Gross Planning to Ask Approval Next Week of Plans For Ash Survey

A resolution for an ash and garbage survey in the city will probably be introduced at the session of Council on Tuesday. Commissioner E. Z. Gross, under whose supervision the collections are being made, has had conferred with the New York Bureau of Municipal Research and with private engineers he announced, and expects to be ready to introduce a definite proposal next week. Although additional teams have been put on the various districts, and five inspectors have been employed, the gangs are being delayed in keeping on schedule because of the length of time required to remove ashes and refuse which accumulated during the winter. A general clean-up has been ordered, but according to Commissioner Gross this will be done gradually to prevent a repetition of conditions before the ultimate work is done by the Pennsylvania Reduction Company.

$1,357,829,836 Value of Natural Resources of State, Demming Reports

Col. Henry C. Demming, geologist of this city, to-day handed to State officials a tabulation of the output of natural resources of Pennsylvania during 1916, compiled by him from reports and original sources. They aggregate a value of $1,357,829,836. The Colonel's list includes such products, including many minerals. Bituminous coal alone amounted to over $602,000,000, and anthracite to $431,000,000, while coke was $102,000,000 and its by-product $10,000,000. Petroleum was valued at $26,000,000. Gold, silver, platinum, asbestos and other materials are mentioned. And General Powell, who received the list to-day, stated that it would be a most useful compilation for the revenue commission in case it had to tax products of natural resources. The aggregate, however, except that of the yield $12,000,000 for defense purposes. The Auditor General thanked Colonel Demming for his enterprise.

WORK STARTED ON NEW CHURCH

Construction of Building For First Church of Christ, Scientist, Under Way

Construction work has been started on the new building for the First Church of Christ, Scientist, this city. This building is being erected on the rear of the church lot at the southeast corner of Front and Woodbine streets, and will be used eventually for Sunday school services. The architectural style of the building under construction will be a part of the large structure and will be used eventually for Sunday school services. Adaptation of English Gothic. When completed the church will accommodate a congregation of two hundred and fifty persons. The architectural style of the building will be an adaptation of the English perpendicular Gothic. The principal features are massive walls and buttresses, relieved by great multilobed window openings. Exterior walls will be of limestone, taken from quarries at Hershey, and the stone trimmings will be of Indiana limestone. The interior walls will be of brick, and the roof will be of steel. The building will be furnished and glazed by the C. Day Rudy Company of this city. The heating, ventilating and sheet metal work will be done by Clecker & Burke. Steel roof trusses will be furnished by the Vanderstucken-Ewing Construction Company, of Bethlehem, and the reinforcing steel by Frank Class, of this city. Contracts for other portions of the work are not closed yet. The general construction is being supervised by J. P. Thompson under the direction of the architects, W. W. Johnson and Thomas M. Kelker. It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy within a few months.

Historic Old Keller Homestead to Be Vacated

Occupied for three generations by the Keller family, the residence at Second and Walnut streets, will soon be vacated. Upon the completion of the new home in Riverside Drive, between Woodbine and Emerald streets, Mrs. John P. Keller is planning to remove from the Second street home which probably will be let to some business concern. Negotiations are under way now according to an announcement by Croll Keller and John P. Keller, Jr., but no statement will be made of the disposition of the property until these are closed.

Mother Too Ill to Be Told of Baby Daughter's Tragic Death From Burns

Mrs. H. E. Herman, of near Progress, a patient at the Harrisburg Hospital, is too ill to be told of the death of her 17-month-old daughter, who died from burns yesterday in the hospital. The doctors fear to tell Mrs. Herman of the death of her daughter. The little daughter, Marjorie, was burned Wednesday afternoon when the grandmother was lifting a kettle of water from the stove. The child pulled the grandmother's skirts, spilling the hot water on her head. Her condition was not regarded as serious when she was taken to the hospital. Yesterday she became worse and died last night. Although the mother is improving, it will doubtless be several days before she will be told of the daughter's death.

DEATH ARTICLES RECORDED

The installation of the new system of requiring all parcels left in jitneys to be turned over to the police has collected quite a varied assortment of the police station. The latest addition was a pair of mittens, brought to the station this morning. Several overcoats of various sizes, umbrellas and parcels have been collected and reclaimed.

SOME FACTS AND FALLACIES IN THE MATTER OF BREEDING

shape and so on, it is called "line-breeding." If the breeding of related stock is done indiscriminately, and brothers and sisters are bred together for generations for no particular purpose, it is called "in-breeding." In other words, "line-breeding" or "in-breeding" is keeping to the same ancestors and the same blood lines, without the disastrous effects of "in-breeding." It is carefully selected, systematic in-breeding. "Out-breeding" is a term applied to the practice of introducing new blood every year, but such blood is of the same breed. "Cross-breeding" is introducing entirely new blood of a distinctly different breed. Through fear of the flock degenerating many poultry raisers consider it absolutely necessary to bring in new males each year. Very often they make a practice of exchanging males with nearby farms, which is the vogue among farmers, especially. This is inspired by the right idea, but it is like a man exchanging his horse for a mule. If it is desirable to introduce new blood, the rule should be to do so—not just because it is superior to your own in vigor and other ways. It is very difficult to raise standard bred birds if new blood is added to the flock each year. You may buy a pure-bred male to mate with your pure-bred females, and later find that the two strains failed to "nick" properly. That is, the mating may throw offspring with defective combs, disproportion or poor color, which will require several generations of special breeding to eliminate. In short, the advent of new blood is a speculation. Two Divisions of the Same Strain. A better way to introduce new blood is to take two years to do it, and experiment with individuals. Purchase a few hens of the desired strain and mate them to your best males, or secure a couple of outside males and

JITNEY MEN OF CITY APPLY FOR CERTIFICATES

Want Paper of Public Convenience; Other Capital Hill News

Sixty-seven Harrisburg jitney operators to-day applied to the Public Service Commission for certificates of public convenience. They are the men against whom the Harrisburg Railways Company recently entered complaint. The cases were listed for April 5 but will be postponed until April 11. This is the largest lot of applications for such certificates from any one city in a long time. The applications have to be advertised and objections can be entered. Dr. C. J. Marshall, the State veterinarian, is in Washington tendering his services to the United States government to assist in organizing the veterinarian medical corps of the United States army. Dr. Marshall is a recognized expert of national reputation. Recently he returned from the front in France where he made observations of the manner in which the allied armies are handling the animal transport, carrying for the horses and mules and methods of treatment. Three of the stenographers and the messenger of the State Livestock Sanitary Board have tendered their services to the government. Horace W. Davis, deputy attorney general and one of the leading allied attorneys of Sharon, has announced his resignation to enter a big law firm in New York. Mr. Davis has been deputy attorney general for two years and is one of the State's ablest and best-liked men at the Capitol. Arrangements are being made to have a hearing on the Davis bill to tax all kinds of coal. It will probably be held early in April by the House Ways and Means Committee. Governor Brumbaugh to-day announced his veto of the Milliron House Bill No. 1, of this session, which provided an appropriation of $45,000 for construction of a road in Armitage county. "This bill is wholly unnecessary and against public policy," says the Governor. He adds that it is "so manifestly unconstitutional that its approval would lead to the defeat of the purpose it seeks to attain." Adjutant General Stewart to-day announced the transfer of Captain R. W. Fuller, of Scranton, to the National Guard officers' reserve. Complaints against grade crossings were filed with the Public Service Commission to-day by the city of Johnstown against crossings of the Johnstown and Stony creek railroad and the Johnstown Traction Company and by citizens of Erie against crossings of the New York Central and Pennsylvania, the city of Erie, being made a party to the defense. The State Department golf club opened the season at the Reservoir to-day. Chris Sausers, Henry Young, Charles H. Hollinger and other experts belong on the links. Governor Brumbaugh to-day honored a requisition for the return of James York, charged with murder, to Guilford, N. C., for trial.
