Gives an Important Opinion to Auditor General

In an opinion recently given to Auditor General Powell by Deputy Attor-ney General Kun he is advised not to pay an appropriation to refund $291.23 to an executor in an estate which is alleged to have erroneously paid a collateral inheritance tax. .The money was appropriated because the for payment was not made within the time required by the act of 1901.

The opinion, which will govern in a number of similar cases, holds that the act is special legislation. "It was just this sort of special legislation which the framers of the constitution which the framers of the constitution meant to prohibit by article III, section 7, of the constitution, providing that the general assembly shall not pass any local or special law "refunding moneys legally paid into the Treasury." 'He says that if an application had been made within the limitation of time provided by the act of 1901 it would have been proper to pay, but such are not the facts in the case decided.

ASKS $2,938,000

Bill Presented For Improvement of the Center County Institution Today

The trustees of Pennsylvania State College, are about to ask the Legislature to appropriate $2,938,000 for the next two fiscal years for the main-tenance of the big institution; for new buildings; for additional farm lands and for a new armory. Definite and specific reasons for each of the bequests is contained in the briefs prepared by Attorney H. Walton Mitchell of Pittsburgh, chairman of the board of trustees, who gives largely of his time to furthering the progress of the institution.

The House bill was introduced to day by Representative Harry Scott of Center county, while the same bill will go into the Senate next Monday night bearing the name of Senator William E. Crow, as sponsor. I men are ardent supporters of Center county institution.

At the same time that these bills appear there is an agitation heard in appear there is an agitation heard in Philadelphia, started by State Treasurer Robert K. Young, against educational institutions receiving State aid that are not under the supervision of the State. He made an attack on the policy of the State giving of its money to the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Pittsburgh and advocated the gradual withdrawal of State funds from such institutions.

Pennsylvania State College is not included in the Young speech before the Philadelphia audience. It is generally conceded to be in line for a much larger appropriation this year than in 1915 when it received $900,000. State's request is subdivided in this way: Maintenance and buildings, $2,286,000; farm lands, $60,000; extension work, $242,000; new armory, $250,000.

With regard to the extension item.

$350.000.
With regard to the extension item.
Mr. Mitchell said that the National government will give State about $242,000 contingent on the Commonwealth duplicating the bequest. The National government gives this money to recognized State institutions for the advancement of agriculture and domestic science.
The armory item is one of the most to recognized State institutions for the advancement of agriculture and domestic science.

The armory item is one of the most important things in the list of State College's requests this session. When the present armory was erected there were 125 students undergoing military instruction at the college and now there are 2,400 taking military training out of a total enrollment of 3,500. But it has been a handicap at State. Under the provisions of the National defense act which became a law June 3, 1916, certain equipment is given by the government to students of State colleges provided they drill three days a week and also provided that the State gives them a building to allow drill through the entire college year. The handicap in the Center hills is that the winter weather is so severe that outdoor training is not followed and the two by four armory is not large enough to permit one third of the students to maneuver. To take advantage of the government's generosity and to keep abreast of the development of the institution State needs and wants a real armory.

In the domestic science courses State has made great progress. That school has grown in six years from six girls to now when there are 207, and President Sparks is predicting even greater expansion.

The capital now invested in the industry amounts to $10,484,000, and in 1859 it was only $87,000. The wages paid for making toys in this country new amount to $3,493,000 annually. Fifty odd years ago toy makers here earned in a year only $44,688. The value of the output then was $113,365. Now it is $7,978,000. We export annually $2,030,089 worth of toys, Our biggest customers are Great Britain and Canada. The former buys $762,000 and the latter $594,380.

The war has had a disastrous effect on the toy trade, but temporarily it has increased our output and export. Before the war we bought $24,593,730 worth from Germany, that being more than one-third of Germany's product, which is the largest in the world.

The New Store of Wm. Strouse ■

"First in War, First in Peace, First in the Hearts of His Countrymen"

¶ During the Colonial days when a hogshead of tobacco was exported to England marked "George Washington," the inspectors never troubled to verify its weight or contents, they KNEW the manifest was correct.

When a man or woman who is familiar with Wm. Strouse's business methods buys at the New Store, they do not question the quality or price, they KNOW if they are not satisfied all they need to do is to tell us and they will be given a new garment or their money refunded.

The New Store of Wm. Strouse

THE man or woman that "puts on airs" ain't half as attractive as one that's natural, an' what's true of folks is true of tobacco. Velvet Joe

GREAT many pipe smokers believe with us that no method of curing and mellowing tobacco is quite so good as Nature's own ageing.

As one smoker—an ardent disciple of Velvet Joe-puts it: "I don't like tobaccos that have had things done to 'em."

It ties up money—and it takes a lot of patience -to store away hundreds of thousands of pounds of the very pick of Kentucky's best Burley crops-for two long years.

But your individual verdict today, after you have smoked a pipe of Velvet, is one of the things that repays us-for the verdict of one is the verdict of many. That's the big reason for Velvet's tremendous popularity.
