Carl Morris Wins on Foul; Referee Bill Brown Calls Bout Off in Fifth Round

New York, April 5.—Carl Morris, of Oklahoma, was awarded the decision over Fred Fulton, of Minnesota, in the fifth round of a bout here last night, after Referee Bill Brown had announced Fulton struck Morris a foul blow, sending him helpless to the floor.

Morris made quite a bit with the fans last night on account of the vast improvement that he showed in his boxing. Instead of swinging wildly, which was the case when he appeared in this city on former occasions, the Oklahoma engineer seemed more accurate with his punches, with the result that he was having the better of the milling when Fulton connected with a hard right way below the waist line, which laid Morris low.

The first round, which was even, produced some of the best milling witnessed between heavyweights for some time. Morris, who kept boring in, peering Fulton with hard right and lefts to the latter's mid-section. Starting with the second round Morris seemed to be all over the Minnesota lad, who took several hard punches without hardly connecting with a return.

The second round went to Morris by a large margin, while the third was also Morris', the first and fourth rounds being even. Fulton did not seem to get properly started, due to the aggressive tactics of his opponent, who forced the fight at every opportunity. It was announced from the ring that Morris tipped the beam at 223 1/2 pounds, while Fulton scaled the beam at 220 1/2.

The Sportlight by Grantland Rice

(Copyright, 1917, The Tribune Ass'n.) The well-known State (Georgia) may not be as thickly populated as several other commonwealths, but would be hard to land upon a locality which has produced as many interesting varieties of athletes as the Red Clay dominion wedged in between Alabama and the Atlantic Ocean.

Almost everywhere one may light one hits upon a famous character, either from the present era or from other days. And these are in no way confined to one sport. They embrace almost every variety now grown in Uncle Sam's domain.

Leading Lights It would be useless to mention Ty Cobb first. Ty and Georgia are inseparable links. He is Georgia's First Citizen, and Georgia isn't any fonder of Ty than Ty is of Georgia—which happens to be 100 per cent, each way.

Atlanta still boasts two famous entries in sport. One is Bobby Walthour, who has ridden and won more bicycle races than any other rider now living. Bobby is a messenger boy in Atlanta over twenty years ago, and yet he is still up around the front. He began his racing career in Georgia's capital, and has a fine residence in that city when he finds time to alight and take a meal at home.

Another famous Bobby is Bobby Jones, the kid phenom at golf, who at the age of fourteen was the sensation of a national championship, and who has since proved to be one of the great golfers of America. Bobby is now playing fine golf around Atlanta courses, and at fifteen is given by many experts a fine chance to win a championship within the next two years.

Another golfing star among the champions is Miss Alex Stirling, who at eighteen has won the woman's golf championship and is undoubtedly the finest woman golfer in America. And to these might be added Perry Adair, who at fourteen was runner-up in a Southern championship.

In Football Atlanta, in a football way, calls attention to Coach J. W. Heisman, the old Pennsylvania end from 1891, who is one of the greatest football instructors in the history of sport. Seven years before the forward pass was even discussed, Heisman advocated its adoption, only to be laughed at.

SYRACUSE STARTS WORK ON BASEBALL PARK CHANGES

To Increase Capacity; War Won't Affect New York State League Baseball, Says Manager O'Neill

Syracuse, April 5. — Signs of spring were in evidence at Star Park when a force of workmen employed, invaded the sacred precincts of the National pastime and began to remove the debris of winter.

Work of putting the park in shape will consume most of the time between now and the season's inaugural. When the workmen have removed all the debris, a force of carpenters will be set to work to increase the capacity of the park and to reinforce the present grandstand and bleachers.

After Bill Martin Mike O'Neill believes there is a chance to bring Bill Martin, last year's shortstop, back to Star Park. Martin is slated to play with Bridgeport, Conn., in the Eastern League this season, but it is believed he prefers to play in Syracuse. If such is true, Martin would succeed Evans at the hot corner.

Martin proved a better batsman than Evans last year, hitting .256 as compared with Evan's .249. Evans, at second base, finished with a better fielding average, .64 against Martin's .63 at shortstop. Evan's experience makes him the more desirable athlete, but it is believed he would devote all his time to business, Martin might be the next best bet.

Going Ahead Despite War "War or no war, we have got to make arrangements to accommodate the fans," Owner Rubin said today. "There are no indications that a declaration of war will preclude State League baseball this year, and we do not expect any. However, we will go ahead and put the park in good shape and take our chances."

The advance guard of the Stars will begin to arrive at Florence, N. J., a week from today. Manager O'Neill hopes to receive his men signed by that time and enough players in camp to begin the training season with two full teams in the field. O'Neill is still on the lookout for two good pitchers, an outfielder and a third baseman, in case he finds that Martin will not be available.

PRINCETON DROPS ROWING Princeton, N. J., April 5. — Such a large number of Princeton oarsmen have left the University to enter some branch of the national service, that Coach Spaeth to-night decided to call off practice for the rest of the spring. Hardly a sufficient number of varsity crew men are left in college to fill the first boat. The Princeton athletic authorities have not disbanded any of the athletic teams as yet, but Dean McClellan announced to-night that he would immediately halt to all athletics in the event of war. The baseball squad is ready to start on its Southern trip to-morrow afternoon, but if Congress declares war before that time the trip will be abandoned.

Trevor Hogg, a varsity oarsman and captain of last fall's football team, left college a week ago to enter training for the mosquito fleet at Newport.

COLUMBIA MOBILIZES New York, April 5. — President Nicholas Murray Butler announced yesterday that Columbia University would be put on a war footing at once. Seniors who enlist for national service will receive their degrees in June, he said, and teaching appointments for the summer session and next year are cancelled if war conditions make it advisable.
