THE CUB FAN'S DREAM

"Last night," he said, with shining eyes,
"I dreamed that Chance was back;
I dreamed that Steiny's wallop
Once more led the old attack;
I seemed to see Joe Tinker make
An clottime Tinker spear,
And hear J. Evers barking
In the shaking umpire's ear;
And, like a dream of heaven,
Where the feathered angels sing,
I heard the shoots of Brownie
Hit the mitt of Johnnie Kling.
"I cheered for Circus Solly
As he cracked one on the nose;
I saw old Jimmy Sheckard
Pick a wallop from his toes;
And with the oldtime flash of speed,
Agility and science,
We mauled the Phillies to a pulp
And stamped upon the Glants."

He closed his eyes in retrospect—
He sighed with joy—and then—
I kindly shot him through the heart
Before he woke again.

Which is no part of a knock on Professor Mitchell, the new Cub pennant che; Mitchell has all the qualities of which fine leaders are made. But many a summer day will drift hazily along before Cub fans will ever see another such machine—Chance, Tinker, Evers, Steinfeldt, Sheckard, Schulte, Hofman, Kling, Brown, Overall, Pfeister—once every twenty years is a big average for such a parade.

Hofman, Kling, Brown, Overall, Pfeistel—once every twenty years is a big average for such a parade.

The Four Greatest

Which reminds us that a certain query has remained unanswered for several days. The query, from one of the smaller Fan provinces, desires to know the four greatest ball clubs of the last twenty years. There are six clubs that might well figure in such a debate—the Baltimore Orloles of 1894; the Boston Nationals of 1897, the Pitisburgh club of 1992, the New York Glants of 1905, the Chicago Cubs of 1966, the Philadelphia Athletics of 1911.

Two of these clubs can be entered without any further debate—the Cubs and Athletics—machines good enough to win two world series each and to bag four pennants in five years.

The next club in line is the Boston club of 1898—the club that had for an infield Tenney, Lowe, Long and Collins, and for an outfield, Hugh Duffy, Billy Hamilton and Chick Stahl—seven men who batted between .314 and .359—with Bergen back of the bat and Kid Nichols in the box.

Pittsburgh had a great club in 1902, with Chesbro, Tannehille, Phillipe and Leever in the box; with Bransfield, Richle, Wagner and Leach for an infield, and with Clarke, Beaumont and Davis for the outfield. The Glants of 1946 were a great machine, with Mathewson, McGinty, Bresnahan and others. But it would be hard to leave off the old Orloles—McGraw, Jennings, Kelley, Keeler, Brodie, Wilbert Robjinson, Dan Brouthers and other old stars who made up one of the greatest machines of all times. So our vote would be, in temporal order: Baltimore, 1894; Boston, 1898; Chicago, 1908; Philadelphia, 1911.

The New Florida

There has been a general impression abroad, that while Elevitor.

would be, in temporal order: Baltimore, 1884, Boston, 1885, Chicago, 1886, Philadelphia, 1911.

The New Florida

There has been a general impression abroad that while Florida can grow sand in luxuriant quantities, its production of grass is well below par. That was true of the old Florida—but not of the new. Writing from Deland, Fla., Colonel W. B. Hanna, the golf wanderer, advises as follows: "I have played, among others, these courses—Pinehurst, Oakley, Woodland, Cobb Creek, Ardsley, Garden City, Dunwoodle, Wheaton, Skokie, Glen Echo, Kansas City, Dallas, Houston, Marlin, Macon, East Lake, Englewood, Ormond, Colombo, Salisbury, Cincinnati and others, but the greens at Deland—they are grass—are the best I ever saw—fast and true." Florida, with good grass greens established, will soon be just one vast course. It would not be surprising to see the state's name soon changed to Golforia, or New Scotland.

The Croesus Limit

Though John D. has his share of kale
He still pursues the dough;
For there is still one last dream left
Beyond the afterglow;
For he will be content to quit
When he has, in his sight,
Enough to make the purse up for
A Willard-Fulton fight.

Records and Such
In looking through the records we see this:
Tom Cowler, knocked out by Jack Dillon—two rounds.
Charles Weinert, knocked out by Jack Dillon—two rounds.
Dillon, it is admitted, would be a joke for a Willard. But what is it that makes Fulton eligible for a Willard controversy? Precisely this: The fact that he knocked out Tom Cowler and Charlie Weinert in two founds each.
Logic is a queer fish in a funny sea. The bulk of it takes you where you want to go, and nowhere else.

There is guite a difference in the control of the

Want to go, and nowhere else.

Forced Marches

There is quite a difference in the psychology of getting ready for something and getting ready for anything.

There is many a system that would fester if the alibi wasn't permitted to emerge.

By tossing Fred Fulton into the same pasture with Carl Morris or Frank Moran a much better verdict might be obtained as to his outlying qualifications for a Willard ensemble. Mr. Morris is no part of a wonder, but he can become annoying at times in the way of a passing test.

CENTRAL CHANCES SIMMER; IMPORTANT LEAGUE GAMES

Reading Plays Here Wednesday Night; Lebanon Is Still a Strong Penant Contender

Moore of Lebanon Leads

Moore, the sensational forward of the Lebanon High school five, is so far in advance of the other players in Central Pennsylvania Scholastic League, in his scoring averages, that it is doubtful if he will be headed this senson. In the contest at York last Friday night, his excellent work boosted his average considerable and to date, including all games played, he has averaged 21 points to a game. He has played in seven games. Dayhoff, of Steelton and Nyquist, of Reading, have boosted their average in recent contests. Harrisburg has four players in the top ranks. Frank, of Central, is second to Moore, who leads the league, with Nyquist, Reading, third. Dayhoff, of Steelton, is fifth, with Gregory, of Central right on his heels.
