing one empty chamber. “Skinner” is accused of the murder and convicted on circumstantial evidence. “Tess” is frantic with grief and anxiety. At Frederick Graves, a handsome theological student, and his sister, “Teola,” befriend “Tess.”

To-day and to-morrow the Victoria will present what has been termed one of the most sensational productions of the photography world during the year 1916. “The Cossack's Whip,” in which is featured the talented and beautiful star, Viola Dana. The scenes of the Cossack raids are said to be particularly effective, showing the wild horsemen of the Russian steppes riding at breakneck speed through the streets of the ill-fated village, slashing with sword and knout at the crowds of helpless peasants whom they have been called upon to crush. There are scenes, also, of the interiors of Russian palaces and Russian interiors; great interiors of theaters in London and Petrograd, many other tremendous sets that in this production out of the ordinary “feature” class. To-day, also, Charley Chaplin's double in a screaming comedy, “Fattie,” the picture that has taken the larger cities by storm, has been booked and will be shown here on Wednesday, January 24. It is in this great feature that Mrs. Vernon Castle, the best known as well as the best dressed woman in the world, is featured.

SEAL SALES FOR 1916 HIGHEST EVER

school sale which netted $2,507.32 did not cost more than $80 including all prize money to be distributed. “I feel that the people of Harrisburg and Dauphin county will be glad to know of the really remarkable results of the Red Cross Seal campaign this year—results which were obtained at a minimum of expense.” Dr. Phillips pointed out that the seal which netted $2,507.32 will not cost, including all prizes, as much as $80. In dispersing this money, there is absolutely no overhead expense, the feature being cared for by the organization of the Associated Aids.

“Hershey, as in 1915, has made a wonderful record,” Dr. Phillips pointed out. “Seventy seals were sold in the bustling little, ‘chocolate town’ for each man, woman and child in the place as against 26 in 1915, which was a county record and for which they received the prize banner. Hershey this year wins a school banner for the largest sale of seals per pupil and Mary Keefer of Hershey wins the prize for individual effort on the part of school children throughout the county.”
“The sale in some of the nearby towns was so large that we feel special mention is due them. In the city the work of the Cameron school building stands out especially. Here a total of 26,195 seals were sold, and while no one pupil made exceptionally high sales records, yet we know that every boy and girl must have been working like a beaver to accomplish such a splendid result.”
“I wish to thank the newspapers, the light company and all the organizations and individuals who helped to make the 1916 campaign a success.”
The High Salesman
Dr. Phillips announced that Miss Blanche Meloy's room in the Forney school building on Allison Hill had the record for rooms throughout the city schools with a total sale of 14,150 seals. In Miss Meloy's room, Christian Sheets, alone sold 3,255 seals.
The Susquehanna was the high building, an average of 235 sales per pupil being attained. The total number sold by the 43 children of this building was 10,100.
The total number of seals sold in the city was 170,271, an average of 15 seals per pupil based on enrollment and 16, based on average daily attendance.

In the city selling work Dr. Phillips said that a student in the high school who is to be named sold 2,000 seals; that Evelyn Mair of the Susquehanna building sold 5,700 seals and Dickinson Johnston of the Camp Curtin building, 5,750.
The Johnston and Mair had and lassie were the two high record salesmen for the city and each will receive prizes of $2.50 for their splendid work. In the county wonderful records were made in many places. At Paxtang Frederick Holmes sold 450 seals; Madeline Hoff, Lykens, sold 1,080, and she receives honorable mention for the county; and Mary Keefer, who wins the $2.50 prize for the best county work, sold 1,247.
In Middletown high school an average of 12½ was attained, the total sale being 3,555.
The average school sale in the Hershey schools was 15.98; at Steelton it was 15.49; and at Camp Hill, 15.38.
The total number of sales in the Hershey schools was 11,911 seals; the total for the town was 65,800.
Steelton's school total was 17,397, and the total for the town 27,397.
The county total school sales was 78,128; the city 170,271, making a grand total of 250,732. In 1915 the total for city and county was 167,059.

Dr. Ferdinand King says: EVERY WOMAN EVERY MOTHER EVERY DAUGHTER NEEDS IRON AT TIMES

To put strength in her nerves and color in her cheeks.

There can be no beautiful, healthy, rosy-cheeked women without iron. The trouble in the past has been that when women needed iron they generally took ordinary metallic iron, which corroded the stomach and did far more harm than good. To-day doctors prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron. This particular form of iron is easily assimilated, does not blacken nor injure the teeth nor upset the stomach. It will increase the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, irritable, careworn, haggard looking women 200 per cent. In two weeks' time in many instances, I have used it in my own practice with most surprising results.

NOTE: NUXATED IRON recommended above by Dr. King can be obtained from Croff Keller, G. A. Gorges, J. Nelson Clark or any good druggist, with or without a physician's prescription, on an absolute guarantee of success or money refunded.—Advertisement.
