Men With Brains, Who Should Know Better, Depress and Discourage Weak Souls

We hear a great deal about the heroism of soldiers in these days, and there are hundreds of men who are wearing medals, crosses and other emblems of distinction which have been bestowed upon them for their bravery. A halo of glory surrounds the name of thousands of dead heroes, but right here in our own land of peace we have heroes. In early November, the Santa Clara, a steamer, was stranded on the Blood was streaming down his face from where a piece of wreckage had hit him. He placed the children on shore and gasped, "There's a woman out there, I am going back to get her.", He never returned.

Police to-day were unable to unearth any information leading to the arrest of the person or persons who yesterday morning about 1 o'clock tried to dynamite a foreign boardinghouse at 719 South Second street, run by William Linti. The dynamite was placed in a barrel partly full of coal and when exploded shattered the rear of the building, tearing the walls apart, breaking doors and windows. The shock of the explosion was felt for a square around the building.

Two women and nineteen men were asleep in the building when the explosion occurred. None was injured. The building is owned by I. Sharosky, South Front street, and was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars.

Fear of Traffic Trouble Causes Exodus; Soil Is Wonderfully Productive; Great Development Strides Taken

(Editorial Correspondence)

Florence Villa, Fla., March 15 .- Thou. now insisting on leaving within the ed in great areas.

Wonderful System of Canals Along the Ocklawaha River, the most tortuous stream in the world, whose course has been straightened by a wonderful system of canals in recent years, thousands of acres have been converted into rich and phenomenally productive soil. In this district 3,000 acres represents the development of a tract whose yield of corn and potatoes has been little short of marvelous. As a test of the soil 100 acres were planted in corn and the yield was 142 bushels to the acre. The average Pennsylvania farmer would probably be tickled with an average of 39- to 40 bushels. Last season 1,000 acres in the same section produced 94,000 bushels, which was sold at an average of $1.0$ per bushel, the crop netting over all expenses above $80,000.

This ought to be encouraging for the tortuous stream in the world, whose $80,000.

This ought to be encouraging for the vacant lot potato and corn movement in Harrisburg. I should add that in this big cornfield the small ears—nubbins, you know—and the stalks were not gathered but the owners turned into the field 200 or 300 head of cattle and about 3,000 hogs, which were fattened through their own foraging. The cattle and hogs were sold at a big profit.

300 Bushels Per Acre

the elements, the yield of Irish potatoe in former years has been over 300 bushels per acre, or 100 barrels. In the same ratio the crop of potatoes from the 600 acres this year will be about 60,000 barrels which should, at present prices, realize for the owners $6 to $8 per barrel—approximately $250,000, As soon as the potatoes are picked corn will be planted and should be ready for plucking in Steptember or October. Cabbage could then be planted and gathered before the next potato season, unless the hog and cattle feeding should be resumed.

About 2,000 acres of this rich black land was sold for $750,000. As the drainage of the river bottom costs from $10 to $15 an acre, the profit can be readily figured.

Not Good For Corn?

Not Good For Corn?

Certain distinguished soil expert of the University of Illinois was sent a sample of this rich earth for analysis and reported back that it was no good for corn. He had found very little potassium and declared it would not produce corn. He was advised that the person who had shipped the sample had gathered the dirt from between rows of corn ten to fifteen feet high and that there had been gathered about 140 bushels per acre. He asked for another sample and submitted a similar analysis. Still not convinced he came to Florida this winter and seeing a pile of corncebo as big as a barn, where 94,000 bushels had been shelled, he concluded there was no doubt concerning the corn-growing quality of the soil.

and neglect to take vacations. Women who are too active socially, anyone who has too much excitement and too little rest may show the symptoms.

The complexion becomes pale, you imagine unpleasant things, your brain insists on working when you want to go to sleep. Sometimes you are melancholy. Things that used to please you no longer do so. Constipation is usually present. You worry about yourself and your work and cannot forget your anxieties.

No doctor can cure neurasthenia. You have to do it yourself. The first thing is to write to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for the booklet on the home treatment of nervous disorders. If you want to start the treatment before the book comes get a fifty-cent box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from the nearest drug store and follow the directions carefully.
