RIVER IS GORGED AT MANY PLACES; TROUBLE LIKELY

Not One Cake of Ice From Jan. 7 Break-up Has Reached

STREAM AGAIN CLOSED

Snowstorm Coming Predicts Forecaster; Skating at Wildwood Park

Every cake of the ice that passed Harrisburg after the breakup of Janu-ary 7 is still somewhere between here and the broad Chesapeake, according to reports received by E. R. Demain to reports received by E. R. Demain the local weather forecaster.

The river closed again about 11 o'clock last night and if the ice remains until it again reaches a thickness of several inches it may cause a big flood when the spring breakup comes. Reports from York Haven say that the ice is gorged at that point to a 25-foot height.

Several years ago a big gorge below Middletown damaged property in and around Middletown to the extent of thousands of dollars. Unless the ice breaks on the downriver section first there may be a possible reoccurrence of that disaster somewhere along the Susquehanna.

Snow Predicted

"We may expect snow any time within the next six hours," Mr. Demain said, "with an accompanying fall of temperature until about 22 degrees is reached.

fall of temperature until about 22 degrees is reached.

Although the ice on the surface of the river is much too rough for much possibility of skating in the near future, local skaters are consoling themselves with the thought that the flag is flying on the Union Trust building that says "all's well" at Wildwood.

Weather predictions issued this morning from Washington indicate that the weather for the Middle Atlantic States will be unsettled and considerably warmer, with snow and rain Sunday and Monday. This will be followed by fair and colder weather until the end of the week when snow is again probable.

NEW CUMBERLAND VALLEY RAILROAD BRIDGE MODEL FOR OTHERS TO BE BUILT WITHIN NEXT FEW YEARS

LOOKING TOWARD HARRISBURG FROM THE WEST SHORE

The new Cumberland Valley railroad bridge, now practically completed, is a mark of beauty on the Susquehanna landscape opposite this city rather than an eyesore, like the one it replaced. City planners and others interested in the proper development of the River Front, are urging a type of construction along the general lines of the Cumberland Valley bridge for the new bridge to be built at Walnut street within a few years. A new viaduct here is necessary to accommodate the rapidly growing travel over the Valley railways lines. The same general type of concrete arch bridge is in the mind's eye of Warren H. Manning, the city's landscape expert, for a bridge to be built eventually at State street. This bridge will open up a great highway of travel are Robert Grace Contracting Company, builders of the big viaduct, are now shipping away their machinery. With the exception of a hand rail on the north side of the bridge, now being placed, their contract is finished. Plans for a formal dedication will be made soon.
