LITTLE BOBBIE WRITES ABOUT PA He Froze Both Ears and the Tip of His Firm Noas

By WILLIAM F. KIRK It was awful cold in our flat yesterday; the papers said it was the coldest day since the year of the Big Blizzard, & Pa sed that the year of the Big Blizzard was like the Fourth of July compared to yesterday. I ought to know, sed Pa, I only froze one ear that winter & to-day I have froze both of my ears and the tip of my firm noas, sed Pa.

grate bear thare burdens in silence & never give the janitor a tumble, sed Pa. If every man hollered for a janitor when he felt cold, sed Pa, thare wud never be a chanst to discover the North Pole. Or to dig gold in the Klondike, sed Pa. We shall never live in this flat another winter, sed Ma, that is as sure as Fate. Let us not look so far aled, sed Pa. Surely this winter is cold enuff without looking for another cold spell next year. Ouch! Ouch! my noas, sed Pa. What about yure noas, sed Ma. It is beginning to thaw out & it hurts, sed Pa. Thar must be sum mistak, sed Ma, it cud never thaw out in this flat. But it hurts, jes the saim, sed Pa. Ouch! I think I shall have to run oaver to Jerry's place & have it fixed, sed Pa. What a quaint fancy, sed Ma, to think you are going to git out of this inleco agens, now that I have you here. Thare goes the thermometer, sed Ma, the cold has broke it. Never mind that, sed Pa, if we dont have the thermometer to look at we won't notis the cold so much. Ouch, how that bezer hurts! I wish you wuddent use that common slang ware littel Bobbie can hear it, sed Ma. He is beginning to talk like one of them street Arabs. He said this morning when I asked him how he felt, that he was all the mustard. None of our folks ever used sians, sed Ma. Thare wasent any slang back oaver the hills ware yure folks lived, sed Pa. The men folks back thare sed I Do Vum & the girls are still singing Littel Annie Rooney & On the Benches in the Park. Ha, ha, sed Pa, & then they send scholars to Ceylon to eddicate them heethen. You are in rare form tonite, arent you, sed Ma. For a man with two frozen ears & a frosted nose, Ma sed, you are fairly bubbling oaver. Jest then the janitor claim up & had sum good news. I jest put on two shovelfulls of coal he sed to Ma. I asked the landlord & he sed it wud be all rite, he supposed. & after awhile the steem was going pritty good & Pa began to resite poetry. He sed: The sun that brief December day Rose cheer-less oaver hills of gray. I never knewt what a frozen heart ment. Until I moved to this apartment. Well, well, sed Ma, so my littel songbird is warmed up at last. It is a good thing for them Eskimos that they dont live in flats. MRS.
