

RUSS ESTABLISH NEW GOVERNMENT WITH REGENT

OVERTHROW OF CZAR REGARDED ANTI-GERMAN COUPE

By Associated Press
 Washington, March 15.—The overthrow of the Russian autocracy was accepted in all quarters here as a complete victory for the anti-German sentiment in the empire, removing virtually all chance of Russia being drawn away from her allies into a separate peace.

The sensation created by the news of the successful revolution, the turning out of the ministry and the arrest of pro-Germans was followed by another more profound when press dispatches announced the abdication of Emperor Nicholas. The revolution was not wholly unexpected, and before noon yesterday the State Department received meager official information about it from Petrograd. But the abdication of the Emperor was dumbfounding to both official and diplomatic circles.

It had been assumed that in spite of the belief that the Emperor, influenced by his German wife and pro-German advisers, was lukewarm or worse in support of his allies, he would be permitted to continue nominally as the head of the new government. Neither officials nor diplomats could understand what the revolutionary leaders expected to accomplish by shifting the crown.

The overthrow of the government by the Duma is interpreted here as the culmination of efforts made throughout the war to rid the country of German influence.

Family Reigned Long
 Nicholas II is the son of Alexander III and was in the straight line of succession of the Romanoff dynasty that had governed Russia for the last three centuries. His father, escaping many attempts at assassination, finally died in the Duma in 1894, and the new ruler, then six years old, was called to the throne.

The empire had been in a turbulence during the reign of his father through a period of a political spirit and a new liberalism that reached its fruition in this revolution. Thousands of political prisoners had been executed or banished to Siberia, and the haughtiness of the nobles were the busiest instruments in Russia. Despite the vigilance of the police, the plots continued to be hatched and Alexander ruled with such severity and intolerance that the entire empire was sick and weary of the blood lust and the bomb.

After he accepted the title of Nicholas II began to show a notable change toward his subjects, and to lean more and more toward the reactionary influences in the Russian Government. He went to the Crimea and upon his return the expected changes failed to materialize. He took over the ministry which had surrounded his father, with a single exception. Minister of the Interior, and upon his return the expected changes failed to materialize. He took over the ministry which had surrounded his father, with a single exception. Your Liver Is the Best Beauty Doctor

A dull, yellow, lifeless skin, or pimples and eruptions, are twin brothers to constipation. Bile, nature's own laxative, is getting into your blood instead of passing out of your system as it should.

This is the treatment, in successful use for 50 years—one pill daily (more only when necessary).

MOTHER ONCE WAS AFRAID TO GO TO BED

Spasmodic Croup Often Kept Mrs. Shepard Awake All Night.

No one but a mother knows the terrors of croup. In the hope that other mothers will find the same relief she experienced, Mrs. Benl. Shepard, 27 Spruce St., Danville, Pa., writes—

"I have used your Vick's VapoRub Salve, and would not be without it in my house. I have tried it for spasmodic croup and it acted like a charm. My little girl breathed easier in about ten minutes after I rubbed her throat and chest with VapoRub, and she went to sleep and never woke until morning. Other times I used to have to sit up all night with her, afraid to go to bed. So I will gladly recommend it to any mothers for croup."

You just apply Vick's VapoRub Salve over throat and chest, covering with a warm flannel cloth. The body heat releases antiseptic vapors that are inhaled with each breath, loosening the phlegm—a real "Bodyguard in the home" against all cold troubles. Three sizes, 25c, and up. At all druggists.

Claims Economy

In Taking Casca Royal Pills.

Thinks People Spend Dollars Where Dimes Would Do.

A big city physician, with no ax to grind, makes the statement that "too many people spend dollars for medicine and doctors where dimes would readily answer. I mean that nine-tenths of the ills of the human family are due to faulty elimination. Inactive kidneys and constipated bowels bring on a train of ills that would require a page to enumerate. Headache, neuralgia, rheumatism, biliousness, backache, indigestion, nervousness, insomnia, etc., unless in a chronic stage, can be corrected by taking Casca Royal Pills, instead of high-priced stomach medicines, liver tonics, blood purifiers, etc."

Just try a 10c or 25c package and you'll save many dollars and keep your health good too. Any druggist can supply you with this very pleasant physic, tonic and warbler. Sold by druggists everywhere.

DEPOSED CZAR AND HIS FAMILY

leagued army at Port Arthur, surrendering. The Russian fleet under Admiral Rojevstsky was defeated by Admiral Togo.

In 1905, when the treaty of Portsmouth was signed, Russia saw its first revolution of the Nicholas reign. For years the various societies organized for liberalism in Russia had been suppressed, but were resurrected. In 1905 the people demanded the Duma, or Legislature, that it should have a voice in governmental affairs and would end the autocratic tyranny of the hated bureaucrats.

The Duma agreed, but dawdled so long that the leaders fomented rebellion and a revolt started October 30, 1905. The strength of the movement terrified the monarch, but he was unwilling to surrender the reins of power to the control of the ministerial cabinet so that he constantly procrastinated. The revolution grew to such proportions that on May 19, 1906, the Duma was convened by his Majesty in person. This was followed by other sessions, and has since showed its hand in the doings of the empire.

Political Manifesto

In accordance with Russian custom, the new Emperor was compelled to issue a manifesto stating the tenets of his political faith. Nicholas issued such a document on January 26, 1895, which was filled with flowery phrases and adept quotations that could mean either pledge and promise, or nothing.

The result was that the people felt no great jubilation over the imperial clemency that was indicated in the manifesto, for it was revealed as nothing but mockery. To the peasants the usual remission of taxes was granted, that is, those which could not be collected by the collectors by blows; so that the "grace" meant simply the remission of the blows.

The Polish rebels imprisoned in Siberia for their part in the revolution of 1863 were pardoned, but were not permitted to live where they might be deemed dangerous. It meant that they were taken from exile to prison and banished to some other place at the discretion of the Minister of the Interior.

Religious persecution, too, started, that was later to end in the massacre of Kishinev and the revolution of 1905, the parent of the present revolt. Finally, when the people began to appreciate that they had changed rulers but not methods, the real maxim came. The Zemstvos, or league of cities, joined in a greeting to the emperor, who made a tour of the empire. On December 29, 1895, he made his famous reply to the speech of welcome. In that he said that "the principle of the autocracy will be maintained by me as firmly and unswervingly as it ever was by my revered father."

Remained Quiet Until 1914

From then until 1914 Russia was comparatively peaceful. When the present war began the Czar appointed his uncle, the Grand Duke Nicholas, to supreme command of the armies, which had a disastrous campaign after the opening raid into East Prussia. While the Grand Duke led many masterly retreats, the Russians wanted action. On September 7, 1915, Grand Duke Nicholas was compelled to relinquish his command, the Czar himself taking supreme command of the armies.

The last three years have been periods of woe for Russia. The activity of the pro-German nobles has retarded the Government in its prosecution of the war, while the bureaucrats have held the Czar in leash. Several times when Nicholas seemed ready to slash the things that bound him he faltered and the ministers regained their ascendancy. His abdication has long been held to be an inevitable result of the war.

CALM RESTORED IN PETROGRAD

General Political Amnesty Will Be Given by New Minister of Justice

By Associated Press
 London, March 16.—Deputy Kerensky, the new Russian minister of justice, has decided to frame a measure of general political amnesty, according to a Petrograd dispatch to Reuters dated Thursday. The Grand Duke Nicholas, commander in the Caucasus, has telegraphed President Rodzianko of the duma, that he had asked the emperor, in order to save Russia and bring the war to a successful end, to take the only step possible in the present tateful circumstances.

Calm has been quickly restored in Petrograd, although numerous partisans of the old regime have been firing from roofs and garrets upon the troops and inhabitants. By order of the executive committee, soldiers have entered the houses where firing is taking place and removed suspected persons. The garrison of the palace at Tsarskoe-Selo has declared itself on the side of the new government and
