Uncle Sam Finds Jobs For Returning Troopers

Unemployed guardsmen, who have seen service along the Mexican border, are being helped to secure work by the United States government. The Government Free Employment Service, which was established in 1915, has opened offices in all the large cities and many ex-troopers have been taking advantage of the government service and secured profitable employment.

Two offices, one at 136 South Third street, Philadelphia and the other in the Berger building, Pittsburgh, are taking care of unemployed guardsmen in Pennsylvania. Reports from these offices say there are many available opportunities for mechanics and skilled and unskilled laborers. Aside from assisting returning guardsmen, the bureau is finding jobs for both men and women in many lines at good wages.
