Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Claster and daughter, Miss Clarissa Claster, of Cottage Ridge; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Claster and daughter, Miss Claribel Claster, of 801 North Second street, have gone to New York city to attend the wedding of a relative at the Savoy.

MOTHER TRAINING WORK WILL START

That nearly one-sixth of the deaths occurring in Harrisburg annually outside of nonresidents in hospitals, etc., are recorded among infants a year old or less. Nearly a half of these deaths are of babies less than a month old. These deaths are characterized by the city health officer as "needless child life sacrifice." The city's visiting nurse, Dr. Raunick pointed out, will not do any actual nursing herself. She will utilize her time in explaining how the mother can do the work. Under the law regular visiting nurses cannot in times of contagious disease epidemic enter quarantined homes.

Result of Ignorance. The big death rate among infants, said Dr. Raunick, is not the result of lack of parental interest, but of absolute ignorance and misconception as to the needs and management required during early child life. Dr. Raunick's figures show that of the 994 actual resident deaths last year, 154 of them were children of one year old or less.

Dr. Raunick pointed out that mothers take their children to milk stations in the summer, have them give treatment and then go home and give them sour milk. They wonder then that the children become ill. Others, expectant mothers, have no idea of the care of a child and call in neighbors as ignorant as themselves for advice. Still in all, it is the lack of knowledge that makes the high mortality rate, he believes. Proper quarantine regulations also would be taught by the nurse in families where there is a case of contagious disease. It is hoped by this method not only to save many patients but to prevent the large number of secondary cases in the families of the poor.

Women of Market Square Secure New Missionary

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Market Square Presbyterian Church, Miss Caroline Pearson, president, will hold an important meeting in the church parlor to-morrow afternoon at 8 o'clock, which all members are urged to attend. The subject for discussion will be "Japan," with Mrs. D. E. Dismukes, the speaker.

Since the resignation of Mrs. Robert M. Larabee, formerly Miss Mary Fleming of this city, as missionary to Persia owing to ill health, the women of the church have been endeavoring to secure some to take up her work. Elizabeth C. Coan will be presented to the society as its missionary to be supported by the women of Market Square.

In selecting Miss Coan for this post, it is a pleasing coincidence that the Coan and Larabee families have been connected in the mission fields for several generations. Her father, the Rev. Dr. Frederick G. Coan, son of the distinguished missionary, the Rev. George Coan, was born in Persia, and was a playmate of the Rev. Robert M. Larabee in Persia, in their childhood days. Miss Coan was educated in this country and is a graduate of Wilkes College and a Bible school in Winona, Minn. When Miss Fleming made her first trip to Persia, she accompanied Dr. and Mrs. Coan, who had been on a furlough, and the Rev. Robert M. Larabee was of the party.

Mrs. Morgan of Texas Gives Violin Numbers

Mrs. H. C. Morgan, of Texas, the talented violinist, who has already been heard to advantage in the city, will be the star attraction at the open meeting of the Ladies' Nest, Order of Owls, at Cameron Hall, 193 North Second street, this evening. Mrs. Morgan's solos will be (a) "Berceuse" from "Jocelyn," by Godard, and (b) "Sourvenir," by Drolla. She will be accompanied by J. Stewart Black who will also play a special piano selection. These are but two numbers of an excellent program.

The meeting to-night is the first meeting at the new permanent headquarters and is open to the general public of both sexes. A large delegation is expected to be present from Capitol City (men's) Nest, as well as from the new Harrisburg nest which is being organized by H. C. Morgan. Visitors will also be present from York, Lancaster and Carlisle. The ladies' social committee will provide free refreshments to all guests, who may come and go at their pleasure between 8 and 11 p. m. The membership of the local ladies' nest is now about one hundred and is sure to be largely increased before the dispensation granted by the Home Nest closes the charter at the end of the present month.

Fulton to Tell Life Story at Tech High School To-night

The story of how a prosperous saloon-keeper and hotel proprietor in New York City became converted, left his business and every cent of the $58,000 he had invested in it and engaged in the work of saving souls and fighting booze, will be told to-night in the auditorium of the Technical High School. It is the life-story of John Fulton, superintendent of Bethesda Mission, and he will tell it himself. He has told the story to thousands of people in many cities of this country within the last ten years. Everybody is welcome. The doors will be opened at 7:45.

68 Converts at Revival

Sixty-eight converts is the result so far of the revival service under way in Camp Curtin Memorial Church, Dr. E. L. Hyde will preach to-night on "Where Shall I Spend Eternity?" Tomorrow night will be the last night of the campaign and Doctor Hyde will speak on "The Man in the Tree."

TO HOLD DEETER FUNERAL HERE

Services to Be Held in Pine Street Presbyterian Church Tomorrow

Funeral services for J. Newton Deeter, who died yesterday in Philadelphia, will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the Pine Street Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. Lewis S. Mudge will officiate. Burial will be made in the Harrisburg cemetery.

Dr. Deeter was born May 25, 1847, at Lewistown Narrows, a son of Jacob and Margaret Baer Deeter. The family came to Harrisburg when Mr. Deeter was fifteen years old. He started life as a newsboy on the trains, traveling into Kansas, then the western terminal. He became private secretary to James McCormick and then entered the employ of the Dauphin Deposit and Trust Bank, now the Dauphin Deposit and Trust Company. In 1891 he became vice-president and treasurer of the E. Mather Company and continued in that capacity until his death. He lived in Mechanicsburg from 1889 to 1905, and served as councilman of that town.

At the outbreak of the Civil war Mr. Deeter enlisted in the First City Zouaves, and later served in the 201st Pennsylvania Volunteers. In 1865 Mr. Deeter wrote mailing wrappers for the Harrisburg Telegraph. He was a member of the G. A. R. and the Pine Street Presbyterian Church. Mr. Deeter was stricken with heart disease last June. He went to Chicago for special treatment, but returned home some months later. He took an active interest in his business until his death. He is survived by his wife, Hannah B. Deeter, daughters, Dr. Ruth A. Deeter, Lillie G. Deeter, of this city; Mrs. Jane Deeter Rippin, of Philadelphia; two sons, Edmund M. Deeter and J. N. Deeter, Jr., of Harrisburg.
