LECTURES BEFORE THE COMMONWEAL

Dr. Mullenwey Who Speaks on Chinese Characteristics Organized First Red Cross

Dr. John J. Mullenwey, of the State Department of Health, will lecture on "Chinese Characteristics" for the Commonwealth Club on Monday evening, April 2, at 7:45 sharp, in the Young Women's Christian Association Building, Fourth and Walnut streets, Harrisburg.

After graduating from the Medical College of the University of Pennsylvania, in 1908, Dr. Mullenwey went to China and was appointed professor in the North China Union Medical College, where he taught for three and one-half years, studying the language from six to eight hours each day, as all teaching was done in the Chinese language.

Dr. Mullenwey's stay in China covered one of the greatest periods in Chinese history. During the first year the famous Empress Dowager died and "news of the death of both Empress and Emperor came out of the forbidden city at the same time."

After their deaths, a little baby of three years was proclaimed Emperor. The big event of the second year of his work there was the breaking out of the bubonic plague eighty miles to the north of Peking.

At the request of the Chinese Government, the North China Union Medical College and the American doctors were called to fight this most dreadful of diseases.

During the third year the great revolution occurred which eventually ended in the overthrow of the Manchu. Again the Chinese Government requested the Medical College and the foreign doctors to assist in caring for the sick and wounded.

With two other American doctors Dr. Mullenwey organized the first Red Cross Corps in North China. At first they experienced considerable difficulty in getting permission to work under Red Cross rules which would take them down into the revolution territory.

With this as a nucleus, the Chinese have now organized a regular Red Cross Society, recognized by the Chinese Government and of which Dr. Mullenwey is an honorary member.

Both the epidemic and the revolution afforded splendid opportunities for seeing the country, getting acquainted with the people and learning their languages, manners and customs.

These and many more interesting things will be told by Dr. Mullenwey when he delivers his illustrated lecture next Monday night. A cordial invitation is extended to all who are interested. The lecture is entirely free.
