

NEWS OF CENTRAL PENNSYLVANIA AND CITY'S SUBURBS

RAILROAD ASKED TO BUILD SUBWAY

Petition Circulated at Duncan- non For Better Access to Station

Duncannon, Pa., March 23.—Local residents are circulating a petition that will be filed with the Pennsylvania Railroad requesting it to construct a subway under the tracks at the Pennsylvania station.
At the present time passengers are forced to await the passing of freight trains or use a subway at Ann street, two blocks from the station. The duty at night and the gates crossing the track are locked, as is also the station. This compels people living at the lower end of town to walk four needless blocks to use the present subway. During high water this subway cannot be used and passengers are obliged to cross all four tracks. Supporters of the petition believe that the construction of a subway will obviate these inconveniences. This, together with the fact that such a large number of Duncannon people deal and work at Harrisburg and surrounding towns, should cause the Pennsylvania to accede to the request.

Supreme Court Reviews R. R. Business Methods

Washington, March 23.—Practices of American railroads in soliciting freight from abroad for transportation in this country were debated today before the Supreme Court in a Federal suit against the Lehigh Valley railroad, the outcome of which will affect other roads.
The government seeks to prohibit payment by the railroad to a New York Freight Forwarding Company, based upon tonnage from abroad routed over its lines. That such payments are, in effect, illegal rebates is contended by the government and denied by the railroad, the latter insisting that the freight forwarding company is virtually a foreign freight soliciting agency. New York federal courts enjoined the railroad from continuing the practice.

One of the other items of importance which came before the meeting was the securing of a home for the club. The matter was discussed and a house committee is now engaged in selecting a permanent home.

MAYOR MEALS IMPROVING

Mayor E. S. Meals, who has been seriously ill at his home, Third and North streets, for almost two months, is slowly improving, it was announced to-day.

VOLUNTEER ARMY SHAMS

General Scott, for instance, was suddenly halted in his triumphant progress from Vera Cruz to the City of Mexico by discovering that the twelve-month enlistment of seven out of eleven of his volunteer regiments had expired. Did they re-enlist? They did not, and he saw 4,000, or more than one-third of his army, leave him in the midst of an enemy's country, and had to sit down and wait for reinforcements.

The Civil war, of course, is the classic instance of great American volunteer armies, and here the short-term enlistment was responsible for early disaster, the tragedy of the first Bull Run being due to the hurrying of raw troops into action in great haste lest their term of enlistment should expire before they had fired a gun. To be sure, later enlistments were for three years; but before the war was half over the volunteer system had failed, and both sides were resorting to the draft. With this in the North went the practice of hiring substitutes. The country was also treated to the scandal of bounty jumping. Besides, the number of desertions under the volunteer system was astounding, being placed on high authority at over half a million out of 2,700,000 enlistments.—From "How About War?" by Peter Clark Macfarlane, in Collier's.

"Successograms"

It's easy to be a hero when the band is playing and bright eyes are watching. But that kind of heroism doesn't count when one gets in the big game of life. Amateur athletes always succumb to professional "class." Why? Because professionals have to win.
The finish is what counts. The man who can stand the "graff" without shortening his stride is the man who wins the big prizes in life.
It is easy enough to work out schemes to make money without working for anyone, but where is the salaried man who has the nerve to try them?
Had I my life to live over again, I would stick at carving until I found myself, I would determine whether I could make a living by selling to people things they do not want, and as I went along from house to house or store to store I should study human nature and develop a practical philosophy that would guide me all my life.
Asking for something merely because you want it is not an adroit way to court opportunity. The way to get what you want is to show that you deserve it before you ask—and then perhaps you won't have to ask. Possibly it will be offered to you without asking.—From "William Maxwell's "If I Were Twenty-one," in Collier's.

INDICT ALLEGED "DOPE" SELLER

Grand Jury Returns True Bill Against Meyer Lane, Held For Selling Cocaine

The grand jury to-day returned a true bill against Meyer Lane, held on a charge of selling cocaine in this city. Lane was arrested recently by city police in connection with a series of raids on "dope" joints, and is alleged to be a member of a chain of dispensers of drugs.
City Detective Hyde Speese is one of the principal witnesses in the case, which went to the grand jury this morning, and is the latest to be placed on the March criminal court list.
Owing to the illness of witnesses, counsel and one of the defendants, it is probable that none of the murder or manslaughter cases which have been continued, will be tried this week. One of the principal witnesses in the case against Frederick Richcreek, held for murder, is ill it is reported, and a motion picture, made to the court to continue the trial until June sessions, John Lango, held on a serious charge preferred by his brother's wife, was convicted to-day. The trial was featured late yesterday by the calling of two little girls, Maggie and Mary Fritz, aged 13 and 10 years, who denied statements which another girl swore they had overheard, which would have overturned in all probability the case which the Commonwealth had made against Lango.
Daniel Lewis, charged with stealing fifteen dozen eggs from Mac Bell, at the Verbeke street market on February 13, was convicted.

Denounces Cross Suits

In continuing the case against Rudolph Miller, of Steelton, until June sessions, Additional Law Judge S. J. M. McCarrell severely criticized persons who, when arrested on a criminal charge, bring a cross-suit against the prosecutor, with a view to stopping further proceedings.
Miller is accused of hurling a brick at Miss Edith Miller, striking her just above the right eye. In testifying against him, David Smith, the father, said that he had been prosecuted by Miller on a charge of assault and battery but that the grand jury ignored the bill yesterday.

PROVEN SWAMP-ROOT AIDS WEAK KIDNEYS

The symptoms of kidney and bladder troubles are often very distressing and leave the system in a run-down condition. The kidneys seem to suffer most, as almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to dangerous kidney troubles.
Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which soon heals and strengthens the kidneys is a splendid kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and, being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed in most cases by those who use it.
A trial will convince anyone who may be in need of it. Better get a bottle from your nearest drug store, and start treatment at once.
However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention the HARRISBURG DAILY TELEGRAPH.—Adv.
