Dr. J. C. Stroup Dies of Pneumonia at Elizabethtown
Elizabethtown Pa., Feb. 13.—Dr. J. C. Stroup, a well-known physician, died at his home here on Sunday evening of pneumonia after a week's illness. Dr. Stroup was well known in the three valleys hereabouts where he enjoyed a lucrative practice. He was a graduate of Jefferson College and also of a pharmaceutical college at Philadelphia. He had a drug store beside his practice, and during Cleveland's administration was postmaster at this place. He was a member of Syrian lodge, I. O. O. F., of this place and the Modern Woodmen and Knights of Golden Eagle, of Berryburg. Dr. Stroup was 59 years old and is survived by his wife and three sons, Paul, a student of Jefferson College, and Bryant and Clayton, at home; two daughters, Erma and Gladys, at home. He was a member of the Reformed church. Funeral services will be held at his home on Wednesday afternoon, the Rev. C. P. Wehr officiating.

FARM HAND HURT
Ephrata, Pa., Feb. 13.—Calvin Gerber, employed on a farm near here, while grinding feed for cattle yesterday, had his right hand caught in the cogs and several fingers severed and the hand mangled.

SCRAMBLED
"No," she said to the grocer; "We got some eggs the other day by parcel post."
"How many?" ventured the grocer.
"Well, I don't know how many, but I would say about a gallon and a half of 'em."—Farm Life.

DRIVE AWAY HEADACHE
Rub Musterole on Forehead and Temples
A headache remedy without the dangers of "headache medicine." Relieves headache and that miserable feeling from colds or congestion. And it acts at once! Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister. Used only externally, and in no way can affect stomach and heart, as some internal medicines do.
Excellent for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, all pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

URGES SUIT FOR INDIAN STEPS

Alleges Backwater at McCall's Ferry Has Hidden Treasured Carvings

Washington, Feb. 13.—The German secret agents for months have been exerting every effort to gain confidential information concerning the United States navy, the fortifications guarding the principal American ports and the Panama canal, is a fact well known to the government of the United States.

From sources that are official it is known that recently the navy department came into possession of three letters by a man who has been in a position to get certain confidential information concerning the navy, written to officials of the German government, in which this man, an American citizen of German extraction, offered to sell "certain confidential information."

Photographic copies of these letters are on file in the navy department, while other copies are in the possession of the secret service.

It has also been established that on several occasions since the war in Europe started German "surveying parties" have been detected at work along the route of the Panama canal.

Mapped Routes to the Canal
These groups of Germans, some of them from German ships interned at Panama, and others resident in that country, are said to have mapped the routes leading to vital points along the canal route and also to have made note of the location of powerhouses, lights and other stations which, if destroyed, would either block or seriously impede the operation of the canal.

These men, however, were careful to remain on the Panama side of the canal strip, and so far as is known, none of them ventured across the line into the territory which is under the jurisdiction of Colonel Chester Harding, U. S. A., governor of the canal zone.

The statements regarding the German activities in Panama have been confirmed by several army officers who are familiar with the details. The matter has been made the subject of several reports to the war department, and all necessary precautions have been taken to frustrate any efforts on the part of the "surveying parties" to damage the canal.

The man who offered to sell navy information to the Germans is well known in both naval and civilian circles. He has never held an official position in the navy department, but at times has enjoyed permits, the use of which made it possible for him to gain confidential information during battle maneuvers of the Atlantic fleet. The prompt work of the secret service put an end to his machinations before he was able to do any harm.

A high official of the navy department said:
"It is quite true that we have photographs of three such letters, written by the man you name. I am sorry, however, that it would not be good policy at this time to make those letters public. All that I can say at this time is that the information you have is correct."

Kept Lists of German Subjects
It is also known that German agents in this country have been keeping on file ever since the outbreak of the war in Europe lists of German subjects in the United States who could be relied upon to serve the fatherland in the event of a German-American break.

One of the lists, on which appeared the names of more than 1,000 German subjects, is said to have been found in the Von Igel papers which were seized when the office of that German agent, at 60 Wall street, was entered and searched by department of justice agents a year ago.

The papers seized in Von Igel's office—Von Igel was the successor in New York of Captain Von Pape, the recalled German military attaché—never have been made public.

For months secret service agents have been busy preparing for the diplomatic break. Plans for guarding ships, navy yards, arsenals, fortifications, wireless station, cables and munitions plants in all parts of the country have been worked out in great detail.

It is estimated that there are at least 10,000 German, Austro-Hungarian, Bulgarian and Turkish agents in the United States whose movements are watched by the secret service for the benefit of the government. At least 5,000 of the men are said to be in New York.

In addition to the secret service organizations of the government the entire force of customs inspectors in all parts of the country, the police of all cities, the post office inspectors, Federal and municipal, are working hand in hand to protect the United States and its citizens.

Water Famine at Halifax; Main Pipe Line Freezes
Halifax, Pa., Feb. 13.—Halifax is suffering from a water famine. The main pipe leading from Peters' mountain to the town reservoir froze up last week and all efforts to thaw it out by men working day and night have been of no avail. The reservoir is entirely empty and the town residents are compelled to take water from the few remaining wells. The water company is making an effort to pump water from Armstrong creek into the reservoir to protect the town against fire. The pipes are now being laid and it is thought within a few days the reservoir will have an adequate supply for protection. It is believed that the pipes will not be opened until the warm weather of next spring thaws them out.

Unique Epitaph Owner Dies in His 89th Year
Norristown, Pa., Feb. 13.—Charles B. Weaver, retired sea captain, tack manufacturer and former health officer of Norristown, died Sunday night at the age of 89 years. He was a financial outlay, with other well-known manufacturers in the early eighties, were the originators of the "Republican" column.

Five years ago Captain Weaver purchased a lot in Riverside Cemetery and erected upon the tombstone which he had erected "Without anticipation of Heaven, Or fear of Hell, With charity to all; I go hence, Nearer, My God, to Thee; While a sea captain he rounded Cape Horn five times, in the days before there was a transatlantic railroad. He visited all the principal harbors of the world. While sailing the bar Union, he captured the Confederate Captain Semmes, of Alabama fame, captured and burned his ship and cargo, and set Captain Weaver's name ashore at Bahia. This experience ended his sea career and he came to Norristown to live.

NEW YORK'S COLDEST DAY
New York, Feb. 13.—This is New York's coldest day in three years. Temperatures dropped officially to the zero mark for the first time since February 13, 1914, when the reading was one degree below. At 5:15 a. m. to-day the zero temperature was recorded and by 8 a. m. there was a rise of only two points, still lower than on any previous day this winter. Slowly rising temperatures were predicted for tonight and to-morrow.

MRS. PAULINA DURANT DIES
Wellesley, Mass., Feb. 13.—Mrs. Paulina A. Durant, widow of Henry F. Durant, founder of Wellesley College, died yesterday. She was born 55 years ago in Alexandria, N. H. On the death of her husband, in 1881, Mrs. Durant succeeded to his office as treasurer of the board of trustees of the college, and she was actively connected with the management of the institution for many years. Her outside philanthropies were numerous.

IT'S HANDY FOR THE PLOW
In the current Farm and Plover a writer says:
"I have found that a leather tool case such as is used for bicycles is very handy for wrenches and small plow attachments. Attach it to the upper round on the plow as illustrated. Fixed in this manner it is accessible and is also where you can keep your eye on it."
"The plan is much more satisfactory than carrying clevis pins and tools around in your pocket, or putting them down where they are hard to find."

"AMERICA RESPONSIBLE"
London, Feb. 13.—"President Wilson wishes to make an attempt to break the German blockade; the American government must be responsible for what happens," says the Berlin Vossische Zeitung in commenting on the report that two American merchant vessels had left for the blockaded zone, according to the Exchange Telegraph Company's Copenhagen correspondent. The correspondent reports that the announcement of the vessels' departure had caused a pronounced sensation in Berlin.

The American vessels referred to doubtless are the unarmed freight steamers Orleans and Rochester, which sailed from New York for Bordeaux on Saturday.

GETS $25,000,000 IN GOLD
New York, Feb. 13.—Gold amounting to $25,000,000 has arrived from Canada for J. P. Morgan and Company for account of the British government, it was learned to-day. This is the first large consignment for British account since early in January when the movement was suspended with the placing of the British loan in this market.

Clears Blotchy Skin
Don't worry about blotches or other skin troubles. You can have a clear, clean complexion by using a little Zemo, obtained at any drug store for 25c, or extra large bottle at $1.00.
Zemo easily removes all traces of pimples, black heads, blotches, eczema, and ringworm and makes the skin clear and healthy. Zemo is a clean, penetrating, antiseptic liquid, neither sticky nor greasy and stains nothing. It is easily applied and costs a mere trifle for each application. It is always dependable.
