

SOLVING FOOD DIFFICULTIES

Austrian Emperor by Tireless Work Has Relieved Economic Troubles

Vienna, Feb. 20, via London, Feb. 23.—The intense cold weather has passed and a thaw has set in which has solved the fuel difficulty of Vienna and incidentally greatly facilitated the importation of food stuffs. The flour mills which were shut down owing to frozen rivers are again in operation and full bread rations are once more in force.

Emperor Charles has been a tireless worker in the campaign to relieve economic conditions and the imperial teams are still hauling coal for the populace. The sight of the blooded stock, heretofore only harnessed to state coaches, hauling heavy coal trucks is one of the curious war time incidents in the Austrian capital. The Emperor recently banished wheat bread from the officers' mess at army headquarters and had both wheat bread and flour removed from a special train which was taking his brother, Archduke Maximilian, to Constantinople. In issuing this latter order the emperor remarked that if the common soldiers, the people and himself were contented with black bread, the party on the train should be also.

Cars All Running
Another result of the monarch's intervention has been that Vienna street cars are still running day and night. Dr. Weiskirchner, the burgo-master, had decided that no cars should be run between 9 in the morning and 5 in the afternoon. The emperor informed Dr. Weiskirchner that this step must not be thought of and at first the burgo-master threatened to resign. After a talk with the emperor over the telephone, however, the head of the municipality changed his mind. It appears that Dr. Weiskirchner told the emperor that the cars must be stopped on account of lack of coal. He was promptly told that it was his business to find fuel and he did so. In order to avoid side stepping by the city council the emperor himself fixed the number of cars which were to run.

Some official circles in Vienna and elsewhere throughout the empire have not yet recovered from the shock caused by the energetic methods of Emperor Francis Joseph's young successor. Red tape has been cut right and left and official heads continue to fall in the general clean up which is still going on. It is a sad time for certain army officers who have been enjoying staff sinecures. In one official order the emperor sent a batch of seventy to the front and replaced them by invalid officers. While the official classes were at first inclined to offer passive resistance to the emperor they have now resigned themselves to the inevitable. Those who felt the pace of the new regime too fast are resigning, while the rest are attempting to live up to the monarch's demands for hard work, efficiency and punctuality.

The energy and force of character displayed by the young emperor are attributed by those who know him to the fact that he was brought up in what was far from the lap of luxury, comparatively speaking. His branch of the imperial family was notoriously poor and before he became emperor he was often actually hard up.

Paxtang Residents Want Free Mail Delivery

A mail delivery service for Paxtang will be established within a short time if the request of borough residents met by the Postmaster General. The request to Washington is in the form of a petition, signed by virtually every man in the town and endorsed by Postmaster Frank C. Sites, of Harrisburg.

The plan which the borough hopes to have put in operation would have the deliveries made out of the Harrisburg office twice a day. A branch post-office would be established in one of the borough stores. The petition was started some time ago when Postmaster Small resigned.

Keeping Up the Interest

Keen interest such as you find at this "Live Store" is very unusual. It's no wonder so many people are asking how we manage to keep up interest so long at our

Mark-Down Sale

In the first place this is an unusual store—you'll always find us doing things a trifle different here—While we share an overwhelming response to our announcements, you'll find that it's never done by anything sensational on our part. The program that brings the results that "Doutrichs" are enjoying (in the way of big business) is square-dealing—honest-representation and greater values—nothing so wonderful about it—only that we do the things we claim to do and by so doing have won the confidence that has made this the fastest growing clothing store in Central Pennsylvania.

The patronage we enjoy makes us know that we have friends and we are proud of their friendship and work continually with this thought in mind—that we always want to retain their friendship, as well as to make new friends each day.

A store which has friends must be worthy of them—it must be so organized, developed and maintained that the people of the community, in which it exists, have confidence in its advertising, respect its policy and business methods.
