Advice to Lovenlorn

Advice to Lovenlorn

SHE HAS NO RIGHT TO THEM

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am going out with a young lady and find that I love her and know my love is reciprocated. A short time ago she received two presents—one, a string of pearls, the other, a gold bracelet from two young men she formerly knew and of whom she told me. Under the circumstances do you think it proper for her to retain these presents? Although I have said nothing to her, I do not approve of her retaining these, and therefore await your kindly advice. F. A.

Under no circumstances is it proper for a girl to accept gifts such as you mention. She must return them at once both for the sake of her own dignity and because of her esteem for you, the man she loves.
