bers of the pardon board, which includes Secretary of the Commonwealth Woods and Secretary of Internal Affairs Houck in addition to Mr. McClain and Mr. Brown, publicly announced themselves to be at loggerheads.

Mr. Woods noded his approval to one or the other in the quick firing argument so rapidly that it was impossible to determine which side of the question he took.

Warden McKenty, of the Penitentiary, appeared before the board and declared that Pezzimenti would have been released on parole eight months ago had it not been for a legal technicality.

When the strike began," said Mr. McKenty, "the Pennsylvania Railroad wrote to me and asked me for Pezzimenti's picture. This I refused to give as he had not committed a crime while on parole."

ing of five vessels in the period from February 16 to 20. None is positively identified, but the indicated aggregate of the five is not less than 13,000 tons.

In addition, from the Lloyd's Agency, the sinking of a British steamer of 1,828 tons is announced.

The tonnage of the vessels named in the reports thus will probably aggregate nearly 23,000 tons.

War operations on the various fronts were of minor importance, so far as the official reports received indicate.

REFORM JURY COMMISSIONER UNDER FIRE

meetings since that date, entirely disagreeing regarding the request of the county officials.

Taylor, in his sworn statement of work in supplying part of the names to go in the jury wheel, reported that he worked eighty days, for which he was paid $320,—at the rate of $4 a day, as allowed by law.

Since his report has been submitted, investigations show that on two days for which he charged for supplying names, he drew juries for court sessions.

Immediately after the discovery, Taylor's report was gone over carefully again, resulting in a request that he should appear before the Commissioners to explain the report in full.

As Jury Commissioner each year he is required to supply about 300 names to be put in the jury wheel, so that they can be drawn for service the next year.

One of the questions puzzling county officials is why Taylor only turned in a bill for fifty days' work for filling the wheel in 1915, when the county $200; while last year the bill was $320.

County Solicitor Philip S. Moyer will be consulted, and it is probable that when Taylor does appear before the commissioners he will be represented by counsel.

Although Taylor claimed in a letter to a local newspaper that he had paid back the $8 overcharged, County Commissioners and County Treasurer Mark Mumma II claim they have not received the money.
