PRESIDENT PLANS NEXT PEACE STEP

tions will insist upon awaiting the outcome from what is generally conceded to be the psychological moment in the war before peace is possible.

Summing up the peace moves of the last month, however, it is believed President Wilson has laid a real groundwork for peace—after the drive.

He has outlined what this country stands for, what arrangements he believes should be made for making a peace lasting, what he believes this country will do toward joining in some form of "international sanction" to preserve future peace after both sides have exerted their greatest effort of the war this spring.

In other words, it is believed he has created a situation which will make it difficult for either side to insist on continuing the war after the results of the spring campaign are definitely determined.

Regardless of the outcome of the drive, whether the entente or central powers, or neither, score a decisive victory, he has maintained that America stands for "a peace without victory," a peace which, for the most part, will leave territorial rights unimpaired, and will wipe out, to a large extent, existing international hatreds.

Reports of foreign reception of the President's Senate address are very gratifying to officials here. This country, too, is speaking out in no uncertain terms—by telegram and letter to the White House—its apparent approval in a general way of the President's action.

Plan of Wilson to Stop Wars Noble Idealism, Elihu Root Declares

Washington, Jan. 26. — The world peace address of President Wilson to the senate was interpreted by Elihu Root in a speech last night as an admission that there is no way out of war except by preparation for war, and as a denunciation of the course of Germany. He said he was in full sympathy with the purposes of the speech which contained "much noble idealism."

Mr. Root spoke before the National Security League's Congress of Constructive Patriotism, beginning a three-day session. He appealed for a return to the "basic principle upon which this Government was founded," universal military service as the only adequate measure of defense. American freedom was threatened, he declared, by the principle of "liberty of national evolution," asserted by Germany, the application of which had meant the overwhelming of Serbia and Belgium and which if approved by the world, will mean that "our American freedom will surely die, and die while we live."

Count Stephen Tissa, the Hungarian Premier, to a question put by a member of the Opposition party in Parliament concerning President Wilson's address to the Senate:

"Pursuant to our peaceful policy before the war and our attitude during the war, as well as our recent peace action, we can only greet with sympathy every effort aiming at the restoration of peace. We are, therefore, inclined to continue a further exchange of views regarding peace with the United States Government. This exchange must naturally occur in agreement with our allies."

"In view of the fact that President Wilson in his address makes certain distinctions between our reply and our enemies' reply, I must especially state that the Quadruple Alliance declares it is inclined to enter into peace negotiations, but that at the same time it will propose terms which, in its opinion, are acceptable for their enemy and calculated to serve as a basis for a lasting peace."

"On the other hand, the conditions of peace contained in our enemies' reply to the United States are equivalent at least to the disintegration of our monarchy and of the German Empire. This amounts to an official announcement, and we are, therefore, forced to resist with our utmost strength as long as this is the war aim of our enemies."

Senator Borah Warns of Any Foreign Alliance

Washington, Jan. 26. — Groundwork for the expected attack in the Senate on President Wilson's proposal that the United States join a league for peace was laid yesterday in a resolution introduced by Senator Borah, reaffirming as a national policy the doctrine of no entangling alliances laid down by Washington and Jefferson.

Unlike the pending Cummins resolution, Senator Borah's proposal makes no direct reference to the President's peace address, but its adoption would commit the Senate "in all matters coming before it touching the intent or affairs of foreign countries, to conform its acts to those time-honored principles so long and so happily a part of our own policies."
