LESSON IN HONOR OF MIGHTY RAGE

Jesus, With Scourge of Cords, Utters Biting Words of Virile Man

Here is a lesson in honor of a righteous rage. We welcome it. Prudence and expediency and self-interest have so long dominated the course of our safe and serene land that there has been real danger that the nobler moral qualities would be atrophied.

Gentle as she who nursed Thee at her breast (Yet what a lash of lightning once Thy tongue To scourge the hypocrite and Pharisee!)—Nerve Thou mine arm, O meek, O mighty One!

—Frederic Lawrence Knowles.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—complexion—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

spirit into a land and day threatened with nervelessness. Only this mended a friend who has just ended a slow, careful and painstaking quest from the Atlantic to the Pacific and back again, and from Mexico to the Canadian border, gave it to me as his sober verdict that most of the people in America are not greatly interested in the war, or in the supreme moral issues involved in it.

In social and political and commercial life we confess to finding a cynical indifference to moral considerations. The political corruptionist is a club-fellow and personal friend of the eminent churchman, and sure of his vote. The notorious rone finds few men refusing his hand. In many social circles it is the custom to have had a checkered career of scandal and divorce. The financial crook and the industrial oppressor lose no countenance in the "leading circles."

All of which implies that a scourge is needed to-day for a visit of the Spirit of the Christ with a whip of cords. Christlike should be taught the Englishman of righteous indignation. Nobody is following in the train of the Strong Son of God who is not able and quick to express abhorrence toward menaces to his own welfare. God's cause calls for good haters. God's sin and injustice and oppression are England's shame.

Not long ago a printed criticism of Philadelphia's men of the old families and select social circles was made to the effect that they possess the most charming manners in America—and count for least in the life of their community. They have polish, but not punch. Their famous urbanity is not disturbed by the fact that they live in a city and State notorious for its shameless political corruption and debauchery.

We talk about the gentleness of Jesus; and we pass over the fact that He was God's great Champion of Right, who battled for truth clear up to the crest of Calvary. He was a perfect gentleman—and showed by His in the temple that He possessed the courage which is a first quality of every gentleman.

derful Passion Play at Oberammergau, and it was a spiritual experience. New light was shed upon the life of Christ for me by that drama as enacted by those Bavarian peasants. Never before had I seen so clearly the relation between the driving out of the money-changers from the temple and the crucifixion. The "big business" of His day, whose amity He incurred by that act, never let up on Jesus until it had directly causative of our Lord was the relentless persecution of the men with whose business He had interfered.

Usage sanctioned it. Custom and convenience buttressed it. Worshipers in the temple wanted animals for offerings, and the money-changer changed; so why not provide for the transaction in the temple court itself. How easy it is to put man's convenience above God's glory!

Contemplating this drastic scene in the courtyard of the Jerusalem Temple tables overturned, merchants scurrying to escape to see the crowds thronging to see the excitement—we have thoughts of Christ as the cleanser of life. He has come to cast out evil from society and from the individual heart. Once let Christ take possession of the hearts of the majority of mankind and there would no longer be the intrusion of avarice into holy places; no longer trafficking in sacred things; no longer a temptation question; no longer a drive; no longer an exploitation of the poor; no longer a corruption of politics; no longer an exploitation of justice; no longer unlovingness and suspicion and fear and hate. Only He can effect this great salvation. The world will not be delivered by treaties or peace pacts; the righteousness which is the law of Christ's Kingdom alone can save us. Life becomes clean only when it is cleansed by the power of God.

Challenged by the beholders, Jesus gave utterance to a significant and cryptic sentence: "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up." He meant, as John says, the temple of His Body. Thus, at the beginning of His ministry, we find that the cross was supreme in His thought. The Saviour's plans looked forward to the consummation of triumph. He knew Himself, as the Baptist had acclaimed Him, "The Lamb of God"—and destined to be slain. The sovereignty of sacrifice was already manifesting itself in Him. Even in this hour of spectacular triumph, He was entering into His Passion. He knew that His ultimate victory lay by way of the Cross.

As in the days of Jesus, so now, the strength of the church lies in the great mass of obscure, loyal, God-seeking people. There is nothing else so remarkable as its uncovering of the hosts of heart-hungry Christians eager to hear God's word and willing to do God's work, whatever the sacrifice entailed. This is the four hundredth anniversary of the Reformation, and it should fill Christian minds with thoughts of present-day reformation. Just as in the old churches or fresco have been discovered beneath the overlay or whitewash and grime, so beneath all present excesses of the church may be found all the beauty and preciousness of holiness and reverence and loyalty.

The Cleanser and the Cross Because He embodied the best moral sense of the nation, and because He had courage and resolution to drive out the temple merchants, with no other warrant than that He was right. Truth needs no credentials outside of itself. Corruption is always cowardly. I once knew a crooked publisher and bogus reformer who left home when Billy Sunday arrived. In the plea of illness, from which he recovered, he told the evangelist had left town: "Nobody needs a special commission or official equipment to become the champion of rightness. Every true man is bound to stand against evil."

How to Clean up the Church With respect to the church of His time Jesus was a member, but a reformer. He stood fast for the institution, and fearlessly against all who corrupted and misused it. In His eyes the abuse of the church was more irreverent than the church was more evil. He would not counsel the covering of immorality and crime on the part of member or minister. "For the sake of the world," he said, "I have dearest to Him than pride; character more precious than reputation."

Now what of the church to-day? The subject is too vast for a paragraph or two. We must confess to a serious overlay of professionalism and perfunctoriness; to a formalism that sometimes conceals and sometimes deadens vital spirituality; to a shrinking from finding expression; to a shrinking from many of the day's church's proper sphere; and to a willful ignoring of weaknesses, defects and defeats. It is rarely that a lessy faces its tasks and fearfully and more comfortable to listen glowing addresses which interpret facts in a fashion that ministers to self-complacency.

As in the days of Jesus, so now, the strength of the church lies in the

New U. S. Submarine Is Taken For Deutschland

Newport, R. I., Jan. 26. — The recently launched American submarine G-1, which has been stationed here, quietly slipped her moorings yesterday and for the first time showed her new lines to marine observers on the west shore of Narragansett bay. The new type of submersible submerged on an even keel after the fashion of German undersea vessels, and when the G-1 came out of the mist that had hung heavily over the bay and then took the German dive, shore watchers who had picked up the craft at a distance of four miles thought they had sighted the German merchant submarine, Deutschland, inbound for New London, Conn.

Robs Folk Who Freed Him From Cold Cell

Pottsville, Pa., Jan. 26.—Because kind-hearted citizens of Port Carbon last night considered the borough lockup too cold for the confinement of a man suspected of theft he was let go. He promptly entered the office of the Conrad Lumber Company, stole a dozen eggs and sold them to a saloon-keeper for grog. He then burglarized several other places, including the home of Oliver Link, where he stole jewelry, and sat down and ate a meal, ending up with smoking a cigar. Leaving the cigar butt and his overshoes he departed. State police are hunting for him.

902 ACRES IN BERKS COUNTY PURCHASED BY DU PONT CO.

Reading, Pa., Jan. 26.—The Du Pont Company of Wilmington, Del., has taken title to 902 acres of land in Robeson township, this county, belonging to the estate of Colonel L. H. Smith, proprietor of the old blast furnace at Joanna. The sale was made by his widow, Mrs. E. Jennie G. Smith, and the children.

BILL TO LICENSE WRITERS

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 26.—A bill was introduced in the legislature providing for the examination and licensing of journalists by a commission of five to be appointed by the governor. Under the proposed measure a licensed writer on daily and weekly papers in the state would have to have at least six months' experience. A license would cost $10 and would be subject to suspension.

Says People Fail in Life Because of "Nerve Hunger"

Says Hopes are Destroyed and Tells How and Why Cadomene Tablets Restore, Rejuvenate and Strengthen Nerves, Body and Brain. This is a truth: It is the Bright, Active, Clear-Eyed, Strong-Nerved individual who becomes successful at work or play. Strong, well-nourished Nerves is the secret of success, socially or financially.

Too many try to live regardless of Health, Strength, Ambition, Energy and Hope. They exceed the Speed Limit. They dissipate their nerve-strength and energy and fail to re-imbure or store up a reserve. Thereafter they only "exist." At the same time they are taunted with the natural desire to live, to enjoy, to accomplish, to succeed.

Without Energy, Ambition and Strong Nerves you cannot Hope to enjoy the fullest measure of success in any pursuit. Give your senses keenest relish, to make your brain work acutely and your body respond to every dictate of your mind, then you become "dull," listless, sluggish, hopeless, despondent, and you become less and less capable in every way.

CADOMENE TABLETS BRING STRENGTH and balance to the body, nerves, blood and brain. Cadomene Tablets were originated and prescribed by physicians only, but in recent years have become so well known that probably more than two million men and women use them to regain poise, strength and ambition when the nerves have been overdone and underfed. Cadomene Tablets represent a perfect combination of vital elements—such as iron, phosphorus and vegetable extracts of tonic, alternative qualities as to produce when taken by "nerve-sick humans" a really marvelous transformation that increases all bodily and nerve energy, and redeems the patient to health, to strength, to ambition and staying powers, beyond the imagination.

So if you are a victim of overwork, worry, disease, excesses or dissipation of the mental and physical forces—if you feel tired, weak, nervous, trembling, and suffer with headaches, melancholy, pain in spine and back of head, cold extremities, dreadful dreams of direful disasters, a feeling of timidity and a general inability to act naturally at all times, if you have "the blues" and the pleasures of life are no longer enjoyable, then you need Cadomene Tablets to brace and build you up—do not rest, ambition, energy and strength into your system and reinforce and nourish the bodily structures. Cadomene Tablets are sold on a money-back-if-not-satisfied guarantee, and if you are not pleased with results you get every cent of your money back. All druggists sell 3-grain Cadomene Tablets in sealed tubes, with full directions.
