

FISH LICENSE TO HAVE HARD TIME

Little Probability of It Getting Very Far During This Session

The House committee in charge of the bill to establish a state fishermen's license law at half a dollar per license has about decided not to do anything unless the people who urged the license at meetings last year ask for it. The bill has been in committee for some time and no attempts have been made to get hearings. The members of the committee say that they are awaiting an expression of public opinion and officials of the State Department of Fisheries say that they are also waiting to see what the sponsors for the idea are going to do about it.

The proposed fish code is also waiting action as is the biennial bill to take care of the bullfrog and the Juniata red-legged terrapin.

The proposed game code is now in the House and will be up to third reading within a few days. It was considered by the game committee for over a fortnight and represents the views of the members and a number of sportsmen's organizations. The chief feature is that it permits boys under fourteen to trap rabbits. The code is designed to get all of the game laws together and if enacted it will be the plan to let it be tried out for four years at least without being changed.

NEWS OF THE LEGISLATURE

BIG CALENDARS FOR LEGISLATORS

Third Class City Legislation Will Get Attention in the Senate List

The Crow bill providing for the assumption of the duties of the head of a department of the State government by a deputy or chief clerk in case of a vacancy, will be on final passage in the House of Representatives to-night. This is the bill drawn to meet conditions now prevailing in the State government by reason of places not filled since the session began and where officials had been removed. It was drawn originally to meet the emergency in the State Printing Department where men could not get their pay because there was no chief for a time, following the removal of A. Nevin Pomeroy.

Another third reading measure will be the Beyer resolution for a legislative commission to investigate the rising cost of food and calling on the Public Service Commission and the Dairy and Food Commissioner to furnish certain information by to-day. The commission is to report by April 30 and the appropriation, originally

BRANCH CAPITOL REPORT IS READY

Scheme to Spend Half a Million Dollars and to Create New Jobs

The State Branch Capitol Commission which came into being as the result of a resolution introduced into the last Legislature as a joke, will report to the Legislature that there should be a half million dollar building erected on a plot on the Philadelphia parkway to house the dozen or so branches of the government now in rented quarters in Philadelphia at a cost of $13,700 for rent alone, and the supreme and superior courts which have fine quarters here which they occupy about one week a year.

The commission enlarges upon the fact that the city needs the room now occupied by these courts and that they should have quarters of their own in Philadelphia. Attention is also called to the fact that the city of Philadelphia furnishes the aforesaid court rooms and offices worth $25,000 a year in rent.

Ever since the commission was named to devise ways to locate a branch Capitol in Philadelphia, its work has been watched by people in Pittsburgh, Erie, Scranton, Altoona and other cities where there are offices of the State government and where the folks would like to see branch capitols erected.

Accompanying the report will be a bill providing for the creation of a permanent commission to acquire the site from the city either by gift or lease, to prepare plans, make tests and arrange other preliminaries. This bill is to carry $50,000 and provides for $2,500 annual salary for each of the three commissioners. The commission which recommended the construction of the State building performed its work without pay. It was composed of Richard J. Beamish, chairman; Montgomery H. Wright, secretary, and Harry T. Saunders, all of Philadelphia.

The report will set forth that the State can acquire from the city a plot along the north side of the parkway between Twentieth and Twenty-first streets, covering approximately two and a half acres with 572 feet on the parkway. It is located between the convention hall and the library site.

Attention will be called to the fact that the city gives the Supreme and Superior Courts 10,939 feet, representing an annual value of $25,000 in rents and that in addition State offices in Philadelphia are quartered in office buildings at an annual rental outlay of $13,700. The Workmen's Compensation Board and other bureaus occupy the dozen or more bureaus now housed alone which cost $5,250 a year in rent. It is set forth in the report that "on account of the rapid growth of the municipal government of Philadelphia, it is more than likely that the space occupied by the Supreme and Superior Courts in City Hall will soon be required for the accommodation of the city government and the local courts. This would make it necessary for the Commonwealth to seek a new location for its appellate courts which would probably entail an expenditure by way of rentals alone of at least $25,000 a year."

The proposed office building would be for the courts and the quarters of the dozen or more bureaus now housed in Philadelphia, and the report says: "Such building should not in any sense be a branch Capitol, but merely for the convenience of housing such branches of the State government as are at present or may be in the future located in or near the city of Philadelphia." It is also recommended that the building be of a permanent character enlarged to meet future needs, which is all very fine.

PRISON LABOR IS TO BE PROBED

Commissioners Will Be Asked Some Questions Regarding State System

Members of the State Prison Labor Commission are to be asked to explain to the House Appropriations Committee why it is necessary to ask an appropriation of $275,000 for the conduct of their work. A bill was presented on February 13 by Mr. Brady, Philadelphia, for that sum, of which $150,000 was to be for the manufacturing fund expenses, which would include the wages for prisoners in the two penitentiaries and the Huntingdon Reformatory, and $125,000 for pay of persons employed outside of manufacturing, but would care for those working on the new penitentiary construction. The committee wants to know why the commission can not pay wages, etc., out of revenue received from sale of its products.
