SERVICE IN MEMORY OF DR. GILCHRIST AT ZION LUTHERAN CHURCH MONDAY

Former Leader of Harrisburg Choral Society Called Mendelssohn of America; to Sing Compositions of Great Musician

DR. W. W. GILCHRIST

By E. J. DECEVEE

On Monday evening next a memorial service will be held in Zion Lutheran Church in honor of the late William Wallace Gilchrist, who for eighteen years was the director of the Harrisburg Choral Society. This society, the outgrowth of a chorus which was organized some twenty years ago for the State Teachers' Association by the veteran musician, J. H. Kurzenbahr, has had but two directors in its history—Dr. Gilchrist and Dr. J. Fred Wolfe.

It would be difficult to overestimate the value of such an organization to any community. Under its auspices some of the greatest singers have been brought here and the great master works of the most famous composers of all time have been given with these notable orchestras, the Boston Festival, the Pittsburgh and the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestras. Much of the society's success in recent years has been due to the untiring efforts of its president, John Fox Weiss, S. D. Sansone, treasurer, Ross Swope, Harry Bretz and Mr. Kautz. While the society did not reorganize this year, owing to the large number of outside attractions, it is intended to reorganize next year, and an effort

Invite "Billy" Sunday to Join "Outdoor Showmen"

When the Association of the Outdoor Showmen of the World was organized a few weeks ago at the Hotel Astor, New York city, "Billy" Sunday was extended a cordial invitation to be present and participate in the banquet that preceded the organization.

In his letter of invitation President Frank P. Spellman said: "We would like to have you with us, for we believe you are a greater showman than any of us."

GRACE M. E.

Morning—Organ, Ave Maria, Richmond; quartet, "As Pants the Hart"; Thomas; organ, Serenata, Moskowski; anthem, "Send Out Thy Light"; Gounod; organ, Magnificat in D, Leonaigne.

Evening—Organ recital at 7:20; evening service at 7:30. Organ, (a) Grand Chorus in B Flat, Dubois, (b) "Pere a Notre Dame" (Gothic Suite), Boellmann, (c) Cradle Song, Spinnay; anthem, "The Twilight Falls"; Emerson; organ, Meditation from "Thais"; Massenet; anthem, "O Pray for the Peace." Knox; organ, Festal March in E Flat, Foulkes.

TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

The four hundredth anniversary of the Reformation will be celebrated in Landisville to-morrow at 2 o'clock. The Lutheran, Methodist and Church of God congregations will hold a union service. Dr. Granville, president of Gettysburg College; Dr. G. Bickley, pastor of Philadelphia, and William N. Yates, of this city, will be the speakers.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS ORGANIZED

The Olivet Presbyterian Church has organized Camps Nos. 1 and 2 of the Camp Fire Girls, with Mrs. Roscoe Bowman as guardian. Camp No. 1 will be for high school girls and Camp No. 2 will be for the other girls of the Sunday school. Meetings will be held each Tuesday at 6:30.

A LETTER OF APPRECIATION

In four days the Immanuel Presbyterian Church, through an indebtedness campaign, raised the total sum of $8,000 to wipe out the church debt and to-day the contributors received the following: "We are writing to express our deepest gratitude for your liberal assistance and gift. By your help we were successful in raising the necessary fund with which to liquidate the debt and to afford us the opportunity of doing a larger work in the future."

will be made to make the society larger and more efficient than ever. Dr. Gilchrist's ability and standing as a musician and church worker; his works, however, are the best testimony.

Noted Musician

Dr. William Wallace Gilchrist was born in Jersey City, January 5, 1846, of Canadian descent on his father's side, and removed to Philadelphia with his parents at the age of eight.

He entered the University of Pennsylvania and studied music under Dr. Hugh A. Clarke. At one time he was soloist in Holy Trinity Church, also of St. Mark's, Philadelphia, and most successful as a soloist in baritone roles in oratorio.

In 1872 he went to Cincinnati and taught for a year in the conservatory. Upon his return to Philadelphia he became choirmaster of St. Clement's Church, where he remained until 1877, afterward accepting the position of organist and choirmaster of Christ Church, Germantown, and in 1882 he added to this that of an instructorship in the Philadelphia Musical Academy. He was not an extemporaneous conductor, as attested by the work of the Mendelssohn Club of Philadelphia, which he founded and directed for forty years, but he stands in the first rank of American composers. Although he never studied abroad, he was a finished contrapuntist. He won many prizes in musical contests. His setting of the Psalms won him the Cincinnati Festival prize in 1882, the judges being Camille St. Saen, of France, Carl Reinecke, of Germany, and Theodor Thomas, of the United States. Over three hundred songs in all styles show his versatility in this field. Dr. Gilchrist has been called the Mendelssohn of America, not however in an imitative sense, but rather because of his love of melody and his perfection of musical form. He is a classicist touched by the romantic flavor of Wagner.

Much of his instrumental music is unpublished, although his symphony has been twice performed by the Philadelphia Orchestra.

The program in full for Monday evening will be as follows: Organ, (a) Marche Funebre, Chopin, (b) Ave Maria, Schubert, Mr. Decevee; anthem, "I Heard the Angels Singing"; Gilchrist, incidental solo, Mrs. R. G. Cox; trio, "Like as a Father," Gilchrist; Mrs. William Bumbaugh, M. D. Hollenbaugh, tenor, Charles Casson, bass; violin and organ, "Remembrance," composed for this occasion and dedicated to the memory of Dr. Gilchrist by Mr. Decevee, played by Mrs. Sara Lema and Mr. Decevee; baritone solo, "The New Jerusalem," Gilchrist; George Sutton; anthem, "God is Our Strong Salvation," Gilchrist, incidental solo and duet by Mrs. R. G. Cox and Mr. Decevee; address, "Immortality and Music," the Rev. S. W. Herman; organ, "Be Not Afraid, Thy Help is Near," Mendelssohn, from "Elijah."

More than 100 persons have been signed to be trained as a booster choir and the committee expects the number will be increased to 150. Preliminary cottage prayer meeting are now being held, Tuesday and Friday evenings, at the homes of the members.
