in the Shops

A real boy does not like to go shopping. He likes to buy his clothes, as his older brothers do in the shortest possible time and from the most reliable store, and that is the reason that the boys' department of the Doutrich Store for Men, 304 Market street, has become so tremendously popular. The new spring suits for boys have the smart belted effects, and patch pockets, that the boys like, and hats and caps to match are offered, too, so that it is easy to select the spring outriff at this up-to-date store. The mothers, too, seem to like this store as well as the boys, for the personal interest of salespeople who have been there long enough to know just what each customer wants is a great help in buying.
